Nelson Stops All Auto Making Feb. 1

MOTOR PLANTS TO BE DEVOTED TO ARMS WORK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—Donald M. Nelson's first official act as chairman of the new war production board was the issuance of an order tonight prohibiting all production of automobiles and light trucks after Jan. 31.

Nelson announced the long expected order after seeing President Roosevelt this afternoon and receiving the chief executive's approval of his plans for a complete reorganization of the war production administrative machinery. These plans are expected to be made public tomorrow.

Army Provided For.

Today's auto order, approved during the afternoon at the first meeting of the war production board, affects pleasure cars and light trucks, whether for civilian or military use or for export. Nelson asserted that "all foreseeable military demands" for light trucks and passenger cars can be met from January production and from stocks on hand resulting from the order terminating sales after Jan. 1.

Manufacturers who are unable to complete their allotted January production before Feb. 1, Nelson said, may be granted permission to continue operating until Feb. 10 provided it does not interfere with conversion of their facilities to armament production.

[Leon Henderson, federal price administrator, assured dealers that used cars will not be rationed. Story on page 25.]

The wording of Nelson's order was the first indication that production of military as well as civilian passenger cars and light trucks was to be halted.

Fewer Cars for Public.

Use by the armed services of the new cars now in dealers' hands is expected to reduce materially the number of cars which will be available for sale to civilians under the government's rationing plan.

At the time automobile sales were halted, it was estimated that dealers had about 450,000 new passenger automobiles and about 38,000 light trucks on hand. Nelson said it was believed that military and export requirements could be met from this supply plus the quota of 229,017 cars and trucks manufactured during January.

Before gaining President Roosevelt's approval of his reorganization plans, Nelson discussed them with his board at a meeting which he termed "very, very successful." He described the new set-up as "streamlined to get action."

OPM to Be Eliminated.

As explained before the first meeting of his board this afternoon, Nelson's plan was believed to call for elimination of the OPM and blanketing of its personnel under the war board, the army and navy departments; also, for Ernest Kanzler of Detroit, long time associate of Henry Ford and present head of the OPM automotive branch, to supervise conversion of the automobile industry.

The new board, which will be advisory to Nelson, consists of Wallace; Lieut. Gen. William S. Knudsen, director of production for the war department; Price Administrator Leon Henderson; Sidney Hillman, in charge of war labor supply; Harry L. Hopkins, assistant to the President; Sec-

MAPS IN COLOR

Large scale maps in full color of New Zealand, Tasmania, and the Fiji Islands appear on the back page of this issue. These islands, which are described in a story on page 4, lie upon the edge of the Pacific war zone, and may figure in the conflict raging there. Readers are advised to retain the maps for future reference.

A large scale color map of the East Indies, featuring prominently the Netherlands Indies, against which the Japanese are campaigning, will appear in all issues of tomorrow's Tribune.

G. O. P. Elects New Deal Foe for Congress

Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 20 [Special].—Held by Democratic incumbents for the last 10 years, this state's 5th district congressional seat was won by Joseph E. Talbot, Republican, in today's special election. Talbot piled up a 3,615 vote margin over John S. Monagan, Democrat.

State Republican leaders hailed Talbot's victory as the most significant shift from New Deal policies so far recorded in the state. During the campaign, Talbot consistently attacked New Deal financing, and was actively supported by former Gov. Raymond Baldwin, who appealed for "a business chance for the small business man." Both candidates pledged support to President Roosevelt's war policies.

Warmup for State Fight.

Leaders of both major parties, seeking to arouse interest in the contest in the face of the war, told voters during the campaign that they regarded it as an important warmup for next November's general state election.

Commenting on Talbot's campaign, Tuesday morning's Waterbury [Conn.] Republican says:

"Monagan and his supporters have based their chief argument for his election on the contention that he is a Democrat and thus would back up President Roosevelt to a greater degree than a Republican.

"Talbot, on the other hand, has frequently argued that now, more than ever, the nation needs a two-party system consisting of a majority party and a strong minority party.

Talbot's Platform.

"Talbot has also advocated greater coöperation between management and labor; protection for the small business man and his employés, equality in priority rights, and care for the service men.

"Monagan has, in a number of broadcasts, spoken on ways and means which must be adopted when the nation swings back to a peacetime basis after the war."

Talbot is 47 years old and a state compensation commissioner. The vote showed huge Republican inroads into normally Democratic urban territory in Waterbury and Derby. The election was for a seat vacated by J. Joseph Smith, Democrat, recently appointed a federal district judge.

AT TIME LIKE THIS ARMY WANTS RUBBER MATS FOR CUSPIDORS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 [Special].—The senate, which in its day has included plenty of straight spitters, learned today that the army is taking bids on 18 inch rubber mats for cuspidors, each mat containing three pounds of rubber.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenburg [R., Mich.] called the senate's attention to an army bid invitation for 1,000 such mats and pointed out this will require one and one-half tons of rubber at a time the public is being asked to forgo use of rubber in baby bottle nipples, rubber panties, and tires.

"Perhaps a little drilling of the officers in straight spitting might be a good suggestion," the senator observed. The matter was passed on to the Truman committee, which is engaged in an investigation of the war program.

PLAN TO MAKE NATION'S COINS WITHOUT NICKEL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—Nickel will disappear entirely from America's 5 cent coins under a measure that started thru congress today. A senate judiciary subcommittee wrote into a pending bill language authorizing a new 5 cent piece which would be made half of copper and half of silver, instead of the present combination of three-quarters copper and one-fourth nickel.

Donald M. Nelson, production chief, asked the measure as a means of saving 435 tons of nickel a year. The provision was inserted in a bill expanding the government's war powers.

Gen. Marshall Backs Bill for Woman Corps

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—The house military affairs committee today began consideration of legislation to create a women's army auxiliary corps to take part in the nation's war effort. The bill, which was introduced by Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers [R., Mass.], is designed to place approximately 25,000 women between the ages of 20 and 45 in uniform to serve in noncombatant posts, releasing more soldiers for fighting duty.

Rep. Edith N. Rogers.

[Women in War Work, a new and helpful women's feature, appears on page 17.]

Secretary of War Stimson and Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, have indorsed the proposal. Gen. Marshall's approval was transmitted to the committee by letter.

Indicates Need for All.

Gen. Marshall described the proposal as "a sound method for meeting military requirements."

"I think it can be assumed," Gen. Marshall said, "that all of our available man power and woman power, in uniform and industry, will be needed to win this war."

Previously members of congress, including Rep. Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], committee chairman, have confessed a slight disagreement with the war department over this question.

Mrs. Rogers told the committee that members of her sex greeted the bill with enthusiasm. She said she has received hundreds of letters amounting to virtual enlistments in the women's corps.

Corps of 20,000 Expected.

Mrs. Rogers said that a corps numbering between 20,000 and 25,000 is expected before the end of the war. These women would be used at inside jobs and in confidential clerical positions.

Col. Ira Swift of the army general staff testified it would cost 10 million dollars to get the program under way.

He said the army already has drafted plans for mobilizing 12,000 women as a starter.

Rep. May said the committee will conduct further hearings on the measure.

U. S. SHIPPING ON EAST COAST AGAIN STRUCK

New U-Boat Attacks Reported by Navy.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—The navy announced today that enemy submarines operating off the Atlantic coast of the United States had made several attacks on vessels in addition to the three tankers which were sunk recently and the one which was damaged.

The vessels involved in the new atacks were not identified and no details of the new attacks were given.

The announcement said "strong countermeasures are being taken by units of the navy's east coastal command. It said also that submarine activity was "continuing from Cape Hatteras to Newfoundland" along the Atlantic coast.

Communique Tells Attacks.

A communique, covering events up to 11 a. m. Chicago time, said:

"Atlantic area — Enemy submarine activity is continuing off the east coast of North America from Cape Hatteras to Newfoundland. The sinkings of the tankers Norness, Coimbra, and Allan Jackson have been accompanied by attacks on other vessels within the territorial limits of the United States. Strong countermeasures are being taken by units of the navy's east coastal command.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

Four Attacks Previously Told.

In addition to the loss of the three tankers mentioned in the communique, the navy also had reported previously the torpedoing yesterday of the S. S. Malay, a tanker.

The Malay, however, was able to make the safety of an Atlantic port.

ESCAPES SUB, BUT NOT FISH

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 20 (AP).—A mariner who gave the final command from the bridge of the tanker Allan Jackson before a torpedo blasted her amidships told today how he escaped uninjured in the explosion and plunge into the sea—only to be bitten by a hungry fish.

He is Melvin A. Rand, 25 years old, the tanker's third officer.

Intent on his every word were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ned H. Rand of Orange, Mass., and Jean Bisbee, 22, of Athol, Mass.—that certain some one—who came to Norfolk by train for a joyous reunion.

One Hand Bandaged.

Rand's only noticeable injury was a bandaged hand. Fish did that to him while he clung to the wreckage of a lifeboat waiting for rescue. The tanker was torpedoed Sunday off the Atlantic coast.

"I was on the bridge when the torpedo struck," Rand said. "I saw the torpedo when it broke the surface about 125 feet away.

"I gave the order for 'hard left.' The torpedo struck us just forward of amidship, and I was knocked down. I slid down from the bridge to the quarterdeck. A lifeboat kept me from going overboard. We tried to get away in a lifeboat but it jammed. I jumped overboard. I thought the flames were going to get me.

Swims for Hour.

"I swam for an hour and then grabbed the lifeboat wreckage. I hung on to this for about two and a half hours.

"Some kind of fish bit my left hand. I think they were porpoises, they were so big. We could feel the fish bumping us. The fourth mate, Francis Bacon of New York, had lashed himself to the strongback [a spar used in launching lifeboats at sea], but became exhausted and drowned.

"Two and a half hours later I was picked up by the rescue ship and brought to Norfolk."

Thirteen of the tanker's crew members were rescued. It was feared 22 were lost.

Wavell to Have His Own Air Force in the Pacific

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 21 [Wednesday].—Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, chief of the allied high command in the southwestern Pacific, will have his own air arm consisting of bombers and fighters on the Libyan model, according to the Daily Mail air correspondent. The royal air force is expected to supply the commanding officer of the new air arm. The new commander is said to be junior to Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett of the United States, deputy supreme commander in the southwest Pacific.

HERE ARE DAY'S DEVELOPMENTS ON WAR FRONTS

Yesterday's developments on the world's fighting fronts:

The United States navy announced one of the most daring exploits of the war in the torpedoing of a Japanese ship in a Philippine bay by a mosquito boat. The craft darted into the bay at night and discharged its torpedoes at the 5,000 ton enemy ship as it ran a gantlet of enemy shore batteries and machine guns.

The speedboat then raced to safety while searchlights swept the waters of the bay in search of the raider. The lieutenant in command of the naval boat was commended by the navy department.

Sink Japanese Cruiser.

The navy announcement followed a statement by the war department telling of the sinking of a Japanese cruiser south of the Philippines by American bombing planes. A big Japanese tanker was set on fire in the same attack.

Gen. MacArthur's defenders of the Philippines were beset by another Japanese attack on the Island of Luzon. Far to the south Filipino troops fought the Japanese north of Davao on Mindanao Island.

From Singapore came word that the Japanese in western Malaya had advanced to within 60 mile of that British fortress. The Japanese claimed their advance forces were within 18 miles of the causeway which connects Malay peninsula with Singapore Island.

Thailand Attacks Burma.

The British revealed that Thailand troops had invaded southern Burma hard on the heels of a Japanese attack which had severed the narrow Burmese panhandle along the lower extremity of the appendage. Thailand is occupied by the Japanese.

Planes from a Japanese aircraft carrier bombed an air base on New Britain, Australian mandated island, 500 miles northeast of that continent.

The Russian army announced the capture of Mozhaisk, the last advanced German stronghold before Moscow. The reoccupation of Mozhaisk, which is 57 miles west of the Red capital, sent Adolf Hitler's troops reeling back along the route of Napoleon's retreat in 1812. German soldiers, who have survived the Russian offensive in this sector, were faced with a 200 mile retreat to the Dnieper river or entrapment by the claws of Russian pincers to the rear of Mozhaisk.

Raid Italian Airport.

The British announced explosions and fires were caused by an RAF raid on the Italian airdrome at Catania, Sicily. In Libya the British continued operations against axis troops.

DASH THRU FIRE OF ENEMY GUNS IN HARBOR RAID

Exploit Near Manila Wins Citation.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—A fast, tiny motor-torpedo boat of the United States navy with a nine man crew dashed into a Philippine bay, the navy announced tonight, ran a gantlet of machine gun and shore battery fire, and torpedoed a 5,000 ton Japanese ship.

The foray of the torpedo boat was apparently intended to support the operations of Gen. Douglas MacArthur against the Japanese on Bataan peninsula, between Manila bay and the South China sea. At the upper end and on the seaward side of the peninsula lies Subic bay. The attack occurred in Binanga bay, which is part of Subic bay.

The exploit, reminiscent of the daring exhibited by early American naval heroes in forays into the harbors of the Barbary pirates, won commendation for 30-year-old Lieut. John D. Bulkeley of Long Island City, N. Y., commander of the mosquito boat.

Meanwhile, MacArthur reported that the Japs had renewed their attack, concentrating on the center of his line, and that Filipino troops were battling the Japs on Mindanao Island, far to the south. He also informed the department that six army bombers had sunk a Japanese cruiser near Jolo, and had left a big Japanese tanker in flames.

41 Ships Destroyed.

This cruiser and the 5,000 ton ship, no description of which was given, brought to a total of 41 the number of Japanese vessels which have been destroyed by the American army, navy, and marine corps in a little more than six weeks of fighting.

Lieut. Bulkley was graduated from Annapolis in 1933, saw service on large surface vessels, but more recently began specializing in submarine chasers and torpedo boats.

The latter, known in the navy as "PT" boats, are very heavily armed, extremely speedy craft built for just such raids as Bulkeley and his crew carried out.

Each of these small craft carries four 50 calibre machine guns housed in two turrets driven by compressed air, and four 18 inch torpedo tubes. Thus they may be used either for lightning blows against surface ships or for speedy defensive action against low flying airplane attacks.

Make 84 Miles an Hour.

Each vessel carries one officer and eight men. The craft are powered by three motors each which have a total maximum output of 4,200 horse power. At top speed the fastest of these craft can make around 70 knots, about 84 land miles an hour.

Each boat costs about $250,000, approximating the cost of a four motored bombing airplane. The boats have double mahogany hulls.

The navy's communique follows:

"A motor torpedo boat under Adm. Hart's far eastern command entered Binanga bay, inside the entrance to Subic bay, Philippine Islands, and torpedoed an unidentified vessel of 5,000 tons in a night attack. This small boat carried out its difficult task while under fire of machine guns and three inch shore batteries. Lieut. John D. Bulkeley has been commended for executing his mission successfully."

Announcing the destruction of the Jap cruiser, the army added no details other than the sinking took place 100 miles off the Island of Jolo, midway between Mindanao and Borneo.

Since reports have indicated Japan was using Mindanao as a base for its attacks on Borneo and the Dutch East Indies, it was assumed that the enemy craft were in that area to support the invasion effort. Previous attacks have been made by American airmen in that region, particularly a raid on Japanese shipping in the harbor of Davao. Where the American bombers were based has been a secret.

Attack Renewed in Bataan.

Word from MacArthur that Filipino troops were engaged in a sharp battle with the Japs on Mindanao was received as a surprise. It had long ago been assumed that resistance there had ended.

Beaten back and brought to a standstill in a full scale onslaught, after an ineffectual effort to turn MacArthur's flank in Bataan, the Japanese renewed the attack at the center of the line, heavily supported from the air.

"The enemy has renewed the attack on American and Philippine troops on Bataan peninsula," the war department communique said. "Japanese pressure is particularly heavy at the center of the line. The attack is supported by aircraft. Three enemy airplanes were shot down during the last 24 hours.

"Gen. MacArthur has received a report from Mindanao telling of sharp fighting now in progress between Philippine troops and a Japanese force about 35 miles north of Davao.

"Six American army bombers successfully attacked a Japanese cruiser and a large tanker 100 miles off Jolo. Several direct hits were scored, sinking the cruiser and leaving the tanker in flames."

"YANKS TAKING IT"

BY CLARK LEE.

WITH THE USAFFE ON BATAAN PENINSULA, Jan. 19 [Delayed]—(AP).—American and Filipino artillerymen are more than holding their own in bitter day and night death dueling with Japanese gunners, despite severe handicaps and hardships imposed by lack of aerial support.

The Japanese have an edge on experience and aerial observation, plus the powerful weapons of air bombing and strafing. But the defenders of these islands have offset these disadvantages by courage and resourcefulness.

Equipment on both sides appears about equal. The defenders and the Japanese are using .75 mm. guns at close range and 155s against more distant targets. The Japanese also are equipped with 105s, believed supplied by Germany. American 75s mounted on "half-tracks" have proven extremely effective.

Guns Well Camouflaged.

Most of the artillery action in Bataan is taking place along the American right flank, where United States guns last week checked Japanese attempts at a break-thru, and paved the way for a successful infantry counterattack.

Japanese observation planes fly over almost incessantly. When they discover an American position they summon dive bombers and use tracer bullets to point out United States gun positions. At the same time they direct Japanese counterbattery fire. Then the Americans catch hell for awhile.

Camouflage is the American's only defense against detection, and they have become masters at it. I stood within 20 yards of a battery of big guns today and didn't spot the guns until they opened up with earth-shaking blasts.

The target was a large concentration of Japanese troops having a midday meal in a clearing six miles away. This was a definite objective, and the battery kept up constant fire as Mister Moto's observation planes kept pottering overhead.

Taking It and Giving It.

The Japanese fired twice the number of shells we had sent over, and Col. Alexander Quintard, regimental commander, explained, "that's what we call retaliatory fire. It looks like Tojo got a little riled, which means we probably got our target. We like it when we make him waste so many shells."

Col. Quintard praised highly the conduct of American officers and Filipino troops.

"All are taking it and handing it back in fine style, altho our work would be more effective with assistance of a little aerial spotting of targets and observation of results," he said.

Thruout the Japanese shelling the Filipino troops stuck to their telephones and lookout stations, noting results. After 30 minutes other United States batteries opened fire and "neutralized" Japanese guns, which meant they either hit the guns or made the gunners seek shelter.

While the Japanese were firing, Col. Quintard kept track of the shells, calling "here they come" as the whistle was heard, followed shortly by the explosion, the whirr of shrapnel, and then the distant boom of guns.

When the shooting stopped we brushed the dirt away, but discovered no one was hurt.

Forest Park Couple Learn of Son's Philippines Death

Wife is 'Pleased'

New York, Jan. 20 (AP).—"I'm very pleased" was all Mrs. Hilda Alice Bulkeley, 29, could say tonight when she learned that her husband, Lieut. John D. Bulkeley, had won navy commendation for his part in torpedoing a Japanese ship in a daring night raid in Philippine waters.

Mrs. Bulkeley last saw her husband in August when he left home on secret navy orders. In the last letter she received from him, written from the Cavite naval base a week before the Pearl Harbor attack, he said the navy was prepared "for anything."

Lieut. Bulkeley met his wife, daughter of the British port captain at Swatow, at a party aboard a British destroyer there. They were married in Shanghai three years ago and have a 16 month old daughter, Joan Isabel. Still a British subject, Mrs. Bulkeley applied for second citizenship papers a few days ago.

Draft Boards Get Record of Circuit Court Divorces

At the request of a majority of the county's 180 local draft boards, John E. Conroy, clerk of the Circuit court, mailed them a list yesterday of the 1,204 divorces granted by the court since the first draft registration day, Oct. 16, 1940. Victor Schlaeger, clerk of the Superior court, has begun work on a similar list which will contain more than 9,000 names. The information will be used by the boards to check against questionnaire records in the reconsideration of Class 3-A men.

Turk Steamer Carrying Food to Greece Aground

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 20.—The 2,300 ton Turkish steamer Kurtulus, carrying foodstuffs for Greece, ran aground in fog and heavy seas on Marmora Island, 12 miles off the Turkish coast in the Sea of Marmora, according to reports from Istanbul today. Rescue vessels have reached her.

JAPANESE ARMS SHOW INFLUENCE OF GERMAN HELP

Weapons and Methods Described.

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP).—Japan's army was described today in a military survey of the weapons used by it as "almost a poll-parrot copy of Der Fuehrer's hordes."

In the semiofficial Infantry Journal, Lieut. John Scofield also declared that "man for man, the Jap fighters are probably as efficient as the average in Europe."

"The army that Japan is matching against the democracies is well fed, cleanly uniformed, and about as completely equipped as that of any belligerent today," he asserted.

"Much of its material is old-fashioned and of conservative design, but what it lacks in improvements is balanced by plentiful quantities. For the most part the Japs have stuck to a few consistent models and this has eased the problem of supply.

Reflect German Influence.

"Many Japanese weapons and more than a few Japanese concepts of how to fight a war hark back to earlier German thought. Rifles, automatic pistols, and artillery, as well as the organization and tactical doctrines of the army reflect and betray the influence of German military instructors and advisers imported before the first World war."

The favorite Japanese army rifle was said by Scofield to be the 1905 model Arisaka, also known as the Meiji 38. It fires a cartridge of only .256 caliber, which aroused the expressed contempt of some United States army officers in the Philippines because its range and hitting power are substantially less than that of American infantry weapons.

Stress Use of Bayonet.

"One of the things most difficult for the occidental mind is the emphasis placed on use of bayonets and swords by the Japanese," Scofield observed. "They consider the bayonet the most essential weapon they carry and are taught to indulge in bayonet sticking whenever they can close with the enemy."

The Nambu 22½ pound light machine gun, "the weapon that has done the heavy work in the Japanese infantry attacks in China," was said to be remarkably easy to shoot and as easy to load.

Scofield, associate editor of the American Rifleman, reported further as to Japanese arms:

Their "trickiest arm" is a light simplified trench mortar or hand grenade thrower which may be handled by one or two men.

Tanks Resemble U. S. Types.

Japanese tanks closely resemble some American types. Heavy tanks which rumble along at 15 miles an hour have seen action in China. Anti-tank guns are relatively untried, as are anti-aircraft weapons. Field artillery is largely German in type.

Scofield said that in 1937 Japan was reported capable of yearly production of 10,000 guns, 1,000 trucks, and huge quantities of other material, but "undoubtedly she is doing better than that now."

Nevertheless, he continued, the biggest chink in Japanese armor is war economy, since "actually Japan has imported 85 per cent of her arms."

Scofield noted that each soldier is paid 10 yen [about $2.36] a month, eight of which goes to his family. His personal equipment is simple. Fully supplied with ammunition and rations, he carries a load of about 60 pounds.

JAPAN'S PARLIAMENT TO HEAR WAR REVIEW AT ITS MEETING TODAY

TOKIO, Jan. 20 [Official broadcast recorded by Associated Press].—The imperial diet today prepared to resume its 79th session tomorrow with much war business scheduled to come before it. The legislature has been in new year recess since Dec. 27.

In his capacity as war minister, Premier General Hideki Tojo will give a war review of 30 minutes to the peers, and navy minister, Adm. Shigetaro Shimada will give a review of five minutes.

The cabinet approved for submission to the diet a budget totaling $8,698,434,000 yen [$2,000,000,000 at nominal pre-war rates of exchange] for the 1942 fiscal year.

GERMAN RAIDERS KILL CIVILIANS IN ENGLISH TOWNS

LONDON, Jan. 20 (AP).—A lone German raider bombed and machine gunned a town on the northeast coast of Britain this morning, causing some casualties.

The air and home security ministries issued this communique:

"Shortly after dark a single enemy aircraft dropped bombs at two points on the coast of East Anglia. Some damage was done, principally to houses. There was a small number of casualties and some people lost their lives. Shortly after noon a single enemy aircraft dropped bombs at a point on the northeast coast of England. Some damage was done and there was a small number of casualties, some of which were fatal."

The admiralty issued this communique:

"The board of the admiralty regrets to announce the loss of H. M. S. trawlers Henriette [Lieut. A. V. Pearce, R. N. R.] and Irvana [Skipper J. L. Borritt, R. N. R.]. There were no casualties."

German guns on the French coast fired several rounds across the Dover strait tonight.

FIRST AMERICAN SOLDIERS ARRIVE IN GREAT BRITAIN

Land with Big Contingent of Canadian Airmen.

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Jan. 20 (AP).—The fact that a number of men of the United States army were among the latest contingent of Canadian troops embarking for Britain was released for publication by the Canadian censorship today, after word was received from London of the convoy's safe arrival in a British port.

Small numbers of United States soldiers have sailed in previous Canadian troop convoys as observers.

The most recent American party was given a send-off by Col. J. L. Ralston, Canadian defense minister, who paused during an inspection of Canadian troops to talk with the Americans before embarkation and wish them luck.

Hundreds of Flyers Arrive.

A BRITISH PORT, Jan. 20 (AP).—Hundreds of Canadian airmen, one of the largest contingents to reach Britain since the war began, disembarked here today from a convoy which brought further reënforcements for Canadian troops in England. It was the first troop convoy to arrive from Canada this year.

Aboard were pilots, navigators, ground crews, wireless operators, and mechanics for the air force and foresters, mechanics, ordnance, infantry, artillery, and service corps men for the ground forces.

"Free Czech" Soldiers in Group.

There also were more men for the "Free Czech" army and a Norwegian nurse.

The flyers and soldiers were dispersed among reception centers in southern England where they will become acclimated before being posted to army units and air squadrons thruout Britain.

Some bomber pilots will complete their training at operational training units.

U. S. Flyer Killed in Crash of Canadian Air Force Plane

MOOSEJAW, Sask., Jan. 20 (AP).—Names of two airmen attached to the Royal Canadian air force bombing and gunnery school, No. 2, Moosbank, Sask., who were killed when their plane crashed south of here yesterday, were revealed by RCAF officials today as Flight Lieut. J. A. Peterson, Regina, and Flying Officer C. F. Lawson, St. Joseph, Mo.

Britain's Mediterranean Army on Guard for Typhus

LONDON, Jan. 20 (AP).—Special measures have been taken to protect British troops in the Mediterranean basin against an extension of a typhus epidemic southward from eastern Europe, a London authority said today. Continental reports said that the louse borne disease, assuming "dangerous proportions" in eastern Europe, now had appeared in Spain.

[Typhus infection has been reported threatening many of Adolf Hitler's armies in Russia.]

THE Kitchen Kibitzer
By MARIAN CARTER

A look over the shoulder of the kitchen manager in an attempt to speed, lighten and add some novelty to her daily routine.

Pork liver is inexpensive, but high in nutritional value. Scald it before you cook it, and cook it very gently, by braising. Never scald calves' liver, and cook it by broiling, not braising.

Good appetizer: Avocado pulp, mashed and seasoned with onion juice, lemon and chili sauce. Spread it on crackers or melba toast.

Muffin batter wants to be lumpy, waffle batter smooth.

Raw cauliflower is swell for salads. Gives them that crunchiness that every salad needs.

Is there any better dessert than baked apples? Rome Beauties are the kind to choose these days. They're fat and red, and have lots of good baked apple flavor.

From a nutritional standpoint, it would be fine if all of us ate fish on Fridays. We need it once a week, or oftener.

Better leave more room between those drop cookies on the baking sheet. A fairly stiff drop dough will expand to twice its size. Some drop doughs spread out to three times their original circumference.

Butter is 20 per cent water, which is one reason why it doesn't make good pie crust. A 100 per cent fat is much better. But you can't beat butter for cakes, because of its flavor.

JAPANESE PUSH ON; 60 MILES TO SINGAPORE BASE

Enemy Planes Rain Bombs on British Stronghold.

SINGAPORE, Jan. 20 (AP).—The Japanese today advanced to within 60 miles of Singapore in western Malaya. There their blows were falling hard along a 30 mile sector stretching from the Muar river south to the vicinity of Batu Pahat. On the eastern front Japanese patrols penetrated to the area of Endau, about 75 miles above this base.

While the invaders' pressure still was rising, particularly against outnumbered Australians on the west, Japanese planes were in heavy action, loosing over Singapore bombs which fell indiscriminately upon military and residential areas alike.

Japs Hold Air Superiority.

The RAF was casting out its fighter craft in offensive sweeps centered about the Muar and British bombers were in action against enemy bases. However, not even these and the presence of United States bombers striking behind the Japanese lines appeared to have overturned the invader's aerial superiority.

It was the region of the Muar which of all was most critical—an area where the Australians had been slowly pushed back for the last two or three days in wild fighting running from artillery and tank action down to the most elemental sort of sniping in the jungle.

One Australian force survived an encirclement, formed by the enemy's infiltrations, and fought off much heavier forces until relief arrived. In some instances the Australians used hand grenades thrown point blank to knock out enemy tanks which could not be reached by antitank guns. Japanese crews crawling from their wounded vehicles were killed one by one by Australian infantrymen.

Damage Military Objects.

This morning's bombing of Singapore caused admitted damage to some military installations.

Civilian casualties were estimated at about 50 killed and 150 injured.

One Japanese navy plane and one enemy bomber were shot down in this raid, while another enemy bomber was probably destroyed, the British communique reported.

[This official mention of Japanese naval planes in action against Singapore raised the possibility that a Japanese aircraft carrier was in action.]

From yesterday thru today a total of at least six Japanese planes were destroyed and enemy craft shot down to date in Malaya were thus brought to an aggregate of 41 for certain and an additional 16 "probables."

"18 Miles from Causeway."

TOKIO, Jan. 20 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—Advance Japanese forces were claimed to be within 18 miles of the causeway connecting the Malaya peninsula with Singapore Island tonight, while farther up the peninsula 20,000 Australians were reported cut off.

However, the news agency Domei, reporting these developments, waved aside the prospect of any immediate offensive against Singapore. It asserted that the Japanese first would concentrate on crushing opposition on the Malaya mainland and consolidating their new won position in Johore state facing Singapore.

The Domei account said the Australians were trapped in the Segamat sector, some 95 miles north of Singapore, by Japanese columns in a flanking movement along the east and west coasts. Japanese artillery, it added, is playing a prominent part in "inclosing operations."

At Singapore itself, the news agency said, fuel depots fired by Japanese air raiders still were ablaze. In aerial operations there and elsewhere imperial headquarters reported 27 British planes were downed Sunday and Monday.

Claim Japs Shell Forts.

LONDON, Jan. 20 (AP).—Exchange Telegraph reported hearing a broadcast by the German controled Paris radio tonight that Japanese artillery has started shelling the fortifications of Singapore and that the bombardment was being answered by the heavy guns of the British port. This, however, was not confirmed from any other source. The Paris radio has been used in the past to air extravagant claims.

ACTING PREMIER SAYS BURMA WILL GET NEW CABINET

RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 19 [Delayed]—(AP).—Acting Premier Sir Paw Tun, smiling, elderly barrister knight whose wife is American, said today that the cabinet of the imprisoned U Saw would resign and that he [Tun] would form a new one. The new cabinet will devote itself to the war effort and Burma's defense, he said. U Saw was arrested Jan. 17 by the British for conspiring with the Japanese.

VICTORIES ON 3 FRONTS REPORTED BY CHINESE; 3 KEY POINTS RETAKEN

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 20 (AP).—Chinese successes on three fronts were reported by the high command tonight. A communique said that at Hwaiyang, in East Honan province, severe blows were dealt to the besieged Japanese garrison and a unit which attempted to reënforce it. This action took place on Thursday, the communique said, adding that a key point near Hwaiyang was recaptured the same day.

On the central Hupeh front the Chinese were reported to have recaptured two points on the outer defenses of Menyang on Tuesday. In Inner Mongolia, on the Suiyuen front, the Chinese were said to be extending their guerrilla operations.

A late report from Changsha was said to have revealed that the Japanese 3d and 6th divisions each suffered approximately 10,000 casualties.

GRAPES $6 AND SALMON $3 PER POUND IN LONDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 20. — Exorbitant prices are being charged for what before the war were considered only moderate luxuries. Today grapes were selling for 30 shillings [about $6 a pound, while fresh salmon sold for 15 to 21 shillings [about $3 to $4.20] a pound.

Home grown pears were selling for three shillings six pence to four shillings [about 72 to 80 cents] a pound. Mushrooms bring eight shillings [about $1.60]. Most prices quoted are about 1,000 per cent above the prewar figures.

Lord Woolton, food minister, today announced that beginning Monday, the maximum retail prices for dates will be seven pence [about 14 cents]; for raisins, sultanas, currants, dried applies, prunes, and figs 9 pence [about 18 cents] a pound, and dried apricots, peaches, and pears 1 shilling [about 20 cents].

Britain Getting Fleeced By a Winter Coat Racket

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 20. — The latest racket reported here is the manufacture of men and women's overcoats from traveling blankets, which are sold without coupons at fancy prices. Racketeers call from door to door, buying up old blankets cheaply. These are sold to black [illegal] market tailors, who turn them into winter coats.

14 British Hostages to Be Exchanged for Six French

VICHY, France, Jan. 20 (AP).—Fourteen British hostages, held at Vals-les-Bains for three months, will be exchanged for six pro-Vichy Frenchmen freed in Syria, the secretariat of information announced today. Among the Englishmen held was John Amery, son of L. S. Amery, British secretary for India.

CHARGE GERMAN TROOPS RAZED 3 SERBIAN TOWNS

LONDON, Jan. 20 (AP).—The Jugo-Slav government in exile today quoted eye witnesses as authority for a report that German dive bombers and artillery leveled three Jugo-Slav towns in reprisal for raids by the Jugo-Slav army of Gen. Draja Mihailovitch.

"No living soul has been left," in Rudnik, 100 miles south of Belgrade, and Uzice and Gornji Milanovac, 80 miles south of Belgrade, also are in ruins as the result of German attacks, it was said. The Germans were declared to have shot hundreds of persons at Uzice. The bodies were thrown into a ditch and tanks were run over the earth to conceal the grave, the eye witness was quoted as saying.

Reports also said that typhus was raging in Belgrade, where the food situation was "precarious," especially because of an acute shortage of milk for children.

DENTISTS, PATIENTS ROBBED.

Two men last night held up the dental offices of Doctors H. P. Kessler, Howard Oringel, and Charles M. Salk at 3801 Harrison street and escaped with $108 taken from them and from four patients. The bandits fled in a dark sedan.

THAILAND PUPPET ARMY INVADES SOUTHERN BURMA

Troops Head for Port; Battle Rages.

LONDON, Jan. 20 (AP).—Troops of Thailand, presumably under direction of the Japanese who have occupied their country, tonight were reported by Reuters news service to have attacked southern Burma 60 miles northeast of the important port of Moulmein.

The Indian radio at Madras said the invasion started near Myawaddi on the Burma-Thai frontier at the northern extremity of the 400 mile Burmese panhandle bordering the puppet country.

The blow followed closely a Japanese success of yesterday when the invaders bisected the narrow appendage, seizing the coastal port of Tavoy and its airport.

Battle Thai Forces.

Allied forces, including perhaps Chinese troops which have been sent to aid the defense of Burma and prepare a counter blow against Japanese held territory, fought the Thai forces. Before reaching Moulmein the invaders would have to cross a difficult 2,000 foot mountain range and rugged jungle terrain.

Using possibly the conquered airfield at Tavoy, Japanese bombers roared to an assault on both Moulmein and Rangoon, across the Gulf of Maratan. But flyers of the allied forces also were active sweeping over enemy occupied territory in Thailand on scouting missions.

This was the first report of Thai troops in action. The country, capitulated with scarcely a shot fired when the Japanese appeared at her frontier. Air bases and supply depots sprang up so quickly that many observers suspected the conquest was made with "silver bullets."

Bomb Australian Isle.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 20 (AP).—Planes from a Japanese aircraft carrier took the war today to the island of New Britain, strategically situated nearly 500 miles northeast of the Australian mainland on the allied route of supply from the east.

Both bombers and fighters struck in force at the air base of Rabaul, the main city on the Australian mandated island. Air Minister A. S. Drakeford, reporting the midday assault, said the meager information available indicated that some military damage was caused.

New Britain is in the Bismarck archipelago nearly 3,500 miles east of Singapore, about 4,000 miles southwest of Honolulu and about 2,500 miles west of the American Samoan islands. The aircraft carrier may have been based on the Japanese mandated Carolines to the north.

Jap Assault Line Spreads.

The attack extended by nearly 2,000 miles the Japanese line of assault on southwest Pacific islands, an assault which has been carried out methodically on bases from Sumatra, Netherlands East Indies, eastward.

Actually there now is a lull in the East Indies attack. Dutch official reports today covered only two raids, one on Sabang, on the Island of We, 5 miles off the northern tip of Sumatra, and another—by a single bomber—on Siebolga, on the Sumatra west coast.

Only slight damage was done in both attacks but the 40 minute raid on Sabang killed two persons and wounded 40. One person was killed and two were wounded at Siebolga.

Dutch naval planes, continuing the aerial conteroffensive in which United States bombers have participated, twice raided the Japanese held airport at Kuching, capital of occupied Sarawak, starting fires and damaging the field.

24 JAPANESE SHIPS DESTROYED BY DUTCH DEFENDERS OF INDIES

LONDON, Jan. 20 (AP).—An official summary credited the East Indies' defenders today with having sunk or destroyed 24 Japanese ships from Dec. 13 to Jan. 16. The vessels were described as 2 cruisers, 4 destroyers, 11 transports, 3 tankers, 1 merchantman, 2 lighters or invasion barges, and 1 other vessels.

The Netherlands government information bureau, which issued the figures, said they were based on Indies communiques.

It said three Japanese cruisers, three transports, one aircraft carrier and one other ship had been heavily damaged and two other transports possibly damaged.

South African Police Held; Hostile Activities Hinted

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Jan. 20 (AP).—Many uniformed men and detectives were detained today in a roundup of Johannesburg police suspected of subversive activity. Some were brought in by army trucks, while others were arrested at the central barracks. It was estimated that about 300 men were detained. No incidents were reported.

CAMERAMAN GETS GRAPHIC SHOT OF WAR—HE'S IN IT

AP Photographer Tells How Japs Sank His Ship.

[Another Associated Press man—one who covers a world at war with a camera—has been the victim of an axis submarine attack. This time it is Frank E. Noel, 37 years old, veteran photographer who has been covering the Singapore front, who writes a first-hand story of a torpedoing off Sumatra.]

BY FRANK E. NOEL.

PADANG, Sumatra, Netherlands East Indies, Jan. 20 (AP).—Suffering from thirst and the blistering of a tropical sun, 28 of us out of a ship's company of 77 arrived here today after a Japanese submarine sank our India-bound ship five days ago.

Our ship apparently was the first victim of Japanese submarines operating in the Indian ocean. It was attacked by torpedo and shell fire about midnight Jan. 14 some 270 miles off the west coast of this Dutch East Indies island.

[The Japanese, having reached the Strait of Malacca along Malaya, across from the east coast of Sumatra, apparently have cut off the direct route from Singapore to India and now have put their submarines into the Indian ocean to attack British shipping taking the roundabout but less exposed route west of Sumatra.]

The shelling finished an attack begun when a torpedo hit the vessel's engine room, killing five and injuring four crew men.

Saves Equipment, Tho Injured.

Altho I suffered leg injuries, I got overside in a lifeboat with some of my photographic equipment, altho most of it and all my personal belongings were lost.

The submarine cruised on the surface for half an hour within 100 yards of our four lifeboats but made no attempt to shell or machine gun us.

Then it fired five shells into the crippled ship and she sank.

Two Boats Still Missing.

Two lifeboats reached shore in the Batoe Island group, off the Sumatran coast north of here, yesterday. The other two boats have not been sighted, but are believed to be in the Siberoet Island area.

For the first two days all four boats remained within hailing distance of each other, then high winds and a rough sea separated them.

The sun broiled us and we suffered from thirst, since the lifeboat's casks were smashed. Natives of a small island supplied us with water, however.

NOEL WORKED IN CHICAGO.

Frank Noel is a native of Dalhart, Tex., and worked on newspapers in Kansas City, Oklahoma City, Chicago, and Wichita before joining the Associated Press. He had been an Associated Press staff photographer in Buffalo, Albany, Miami, and Atlanta prior to his present foreign assignment.

FLAMES OF WAR LICK AT BRITAIN'S ISLAND DOMAINS

New Zealand, Tasmania, Fijis Near Conflict.

The color maps presented oh the back page of today's TRIBUNE show islands which may figure importantly in the war—New Zealand, Tasmania, and the Fijis, all of which lie on the edge of the western Pacific war zone.

Most important are the two large islands of New Zealand, North and South, the first covering 44,281 square miles and the latter 58,092 square miles. The total area of the British dominion of New Zealand, which includes several smaller islands, is 103,722 square miles, about the same as Colorado.

The 1939 population of the dominion was estimated at 1,626,486, of whom nearly 90,000 were Maoris, aborigines of the Polynesian race.

Dominion Covers Wide Area.

New Zealand, which lies about 1,200 miles east of southeastern Australia, has jurisdiction over Western Samoa, the Union Islands, including Tokelau; some islands of Oceania, and the Ross dependency, which is a part of the Antarctic zone. Thus, in a governmental sense, the dominion and the lands over which it exercises control stretch from the Antarctic to the tropics.

The capital of New Zealand, on North Island, is Wellington. It has an estimated population of 158,000. Auckland, the largest city, also on North Island, has an estimated population of 225,000.

Agriculture and animal husbandry are the base of New Zealand's economic production, meat, wool, and butter being exported normally in large quantities, chiefly to the British Isles. Wheat, oats, and barley are produced mainly for home consumption.

Industrial Output Booms.

In 1937-'38 about 100,000 persons were employed in New Zealand's manufacturing plants, but since the beginning of the war in 1939 industry here has been stepped up greatly. A system of industrial control was put into effect in October, 1940.

New Zealand has approximately 3,400 miles of railroads, mostly government owned, and nearly 90,000 miles of highways. Air routes cover about 1,900 miles.

The dominion has a military conscription system similar to that of the United States. All men between 18 and 45 years of age are subject to the draft. Those between 20 and 40 are liable for overseas service.

Tasmania Near Australia.

Tasmania is an island lying about 140 miles south of Australia. It is the main island of the Australian state of Tasmania, which includes several lesser islands. The Tasmanian state covers 26,215 square miles, making it a little larger than West Virginia. The population is about 240,000. The chief city is Hobart, the capital.

Tasmania is mainly an agricultural and live stock breeding country. Its chief crops are wheat, oats, fruits, potatoes, hops, and hay. Meat, wool, butter, and cheese are other important farm products. Its mines produce copper, zinc, tin, and gold.

The Fiji Islands, numbering about 250, constitute the most important archipelago of Polynesia, and lie about 1,100 miles north of New Zealand. They constitute a British crown colony officially known as Fiji.

The area of the Fiji Islands is 7,083 square miles. The population on Jan. 1, 1939, was 210,518. The capital of the colony is Suva, on Viti-Levu, the principal island. Sugar, copra, bananas, pineapples, and gold are the principal products.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 20 (AP).—United States Consul General Erle R. Dickover has been accepted for service in volunteer air raid precautions duties.

Australia Acts on Conscription; Canada Sees Draft Law Change

May Call Up All Men

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 20 (AP).—A decision by Australia's war cabinet which in effect makes all civilian males liable to conscription for the armed forces or for industry was reported authoritatively today.

Labor departments of the various states would be the sole channels for the hiring of men either by the government or by private employers, it was said.

Dispatches from Auckland, New Zealand, said New Zealand also was expanding her armed forces by calling up the first married men to be summoned since the start of the war. They will be trained for territorial [home] service only.

Plan National Register.

Under the Australian decision labor departments of various states will be the sole channels for employment of men by either government or private employer. The departments will compile a national service register of available man power.

The cabinet prepared for another two years of war after a review of plans for munitions, supply, and general production.

Army Minister Francis Forde said Australian factories were expected to reach their capacity in munitions and war supplies about June. New goals for production were set and many industries were instructed to expand until June, 1943.

The cabinet approved the use of aliens for national defense. Refugees from German occupied areas and nationals of neutral countries will be called up to form engineering battalions for home defense.

Prisoners to Be Used.

Plans were also made to use war prisoners on certain public and private works in areas where other labor was unavailable. Italians are to be used for fruit packing.

These measures were expected to release 10,000 soldiers for military duties.

Army Minister Forde, in a message to Maj. Gen. Henry Gordon Bennett, commander of Australian forces in Malaya, promised additional air support.

"The government will continue to take all possible steps to expedite strengthening the air support for your gallant troops," Forde said.

Situation Grave, Premier Says.

Prime Minister John Curtin expressed hope that combined representations of China and Australia "will result in the British government becoming aware of the intense gravity of the Pacific situation."

He has repeatedly expressed fear that Britain's preoccupation with the war in Europe and Africa would minimize western Pacific reënforcements until too late.

Today he called attention to a statement by Sun Fo, son of Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese republic, to the effect that China might be forced to make a separate peace with Japan unless positive help were forthcoming.

"If China sued for a separate peace, it would completely end our chances of Russian participation in the Pacific," Curtin added.

Australia Is Perturbed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 20.—With indications that Singapore is menaced seriously by the Japanese, there is growing pressure that the allies immediately recognize the war in the Pacific to be of major importance and make necessary dispositions of navies, air forces, and troops to stop Japan now.

Sir Earle Page, Australia's special envoy, today told the Royal Empire society that Australia insisted "on a voice in the policy and conduct of the war as much to maintain the integrity of the British empire as assuring its own safety as an integral part of the empire.

"This falling back in Malaya, day after day, under the pressure of superior forces, while we had abundant reserve of men and material unorganized and unexploited, has emphasized how dilatory has been the organizing of immense resources of the British empire, China, and our other allies."

Expect 30 Age Limit

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 20 [Special].—Increase in the draft age for home defense and the possibility of a national referendum to release the government and members of parliament from their two year old election pledge not to send drafted men overseas are likely to be the principal proposals placed before the new session of parliament which opens here on Thursday.

The government, it is expected, also will lay before the house its plans for more complete utilization of man and woman power in the armed forces, in industry, and in agriculture.

Until now only single men between 21 and 24 years have been subject to draft, altho the national resources act has been amended once to increase the age limit to 26.

Expect Increase to 30 Years.

Now it is expected the limit will be extended to include men of 30 and that provision will be made for their allocation to the armed forces, industry, and agriculture according to their qualifications and physical condition.

Parliament will meet tomorrow for formal closing of the session which began in November, 1940. When the new session is opened on Thursday the governor general, the earl of Athlone, will read the "king's speech" or government declaration of policy.

The proposal to hold a referendum on the overseas service issue will not be included in this declaration, it is said, but will be made in a separate declaration by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King next week. In asking for release from pledges, the government, it is said, will be asking for enabling powers which are beyond the capacity of the present legislature to give.

Test Issue on Feb. 9.

If, as is expected, the announcement is made next week, it will become a test issue in the by-elections which will be held on Feb. 9 when Opposition Leader Arthur Meighen and two newly appointed ministers are among those seeking election. Two by-elections will be held in the province of Ontario and two in Quebec.

Among other items on the program for the new session will be the passage of a 3 billion dollar budget with increased demands for economy in ordinary expenditure, a renewed fight by farmers for parity prices, and the preparation for launching of another 600 million dollar loan.

PLANS TO OPPOSE RELEASE MOVE OF SPEED TRAPPERS

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin announced last night he would oppose any effort to release from the Bridewell members of the speed trap ring from Dixmoor, Ill., who victimized hundreds of motorists. The prison sentences of those convicted expire today, but all have large fines either to pay or work out at $1.50 a day before they can be released.

One of those convicted, Charles Paduano, a policeman, filed a pauper's petition in Criminal court yesterday, asking Chief Justice Robert Jerome Dunne to release him because he is ill and unable to work out his fine or pay it. Attorney George Crane, representing Tony Bader, another former policeman, served notice he would file a similar petition today.

Others convicted were Robert Grecco, a policeman; Charles Special, former mayor of the south side village, and Charles Braun, the justice of the peace who imposed the fines on the motorists. All were sentenced to 1 year each in the Bridewell on conspiracy convictions. Fines of $500 each were imposed upon the policemen and $2,000 fines on Special and Braun.

BRITONS FELLED BY HOOCH SOLD IN NIGHT CLUBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The casualty wards of London hospitals are treating victims of night club hooch racketeers, it was learned today. Some of the patients have shown symptons of methyl or wood alcohol poisoning, which killed or blinded thousands of persons during the prohibition era in the United States.

A West End hospital medical officer told of one man "who undoubtedly had been taking wood spirits," which he obtained at a night club. Several young officers are among the victims. Authorities are said to be alarmed at the number of royal air force men going to these clubs.

To stop this and the "house to house gambling racket," Minister of Home Security Herbert Morrison has organized a special squad of detectives, including women.

CLAIM CHURCHILL TACTICS ARE GAG ON PARLIAMENT

Fight Move to Force Confidence Vote.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 21 [Wednesday].—Several Conservative members of parliament already have made urgent representations to government whips against Prime Minister Churchill's threat to force a vote of confidence in the forthcoming debate on the war situation, it was reported this morning.

Churchill yesterday in this first appearance before the house of commons since his return from America put down an effort to force an immediate parliamentary discussion of British reverses in the Pacific. He promised commons a three day debate soon on the whole war outlook and announced that if any challenge to his government then arose he would call for a vote of confidence.

"I propose myself to open debate and if necessary to wind it up," he told commons.

Charge Gag on Parliament.

Influential Conservatives, altho members of Churchill's own party, declare that such tactics amount to gagging parliament. They argue, Wilson Broadbent, Daily Mail political correspondent, wrote, that "criticism is the life blood of democracy, even in wartime, and the prime minister should not show personal resentment [to criticism] in this way."

Churchill, however, is said to be in a defiant mood, determined not to apologize for anything that has happened, at home or in the far east, and determined to defend all his ministers, civil servants, administrators abroad, and service chiefs.

Indicative of Churchill's mood, Broadbent declared, is the fact that "he has experts working in Britain sounding the feelings of the public toward him personally and his government." Churchill is said to have tested public reaction in this way before, when criticism in parliament was running high.

"Strongest Fighting Machine."

The Daily Express in an editorial stressed Churchill's demand for "confidence in his government as a whole," and said:

"Despite all its handicaps of complacency, unpreparedness, and slowness, the British empire, with Churchill as leader, is the strongest fighting machine in this war."

The Daily Sketch, in expressing the hope that Churchill will not force the issue on the vote of confidence, said:

"The whole nation is behind his leadership, but it is there of its own free will. It isn't being driven and impatience with its degrees of willingness will do no good."

The Daily Mail said:

"It should be said at once that the country stands firmly behind Churchill, but it by no means feels the same confidence in some of the members of his team."

Divided on Broadcasts.

Other comment was concerned chiefly with Churchill's suggestion that upon the delivery of his forthcoming war review and of other future major statements recordings be made for subsequent broadcast.

Most newspapers suggested that the public would welcome this precedent breaking innovation, but the majority of members of parliament, particularly members of the Conservatives' 1922 committee and the Labor party, were said to be bitterly opposed on the ground that it would give the government a powerful advantage over the opposition.

The News Chronicle complained that the authority of commons already is dangerously weakened and the innovation would "put the prime minister in a position of authority without constitutional precedent. It might prove the first step . . . toward government, not by parliament, but by direct appeal to the masses. That way lies dictatorship."

In parliament yesterday the question was raised whether, if the prime minister were allowed to broadcast, members of parliament in replying would be given the same privilege.

BREAK WITH AXIS FLATLY REFUSED BY ARGENTINA

Castillo Is Unwilling to Change Stand.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 20 (AP).—Argentina's position at the Rio de Janeiro conference—where she is reported unwilling to support proposals to break relations with the axis—"will not undergo any change," Acting President Ramon S. Castillo declared tonight.

Ramon S. Castillo.

[Stripped to its essentials, this statement places Argentina in the position of refusing to sever diplomatic relations with Germany, Japan, and Italy.]

Castillo conferred tonight at his summer home with Acting Foreign Minister Guillermo Rothe. This meeting was believed to concern the Rio conference, but neither Castillo nor Rothe made any statement afterward.

Castillo, in an interview at his summer home in nearby Martinez, said Argentina had not veered from her position of neutrality toward all warring nations, except the United States, which she has declared a nonbelligerent. By holding the United States nonbelligerent the government opened its ports to unlimited stays by United States warships.

The acting president's declaration came in the midst of reports that Argentina might join the other American republics to put up a solid hemispheric front against the axis as proposed at the current Pan-American conference of foreign ministers at Rio de Janeiro.

Calls Position "Open and Frank."

Castillo asserted that Argentina's position "is open, frank, and loyal and represents, right or wrong, the opinion of the country."

"Argentina's position," he said, "has been misinterpreted to the point where they say Argentina is not going to collaborate in the foreign ministers' conference. But Argentina, which defends the thesis that it believes best for America, will collaborate."

By this he apparently meant collaboration on all hemisphere matters excluding a unanimous break with the axis.

Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, chief of the Argentine delegation at Rio de Janeiro, is "carrying out instructions given him by the cabinet," the acting president declared.

Dashes Conference Hopes.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 20 (AP).—The statement of Acting President Ramon S. Castillo in Buenos Aires that Argentina's attitude would not change dashed cold water tonight on the hopes of 19 other American republics that they could induce Argentina and Chile to support immediate rupture of relations with the axis.

In the face of this Dr. Eduardo Anze Matienzo, Bolivian foreign minister in charge of reporting out the resolution for debate scheduled Thursday by the Pan-American conference, said he still was confident that unanimity of the 21 American republics ultimately would be achieved.

Other delegates, however, were less hopeful. Their attitudes contrasted strongly with the optimism of this afternoon. The belief grew that the 19 supporters of the break with the axis would go ahead without Argentina and possibly Chile.

Seeks to Choose Time.

Argentina was reported authoritatively this afternoon as prepared to sign a declaration for a rupture of axis relations if allowed to choose her own time to put it into effect.

There were denials of reports that President Getulio Vargas of Brazil had telephoned Castillo in an effort to change the Argentine stand, but informed sources insisted the Brazilian executive was maintaining close touch with Castillo.

An unconfirmed report said Argentina's foreign Minister, Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, had invited United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles to fly to Buenos Aires to discuss the situation with Castillo. Ruiz Guinazu denied this.

Six nations—Brazil, the United States, Cuba, Mexico, Colombia, Venezuela—were pushing the proposal for an immediate break with the axis, and Vargas' decision to telephone Castillo came after a conference between Welles, Ruiz Guinazu, and Oswald Aranha, Brazilian foreign minister.

In a dramatic conference in the splendor of Itamaraty palace, Sumner Welles, and Oswaldo Aranha, Brazil's foreign minister, were closeted with representatives of Venezuela, Colombia, and Cuba—all staunch advocates of a break.

CANAL ZONE DEFENSES EXPANDED; NEARLY ALL OF PANAMA GUARDED

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Jan. 20 (AP).—The tight defenses thrown around the Panama canal now have been extended to almost all of Panama.

Airfields, a generous scattering of them basing combat planes "ready for business," dot the coastland and the interior. New defenses have been thrown up against a possible seaborne invasion of Panama.

The flat lowland of Panama's Pacific coast, much of it naturally forbidding to unwanted visitors because of its swampiness and volcanic roughness, has become far more hostile with installation of the new defenses.

Where sandy beaches give way to swamps on the shore, strong defenses face the sea, supported by many attack bases.

The air bases are of all sizes and types, from tiny dust-blown pastures to full scale airdromes.

Pilots and their crews sleep beside scattered planes, ready for almost instant take-offs.

All the bases have defense forces to protect them against a surprise attack. Machine gun nests and emplacements pockmark the open fields and fill unsuspected nooks and crannies.

The men may go shirtless in some of the sun baked camps but they always are fully armed.

FATALLY SHOT; SUSPECT HELD.

Raymond Willford, colored, 17 years old, 5909 Calumet avenue, was wounded fatally yesterday by shots fired thru the door of the home of a friend, Francis Travis, also colored, at 5647 Michigan avenue. Wabash avenue police were holding Frank Charles, 35, colored, 5649 Michigan avenue, as a suspect.

MEXICO PLEDGES U. S. FULL AID AS GENERALS MEET

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 20 (AP).—The United States was pledged the fullest coöperation from Mexico today by Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, former Mexican president, in a conference with Lieut. Gen. John L. Dewitt, commanding general of the western defense command and 4th army.

The meeting was the initial announced conference of military leaders of the two countries on the Pacific coast since the simultaneous announcements Jan. 12, notifying the world that they would defend jointly their respective territories.

The announcements stated that, by action of President Roosevelt and President Camacho, a joint Mexican-United States defense commission would function somewhat after the manner of the joint Canadian-United States defense board created in 1940.

MEXICO TO CURB AXIS ESPIONAGE AND PROPAGANDA

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 20 (AP).—The special anti-fifth column committee of the chamber of deputies announced plans today for control of axis-directed propaganda, sabotage, and espionage. The program includes a pro-democracy campaign in the Mexican press, radio, and screen, and rigid prohibition of axis propaganda; a broad definition of sabotage as any activity hindering Mexico's industrial and agricultural production on behalf of the united nations, including profiteering, hoarding, spreading of false rumors and work stoppage; and federal legislation to empower the executive department to combat espionage more effectively.

Army in Puerto Rico to Direct Island's Blackouts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 20.—Announcing today that the army will direct the island's blackouts hereafter, Maj. Gen. James L. Collins, commanding the department, said the decision did not mean martial law. The announcement followed a conference between Collins and Gov. Rexford Guy Tugwell, whose removal was asked of President Roosevelt yesterday by leaders of two Porto Rican political parties as the only means to speed up civilian defense.

BAKER INJURED BY DOUGH MIXER.

Albert Korczak, 36 years old, 815 North Oakley avenue, a baker, was injured critically last evening when he tumbled into a huge dough mixing machine in a bakery at 2443 Division street. At St. Mary's hospital it was said that amputation of his right arm might be necessary.

BOLIVIA PRESSES FOR SOLID BLOC IN PAN-AMERICA

Delegate Urges Ouster of Dissenters.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 20.—Col. Medina, under chief of staff of the Bolivan army, told the Tribune correspondent today that no half measures are to be considered by the Pan-American conference of foreign ministers because they would make it a complete failure.

Col. Medina said that if unanimous decisions cannot be reached, those nations opposing the resolutions should be considered as removed from the Pan-American bloc and even subjected to an economic, political, and commercial blockade.

Argentina still is the principal stumbling block preventing complete solidarity. There is a feeling among many diplomats here that Argentina's government does not represent the majority voice of her people. Some delegates expressed the opinion that Argentina can be forced to go along if sufficient pressure is exerted along economic and commercial lines.

Brazil for Solidarity.

No matter what the final position of Argentina may be, Brazil is 100 per cent in favor of complete solidarity. President Vargas has put his cards on the table and means to stand against the axis powers, even if other countries hesitate to vote for the severance of relations. Authoritative sources say Brazil will adopt strict measures against sister countries who fall out at the last minute.

Owing to the firm stand taken by Brazil, it is reliably reported that an important Brazilian army official will resign on account of his pro-Nazi sympathies.

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles has limited his statements to the press to short talks dealing with the program of the preliminary work of the delegations.

The impression gathered from the Welles talks is that the delegates are sparing no efforts to make certain that all the 21 American republics sign the resolution severing relations with the axis.

Americans on Committee.

Subcommittees resumed their deliberations this evening in an attempt to solve various intricate problems. The United States members on the committee for the control of exports are Wayne C. Taylor, Carl Spaeth, and Harry D. White.

On the committee for arrangements for the increased production of strategic materials, Warren Lee Pierson, Leslie A. Wheeler, and Howard J. Trueblood have been appointed. Spaeth is the lone representative in the group working on arrangements for furnishing essential imports to each country. On the committee for the maintenance of adequate shipping facilities, William Creighton Peet Jr., is the United States' representative.

Brazilian hospitalities and social activities are competing strongly with the business of the conference. President and Mrs. Getulio Vargas gave an elaborate party last night for all the delegates, newspaper correspondents, and 2,000 distinguished guests.

SUGAR SHORTAGE THREAT BLAMED ON GOVERNMENT

Planners Cut Output as Demand Rose.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 [Special.]—Results of a survey of producers and processors today placed responsibility for the shortage of sugar threatening consumers squarely on the economic planners of the department of agriculture, whose secretary, Claude Wickard, uttered the warning last week.

The reasons for the shortage were declared to be three fold:

1. In the face of a vigorous protest of domestic beet sugar producers, the department last year ordered a curtailment of sugar beet acreage amounting to from 17 to 20 per cent.
2. Puerto Rico actually has on hand and waiting to be ground more cane than it will be permitted to grind under this year's production quota.
3. Cane in Puerto Rico that would have yielded 300,000 tons of sugar was left to rot in the fields.

Planners Cut Production.

The survey indicated that the economic planners were responsible for at least half of the existing deficiencies. Thus, while the world was facing the sugar shortage that invariably accompanies war, the department of agriculture was paying large benefits to beet and cane farmers to persuade them to cut sugar production by 600,000 tons. That amount would provide each family in the nation with 40 pounds of sugar.

Officials of the department, conceding the truth of the charges, now declare that these restrictions will be revised in the light of wartime conditions, but revision has not been made.

Sugar producers' representatives in Washington a year ago presented memoranda to the department of agriculture pointing out that a sugar shortage was inevitable. They urged that quotas be set at levels to permit maximum production.

Demand Then Under Way.

Foreign buyers were even then asking for more sugar. The war production program boosted the demand for industrial alcohol for smokeless powder, solvents, anti-freeze solutions, and many other essentials.

However, the department of agriculture denied that any sugar shortage was in prospect. It was worried instead by the carry-over of beet sugar stocks, normally around 1,000,000 tons.

An official declared today that acreage reductions were necessary unless the department wished to evade the law under which the quota system operates, but he admitted that so far as he knew the department had never asked congress to amend that law.

Total cut in the nation's sugar resources because the Philippines and Hawaii are cut off amounts to about 1,200,000 tons, or about 80 pounds a family. The Reconstruction Finance corporation has contracted for the entire Cuban supply. Experts hope that this will amount to about 1,957,000 tons. Private experts estimate receipts will be about 300,000 tons less.

This means that consumption of sugar would be choked down to about 85 pounds a person.

Meanwhile, of course, efforts will be made to increase the planting of cane and beets, but this will take a year or more.

U. S. IS FIGHTING ON ALL FRONTS, SAYS ROOSEVELT

Indicates Far East Lines Being Strengthened.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hubertius Van Mook. [(AP) wirephoto.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—President Roosevelt today declared that the United States is pressing and will continue to press—with utmost vigor—the war against the axis on all fronts by land, sea, and air.

The assertion was in direct opposition to the position taken last week by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, who said Hitler is the main objective of the war and that the axis will be dismembered after the Nazis are defeated.

The implication of Knox's statement that the war in the Pacific would not be pressed was viewed with concern by China, Australia, New Zealand, and the Dutch East Indies. It was felt that only a trickle, if any, of supplies and men would be sent to the western Pacific if Europe were to be regarded as the principal theater of the war.

Knox Strategy Disowned.

In disowning the strategy proposed by Knox, Mr. Roosevelt said that while he could not particularize because the information would be of military value to the enemy, very excellent progress is being made on all fronts—that one could hardly look at any portion of a map of the world without knowing that it is being covered in war planning.

Mr. Roosevelt said his talks with his military and naval staffs involve offensive and defensive operations on every continent and every one of the seven seas. Coöperation with the various allies is being worked out in every theater, he added.

The chief executive said he had given this news to Lieut. Gov. Gen. Hubertius Van Mook of the Dutch East Indies during the latter's call at the White House earlier in the day.

Chinese Fully Aware, He Says.

Asked whether he had transmitted similar good news to the Chinese ambassador, Mr. Roosevelt said such action was not necessary because the Chinese are fully aware of the situation.

As he left the White House Van Mook said he was highly pleased with what he described as "the really big effort" being made to send necessary supplies and forces to the Dutch East Indies. He expressed confidence the Dutch colonies will be able to hold out against the axis powers on the basis of what the President revealed is going into that theater of the war.

Dr. Van Mook, who was accompanied by Alexander Louden, the Dutch minister, said his conference was preliminary to a series on the general situation in the western Pacific. He disclosed he gave good news as well as receiving encouragement.

Holding Out, Says Van Mook.

"The President gave me a lot of good news regarding the effort being made to strengthen that part of the world," he said. "I don't want to boast about the progress of the Dutch fighting forces, but they will hold out all right."

Asked whether he believed the Japanese could be kept in check in the southwest Pacific if sufficient airplanes were sent from America to the East Indies, Van Mook said:

"I do. My mission would have been hopeless if I didn't think so."

Hull Makes Stand Clear.

Earlier in the day Secretary of State Cordell Hull refrained from taking issue with Knox, but made it clear Knox was not speaking for this government when he said Hitler is to be the chief target of operations.

Hull said he thought responsible authorities in Australia, China, and the Netherlands East Indies understood that the strategy of the united nations included working out the best possible plans of action in the western Pacific.

NAMES DISTRICT CHAIRMEN FOR SALVAGE DRIVE

Nicholas Conrad, manufacturer, and W. L. McFetridge, president of the AFL Building Service Employés' union, were appointed district chairmen of the salvage campaign yesterday by Nathaniel Leverone, Illinois state director of salvage.

The purpose of the campaign is to make a house to house canvass for waste paper, scrap metal, rags, rubber, and other material which might be converted into war use.

Conrad for many years was engaged in the manufacture of electrical equipment. He will be in charge of salvage in Illinois outside the Chicago metropolitan area. McFetridge will direct salvage in the Chicago area.

FISH SEES AXIS DEFEAT AS HOUSE VOTES NAVY FUND

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rep. Hamilton Fish.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—Rep. Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] warned the nation today to be prepared for a war lasting three, four, or five years, but said final victory over the axis was assured because the conflict "is right down our alley."

Rep. Fish, formerly a critic of the administration's foreign policy, spoke in favor of a 450 million dollar authorization bill for construction and expansion of naval shore facilities. The measure is an important part of the nation's war program, Fish asserted during the brief discussion which preceded its house passage on a voice vote. He said it indicates the government is preparing for a long, hard war.

He said the American systems of free enterprise and mass production cannot fail in the long run to produce the necessary guns, ammunition, and other equipment to crush Hitlerism thruout the world. He asserted the cost will be computed in "blood and death, and plenty of it."

WIDOW DIES IN HOME.

Mrs. Marie Bauer, 65 years old, a widow, died of a heart attack yesterday in her home at 3005 South Avers avenue.

He's an Executive

Geoffrey A. Cook, 26 years old, who gave up his position as vice president of the Roy A. Cook Lumber company to join the army air corps, started out for an air corps training center yesterday.

Altho he has not yet received his private pilot's license, Cook said he had been flying off and on for the last two years. He was graduated in 1937 from Kenyon college in Gambier, O., and joined the firm shortly afterwards.

Cook lives at 2808 Colfax street, Evanston. He was sworn in at 460 South State street by First Lieut. James C. Griffith, assistant recruiting officer.

WAR DARKENS A BRIGHT SPOT, WRIGLEY TOWER

The Wrigley building, 400 North Michigan avenue, whose illuminated face is a famous Chicago sight, was dark last night and will stay dark until the war is over. James B. Darlington, building manager, explained that some of the floodlights are on the opposite side of Michigan avenue and of the river and that the control switches are also there. In the event of a blackout, Darlington said, an electrician would have to cross the street to shut off the lights and precious time would be lost.

Meet in OPM Offices.

The members gathered around the long table in the board room of the new Social Security building, where the OPM has maintained its headquarters and before each member was placed a manila folder containing Nelson's plan for the WPB, the modern version of the war industries board which supervised war production during World war I. under the directing genius of Bernard M. Baruch.

In addition to board members, the following attended the meeting: Undersecretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal; Isador Lubin, chief of the Bureau of Labor Statistics; Ferdinand Eberstadt, special assistant to the army and navy munitions board; John Lord O'Brian, general counsel to the board, and Herbert Emmerich, general secretary.

Auto Graveyards Doomed.

One of the next actions under the new setup, it was learned, will be a drive to requisition old automobiles of vintage beyond 1935 now rusting away in automobile "graveyards" thruout the nation. Government officials have accused graveyard operators of not coöperating in unloading these old rusty jalopies on the scrap markets where the metal could flow into the hopper for munitions. Under the authority of the requisitioning law war authorities plan to requisition the old automobiles and compensate the owners later. Officials estimate that there are 4 to 5 million old broken down cars in these graveyards, which will yield three-fourths of a ton of scrap each, or a total of upward of 3,000,000 tons. Another 1,500,000 tons of scrap is believed available from farms and even greater amounts are said to be in the hands of railroads and other heavy industries. These supplies will be pushed on the scrap iron and steel market under official plans.

ORGANIZE AUXILIARY POLICE, 7,000 STRONG, TO HELP GUARD CITY

Seven thousand auxiliary police for emergency defense duty in Chicago are being recruited from the ranks of the American Legion, Arthur E. Canty, field director of defense activities and chairman of the Cook county council, announced yesterday.

More than 3,500 already have been approved and the rest will be investigated within a few days. Canty said the auxiliary police would be assigned to district police stations after an extensive training course under Capt. Harry Fullmer.

Each man must be vouched for by his American Legion post commander and meet standards laid down by the Chicago police department.

War traffic schools for police will be opened Feb. 9 in Chicago, Springfield, and 118 other cities, the justice department announced in Washington yesterday. The Federal Bureau of Investigation will instruct police on handling traffic and crowds during blackouts and bombings.

Mayor Kelly yesterday appointed Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways, as chief of communications for the Chicago metropolitan area. Harrington was assigned to work out plans for the coördination of police, fire, first aid, bomb demolition, ambulance and messenger service in control centers thruout the city.

8 CONCERNS GIVE PLEDGE AGAINST RACIAL BARRIERS

2 Admit Charges, Agree to Change Policies.

Spokesmen for eight Chicago and Milwaukee concerns engaged in defense work promised yesterday to obey President Roosevelt's order prohibiting discrimination because of race, color, or nationality in employing workers in defense plants. The pledges were given to members of the President's committee on fair employment practice at a hearing in the city council chambers.

Varying charges of refusing to hire Negroes or Jews had been made against each of the concerns responding at the hearing. A ninth company, the Allis-Chalmers company of Milwaukee, sent no representative to defend itself or answer the charges.

In three of the cases heard yesterday it was alleged that the companies in question had discriminated against Jews in hiring. In two of the cases, officials admitted the discrimination but promised that they would change their policy. The admissions came from J. H. Erickson, personnel director for the Bearse Manufacturing company, 3815 Cortland street, and Elmer Hansen, president of the Simpson Construction company, 1113 South Hermitage avenue.

In the third case involving Jews the Studebaker company of South Bend, Ind., and Chicago was charged with discriminating against both Jews and Italians, and with placing Negroes only as janitors or in other service occupations.

David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America and member of the committee, said it was "the weakest case" submitted to the group. In particular, he noted the failure of Daniel Friedman, 1449 North Spaulding avenue, to appear and testify that a Studebaker clerk told him the concern did not employ Italians or Jews.

Walter Gundeck, director of industrial relations for Studebaker, testified that of 829 employés in the Chicago plant, 358 were foreign born or had one foreign born parent and that 45 Negroes and 10 Jews were working there.

Howard A. Gates, president of the Majestic Radio and Television company, 2600 West 50th street, won the commendation of Mark Ethridge, Louisville, Ky., the chairman, when he said he had discharged his employment manager and superintendent after he learned Negro applicants for work had been turned away while white men of no more extensive training had been hired.

The Milwaukee concerns sending representatives to defend them were the Nordberg Manufacturing company, Heil company, A. O. Smith corporation, and Harnischfeger corporation.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SANTA ANA'S LEG GIVES PAIN, BUT NOT TO GENERAL

War Vet's Nephew Fights Good Will Gesture.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

The wooden leg of Antonio Lopez de Santa Ana was causing some pain last night, but not to the Mexican general who has been dead since 1876.

Dr. John J. Gill, 2026 East 72d street, let off a blast of disapproval at the merry attitude taken by the Illinois legislators toward the general's leg. These persons recommended that it be sent back to Mexico as a gesture of good will.

Dr. Gill protested this stand in letters to Gov. Dwight Green and Adj. Gen. Leo M. Boyle. He said state officials in 1939 had promised that the war relic never would be sent outside Illinois.

Recovered by Uncle.

The doctor said his interest in the leg grew out of the fact that his uncle brought it from the Mexican battlefield and installed it in the state museum. The uncle, now dead, was John M. Gill of Pekin, once a member of Company D, 4th regiment, Illinois infantry.

Now, Gen. Santa Ana has not been attached to the timber limb since April 17, 1847. At that time he was engaging the United States troops some 60 miles from Vera Cruz.

A charge by the Illinois troops was so successful that Santa Ana was forced to abandon his cumbersome coach and flee by muleback. As one historian put it, this move cost his leg, his lunch, and $18,000.

The lunch of fried chicken and the wooden leg had disappeared by different routes when the officers arrived. One of them, something of a spoil sport, commandeered the $18,000 in gold left in the carriage.

Shown at County Fairs.

Now, unless the general was a centipede, all of those who claimed the distinction could not have had a part in capturing the leg. At any rate, it bounded about as an exhibit at various county fairs and landed in the state museum.

Dr. Gill, partly substantiated by state officials, says that his uncle, and two company mates, Abe Malden and Samuel Rhodes, both of Pekin, made off with the leg. They used various ruses to hide it and when Dr. Gill grew up there it was in his uncle's Pekin closet.

Dr. Gill grew pretty fond of the general's leg as a war relic. He believes that it should stay in Illinois and intends to campaign to that end.

MAYOR EXPECTS DAYLIGHT TIME TO BE POPULAR

Year around daylight saving time, ordered into effect on Feb. 9 by President Roosevelt, may prove so popular and profitable that the whole United States will decide to stay permanently on it, Mayor Kelly said yesterday.

"The change may mean," he continued, "that when the war is over the whole central west will want to stay on what we now call eastern standard time, or daylight saving time. Maybe the whole country will. Anyway, this is a splendid way to give it a good trial."

Officials of rail, air, bus and other transportation lines said there probably will be no change in their schedules. All they need do, they said, will be to move their clocks ahead one hour at 2 a. m., Monday, Feb. 9, with the rest of the country, and every plane, train and bus will go on as before. No change of timetables will be necessary.

How to make a WAR GARDEN

BY GAIL COMPTON.

Five million war gardens growing fresh vegetables for their owners is the goal that has been set to aid the nation in building and maintaining its wartime food reserves.

A war garden is within the reach of almost everyone, and with a little work, the backyard or vacant lot next door can be made into a thriving garden.

Selecting a site for the garden is an important job. Altho the choice of garden spots open to city dwellers and suburbanites is smaller than it is for the farmer, certain fundamentals must be observed in selecting the site if the garden is to prove productive.

Needs Plenty of Sunlight.

First of all, the site should have at least five or six hours of sunlight a day—more if possible. The longer the sun can reach the vegetables the more thrifty they will be. The garden should have direct light from 9 a. m. to at least 3 p. m.

Do not locate the garden on land where rock is only a few inches below the surface and where there is insufficient moisture. Land which has been filled with bricks, cinders and other trash will not produce worthwhile vegetables.

If the plot chosen has a vigorous and rank growth of weeds on it, one can be sure it will produce vegetables. The garden should not be situated near or under large trees. In addition to cutting off sunlight, the trees will take all of the moisture and food from the ground, leaving little for the vegetables. Maple and oaks are especially injurious to gardens in this manner.

Avoid planting the garden in a spot where heavy rainfall may cause an overflow that will wash the seeds from their beds, or where water will stand, drowning the plants. Failure to observe these rules may result in loss of the garden.

Gentle Slope Is Best.

When there is a choice in selecting the site for the war garden, one should choose land that is nearly level and if possible with a gentle slope to the south or southeast. Drainage should be good so that washing will not occur.

If the garden is placed on the highest part of the surrounding land it is safer than the low spots from frosts which may destroy much of the gardener's work.

A dark, sandy loam soil with plenty of humus makes an ideal growing medium for the seeds. Humus is partly or completely decomposed vegetable matter. The humus plus a rather solid subsoil will help to hold a plentiful supply of moisture in the ground.

Only seldom will the ideal spot for a garden be found. However with the above principles in mind the gardener can choose the best spot available. The soil eventually can be built up, and careful planting and choice of vegetables can make an effective war garden out of even a poor location.

NATION'S CLOCKS TO BE MOVED UP HOUR ON FEB. 9

Roosevelt Signs Bill to Save Power.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—President Roosevelt today ordered the nation to push clocks ahead one hour at 2 a. m. Monday, Feb. 9, by signing the bill which calls for year round daylight saving to conserve power and fuel for the duration of the war.

The pen with which Mr. Roosevelt signed the legislation is being forwarded to Robert Garland of Pittsburgh, leader of the national committee, which urged passage of the measure. Garland, who worked for daylight saving in the World war, has the pen Woodrow Wilson used to sign the World war time bill. He also has the pens with which Speaker Champ Clark and Vice President Thomas Marshall signed the 1917 bill.

House Plan Accepted.

The legislation provided for a one hour advancement of standard time in all zones of the country at 2 a. m. on the 20th day following Presidential approval of the bill. The 20th day is Feb. 9.

The bill the President signed was that passed by the house. The senate had passed a bill which would have empowered the President to place the nation on war time daylight savings by advancing the clock as much as two hours in any zone. After conference the senate accepted the house plan for a uniform, one hour advancement of standard time.

The act, as it now stands, does not bar additional daylight savings. Municipalities and communities can still vote to advance their clocks one hour in the summer as they have in the past.

Power Saving Expected.

The President had asked for the legislation last July at the suggestion of the Federal Power commission, the department of interior and the Office of Production Management in the interests of saving electricity and fuel. The Federal Power commission has estimated that the advance in time would save more than 736 million kilowatt hours annually.

The measure was contested vigorously in congress by farm groups.

UNION PURCHASES A $10,000 BOND AT TRIBUNE BUREAU

Film Operators Also to Aid Red Cross.

Sales of defense bonds and stamps thru The Tribune Public Service Bureaus spurted suddenly late yesterday when three executives of the Chicago Moving Picture Machine Operators' union walked into Tribune Tower and laid down a check for $7,500, the cost of a $10,000 bond.

The three were Peter Shayne, president; Neil C. Bishop, secretary-treasurer, and John P. Smith, business manager. They said they just had come from the January meeting of the union, which had authorized them to purchase the first of a series of $10,000 bonds.

Raise Flag at Meeting.

An American flag, purchased by the union membership, was raised at the meeting and each member renewed his pledge of allegiance. Contributions to the flag fund were $100 more than necessary, so the extra money will be given to the Red Cross.

Bond sales for the day thru the two Tribune Public Service Bureaus—the other is at 1 South Dearborn street — totaled $8,037.50.

Officials at the postoffice, the federal reserve bank, and local treasury office said the sale of the $100, $50, and $25 bonds has been so brisk that they have been running out of those denominations every other day or so.

Difficult to Replenish Supplies.

"It is phenomenal how the people of smaller means are coming forward to purchase stamps and bonds of smaller denominations," one postal official said. "We can't replenish our supply fast enough, and it seems the treasury department can't print them fast enough. When we run out we try to get them from banks, stores, or other places where bonds are sold, but invariably when we're sold out they're sold out too."

REDS ROUT NAZIS FROM LAST POST NEAR TO MOSCOW

Retake Mozhaisk; Entire Salient Threatened.

LONDON, Jan. 20 (AP).—The Russian army has recaptured Mozhaisk in a hard won victory which blasted the Germans from the last advanced citadel of their broken drive upon Moscow and left the invader facing the prospect of a cruel, 200 mile retreat to the Dnieper river.

The reoccupation of Mozhaisk, announced officially by Moscow tonight after a 45 day offensive, sent Adolf Hitler's legions reeling back along Napoleon's terrible 1812 road of retreat and left Orel, 200 miles south of Moscow, and Rhzev, 125 miles northwest of the capital, the only remaining strongpoints held by the invader on the present Moscow front.

Mozhaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow, is on the main Moscow-Smolensk-Minsk road and the Germans once were reported to have 100,000 men in the battle for that vital salient.

Pincers Menace the Rear.

What remains of these forces is in danger of entrapment by soviet armies which have driven the claws of a giant pincers to the rear of Mozhaisk in the vicinity of Vyazma, 70 miles to the west. Some prisoners already have been taken and casualties were heavy in the Mozhaisk battle, Moscow said.

A soviet spearhead striking northwestward toward Vyazma along the railway from Kaluga and fighting in 25 below zero weather was reported less than 40 miles from Vyazma. The Moscow-Warsaw highway was reported cut 140 miles southwest of the capital.

Another Red army was said to be pushing down from the northeast thru a gap between Volokolamsk and Rzhev to meet the southern soviet claw. The Reds were reported to have driven across the Lama river 75 miles northwest of Moscow and smashed a German tank division and two infantry divisions, one suffering 1,500 dead.

A Wider Soviet Pincer.

Aside from the Russian threat to Vyazma, there is also a wider Russian pincer movement operating apparently toward Smolensk, to the west of Vyazma, from the Valdai hills northwest of Rzhev and from Kirov, northwest of Bryansk.

Tonight's Russian communique told of the recapture of Ostashevo, described as a district center, and several villages.

[Ostashevo may be a variation of the spelling of Ostashkov, a district center in the Valdai hills on the south shore of Lake Seliger at the headwaters of the Volga river. Ostashkov is 20 miles northwest of Selizharovo, which the Russians occupied last week.]

The Germans captured Mozhaisk in mid-November and had been under heavy pressure there since the Red army counteroffensive started on Dec. 6. Even if some of the pocketed Germans get thru the narrowing gap west of Mozhaisk, there are no suitable defensive positions before reaching Smolensk, where Hitler supposedly had his headquarters. There the Dnieper curves southward, affording the most likely position for a German defensive stand.

Fighting Rages at Kharkov.

The Moscow radio said soviet forces attacking Mozhaisk were obliged to cut thru strong, elaborate defenses which the Germans had built. They had mined all approaches to the city.

The correspondent of Krasnaya Zvezda said 150 populated places were cleared of the enemy, "completing the liberation of villages in the Moscow region." At the same time Germans were dislodged from areas in the Tula region and considerable areas in the Smolensk region, the correspondent said.

Fierce and decisive fighting also raged in the Ukraine region around the great steel center of Kharkov. German reports indicated a hard battle was in progress in the Donetz section.

The Germans acknowledged steady "defensive battles" all along the central and northern fronts and also in the south—apparently referring to their grim stands on the anchor points of Orel, Kursk, Kharkov, and Taganrog.

Only in the Crimea did the Nazi claim a distinct gain—a push northeastward from Theodosia which they reported on Monday had been recaptured.

Bombs Fall in Helsingfors.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 20 (AP).—A lone Russian bomber dropped 10 small explosives in the western end of Helsingfors this afternoon in the first air attack on the Finnish capital since Nov. 2.

ARREST CLEARS 2 MAIDS OUSTED IN HOME THEFTS

Police reported yesterday that Hal Gleekman, 23 years old, who was caught several days ago in Oak Park, has admitted four burglaries, and that in at least two of them the householders had discharged servants because of suspicions that the thefts were inside jobs.

Gleekman's favorite trick, according to Sergts. George Tucker and Patrick Griffin of the pawnshop detail, was to enter an apartment by forcing the door latch back with a knife. Then he would open a locked desk with one of several keys he carried for the purpose. Before departing he would lock up everything, leaving no trace of his visit except missing jewels or other valuables. Several pawned articles were recovered.

THE QUESTION.

What do you want your children to have that you were never fortunate enough to have?

WHERE ASKED.

54 West Hubbard street.

THE ANSWERS.

John E. Killips, purchasing agent, 843 Agatite avenue—Only I can give to my daughter what I missed more than anything else in my childhood. My father and I just could not understand each other. I didn't know what other boys meant when they said their dad was a pal. I hope my daughter will have a perfect understanding of her father and I of her.

Walter J. Olson, laboratory clerk, 3213 North Keating avenue—I spent most of my boyhood days building things with my erector set and later was very interested in all forms of construction and engineering. I wanted a college education in engineering but I never had it. If this new baby of ours is a son, I hope that whatever his life ambition is I can help him realize it.

Lawrence Gillet, ambulance driver, 864 Buckingham place—If some day my 3 year old son wants to live in a house instead of an apartment building, I hope I'm in a position to give him that. When I was a boy there was nothing I wanted more than to live in a home that was permanently "home." I wanted a place with a big back yard and a house that didn't have to be locked every time we went in or out.

Lois Lyon, typist, 233 East Huron street—All my life I've wished that I could play the violin. Even as a very little girl I thought a violinist was wonderful, but I never was able to take lessons. And now I hope I'll be able to give my young son any kind of a musical education he wants. He's already quite a little actor, so maybe it'll be his future.

Malcolm Correll, physics instructor, 5406 Kenwood avenue—Right now my daughter is only 1 week old but I'm already making plans for her future. She's going to travel all over and see everything at a young, impressionable age. That's an interesting form of education and something I always wanted to do myself but had to wait almost until I was too old to enjoy it!

Mrs. J. L. Blackburn, housewife, 5213 South Peoria street—I've always felt sort of left out of things and a little behind the times because my education was not very complete. I hope I'm able to give my children all the years of college education they want, so that their life will be that much fuller and richer.

BRITISH PLANES BLAST AIRDROMES ON ISLE OF SICILY

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 20 (AP).—The royal air force middle east command tonight announced that a raid on the airdrome at Catania, Sicily, Sunday night caused "many explosions" and started several fires. Several enemy planes also were reported set afire in an attack on Comiso, Sicily, yesterday.

British general headquarters said in its communique on the Libyan campaign today that "our mobile columns are continuing their activities east of El Aghella."

British Beaten Off, Says Rome.

ROME, Jan. 20 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—The high command today said a British attack had been beaten off and several prisoners captured in sharp fighting between Agedabia and Mersa Brega, 80 miles southwest of the Gulf of Sirte in Libya. British raiders bombed the east coast port of Catania, Sicily, and Vizzini, 30 miles to the south, today, but caused no casualties and only slight damage, the high command said. Axis air activities over British supply lines in Libya and the Island of Malta also were reported.

4 Masked Men Intimidate 6, Seize $1,800 Pay Roll

Four masked robbers entered the offices of Charles Doering & Son, creamery equipment makers at 1375 Lake street, and seized an $1,800 pay roll late yesterday. Charles Doering, president; his brother, Henry; two employés, and two customers were compelled by the men to lie on the office floor. Henry Doering said the holdup was the company's first in 60 years of existence.

COLONEL DENIES INTENT TO ASSAIL DEFENSE POLICY

Takes Witness Stand at Court Martial.

Columbus, O., Jan. 20 [Special].—Col. H. C. Kress Muhlenberg testified in his own defense in the second day of his court martial today that he had no thought of criticizing the government policies or the United States navy in an address here Dec. 17.

Muhlenberg, former commandant at Hickam field, Hawaii, and within a month of retirement, is accused of violating two articles of war by criticizing the lack of air protection given Hawaii at the time of the Japanese attack.

He had been quoted by prosecution witnesses as saying the American people were the "goats" of the Pearl Harbor attack by sanctioning a policy of "sending planes all over the world instead of where they were most needed." The veteran air officer also was quoted as having said that "the navy is a 'gone gosling' which has its place, but it is a bad, bad second to air power."

Says It Was Pep Talk.

In an unsworn statement Col. Muhlenberg explained that he had addressed the Curtiss-Wright Flying club as "an opportunity to promote the interests of the military service, especially the air corps, and to extend enthusiasm for the flying service among this group of young men." Muhlenberg is a 5th corps area air officer.

"If anything I said in my enthusiasm and intensive interest in the subject," he continued, "be construed as a discussion of foreign and domestic policy and therefore within a ban against speaking of such matters, it certainly was not so intended by me and certainly not intended as a violation, dishonorably or otherwise, of an inhibition.

"The slightest thought or intention of discussing or of criticizing the policies of the government or reflecting in the slightest degree upon the value of our sister service, the navy, of violating any instructions from the war department or from headquarters, 5th corps area, was farthest from my mind or plans."

Expected No Publicity.

The colonel said his speech was extemporaneous and that he had not though of it being published. The case against him was instituted after the gist of his public remarks had been telephoned to authorities at Fort Hayes here by Robert Brown, editor of the Daily Citizen, Columbus newspaper. However, testimony relative to Brown's action was ordered stricken from the record today.

The testimony was that Col. John M. Eager, chief of staff of the 5th corps area, in relating a telephone conversation with Brown and referring to Muhlenberg's arrest. He testified yesterday that Col. Muhlenberg was ordered into custody within 30 minutes after Brown telephoned him a report of the colonel's speech.

The order striking the testimony was issued by Maj. Wendland V. Cruey, law member of the court martial, who has arbitrary power over legality of testimony which may be considered. He did not explain why the court of 10 colonels should disregard the testimony.

Motion to Dismiss Loses.

During the afternoon hearing Col. Muhlenberg's counsel moved that the charges against him be dismissed for lack of evidence without the necessity of any defense being presented.

Maj. Cruey ruled against the motion, an action objected to by Col. Bolton E. Brewer, a member of the court martial. Newspaper men, the only civilians in attendance at the hearing, were asked to leave the room while the matter was discussed. The ruling by Maj. Cruey apparently stood after the private session for the trial was resumed.

The presentation of evidence against Col. Muhlenberg was concluded this afternoon and the defense immediately began its case with the defendant's own testimony. The defense expects to conclude its evidence tomorrow.

PELLEY, SILVER SHIRTS FOUNDER, SENT TO PRISON

Asheville, N. C., Jan. 30 [Special].—William Dudley Pelley, founder and leader of the Silver Shirts of America, was sentenced today to serve a term of two to three years in prison for violation of North Carolina security laws.

The sentence was imposed by Superior Court Judge F. Don Phillips on a conviction obtained in 1935 in connection with publishing ventures. Prayer for judgment had been continued when he was convicted seven years ago. The judge also directed that a sentence of one to two years pronounced in 1935 and suspended upon conditions of good behavior, be placed into effect, the two sentences to run concurrently.

Judge Phillips held that in the period of Pelley's probation he had been guilty of publishing false and libelous statements and inaccurate reports and advertising, and of operating a secret military organization.

1931 DEATH QUIZ BEING STUDIED IN KEESHIN INQUIRY

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday ordered one of his assistants, Alexander Napoli, to study the record of the connection of John L. Keeshin, head of an interstate trucking business, with the death in June, 1931, of Nathan Metcalf, colored.

Testimony at an inquest following Metcalf's death indicated that he and a companion, also colored, were loitering near a Keeshin garage and did not move on as ordered by an employé. When Keeshin came out to enforce the order, it was testified, Metcalf threatened to "cut his heart out," whereupon Keeshin struck him, knocking him down. Metcalf died of a skull fracture.

A coroner's jury found that Keeshin acted in self-defense and was justified in striking Metcalf.

The grand jury was reported last week to have voted true bills charging Keeshin and six associates with slugging a business rival.

F. E. KONKOWSKI IS DISBARRED BY SUPREME COURT

Former Judge McGarry Is Suspended for 2 Years.

Frank E. Konkowski, former 26th ward alderman, who is under a five year prison sentence, was disbarred from the practice of law yesterday by the Illinois Supreme court. The same court, only last week, affirmed Konkowski's sentence for having accepted $600 on a promise to obtain police jobs for those who paid him.

Frank Konkowski [top] and Eugene McGarry.

In another order, the Supreme court suspended Eugene L. McGarry, former municipal court judge from the practice of law for two years. The Chicago Bar association had asked the court to disbar McGarry, but the court said elements of dishonesty and moral turpitude were lacking in his case despite the bail bond scandal in which he was involved.

Konkowski was convicted last summer in the police job sale scandal. His surrender or arrest awaits only arrival of the Supreme court order affirming his sentence to Joliet penitentiary.

Blow to Justice.

"We cannot escape the conclusion," the court said in the McGarry case, "that while his conduct was not sufficient to justify striking his name from the roll, but even tho it amounted only to carelessness and mistaken judgment, it was calculated to bring the administration of justice into disrepute."

The complaint accused McGarry of having approved bail bonds without investigating the surety. It charged that he conspired with Samuel Brin and A. Gendon, professional bondsmen, in illegal acts thru which persons were released from custody without proper compliance with the laws.

"The record shows," the court's opinion said, "that McGarry approved bonds with a total disregard of the statute and rules and without any effort to avail himself of machinery created for the purpose of investigating the financial ability of the surety.

Conduct Inexcusable.

"While the conduct of the respondent [McGarry] is such that it can neither be excused nor condoned, still there are many mitigating circumstances. It affirmatively appears that in his long career as a lawyer, as assistant state's attorney and as judge of the Municipal court, his reputation was excellent."

McGarry was indicted by the grand jury in 1939 on a conspiracy charge, but it was decided he was immune from criminal prosecution because the acts involved were carried out in connection with his official duties.

McGarry's activities on the bench first came under scrutiny in 1939 when it was learned he had granted probation to a confessed burglar.

McGarry, who has been a title examiner in the office of County Recorder Edward J. Kaindl, will be discharged today, Kaindl said last night. The job requires a lawyer in good standing.

PETTICOAT PONZI ADDS BANKER TO LIST OF VICTIMS

Newark, N. J., Jan. 20 [Special].—Victims of Mrs. Amelia Everts Carr, the petticoat Ponzi of Newark, said they felt a little better today when they learned that Robert L. Ross, head of the Franklin Savings institution, had been trimmed out of $7,984.

Ross told police he met Mrs. Carr at Roseville Methodist church and she told him of her plans to establish a home for the aged. On Sept. 23 he gave the woman $3,000, he said. During the next two months he gave her $4,984 more. When Ross would ask how the home was getting along she would explain that the owners of the land where she had intended building the institution had jacked up their price and she was looking for another tract.

Monday she appeared before Judge Daniel J. Brennan and pleaded no defense to the indictment. Judge Brennan sent her to jail pending sentencing on Jan. 28.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will attempt to answer draft and military service questions, both in the daily columns and personally if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the query.]

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

Scores of untrained but patriotic young women, eager to volunteer for war work, are attempting each day to enlist in the army nurse corps in the mistaken belief that the corps will accept them and train them for duty. Sixth corps area army headquarters in Chicago reports that it is kept busy answering the inquiries from such applicants telling them that they are not eligible for service unless they are trained nurses.

Qualifications Listed.

To qualify for the army nurse corps a woman must be between the ages of 21 and 40, a graduate from an approved school of nursing, registered as provided by the laws of her state, a member in good standing with the American Nurses' association, and an American citizen. In addition, she must be single, widowed, or divorced, and able to pass a physical examination.

Nurses accepted for the corps are paid $840 a year and full maintenance upon entering service. When quarters are not provided, nurses receive an additional $40 a month rental allowance.

Nurses entering the corps are commissioned as second lieutenants. They can be promoted to first lieutenants, to captains, and in some instances to an even higher rank. Their work, of course, is the same as the duties of a nurse in a private hospital.

May Ask Transfer.

After one year of service in the corps reserve nurses are eligible to apply for transfer to the regular army nurse corps if vacancies exist. For further information, graduate nurses are asked to contact their local Red Cross headquarters. These Red Cross units are equipped to forward applications to Washington, D. C., and make all arrangements for a nurse to enter the corps.

QUESTION.

R. E. R. writes: "I recently graduated from a school for osteopaths. I would like to obtain a commissioned officer's rating and serve in a base hospital or in some other medical division. Could I enlist in the reserve officers' corps if I so desired?"

ANSWER: Commissions in the medical corps reserve are not being granted to osteopaths. If you are drafted, or if you enlist, you will go into the army as a private. It is possible, however, that you would be assigned to the medical corps for duty as an enlisted man.

A. F. writes: "Gan. Wavell has been appointed commander of the allied armies in the far east. Does this mean that he issues orders to our Gen. MacArthur?

ANSWER: Army men here are silent on this point. However, it is very likely that Gen. Wavell directs the activities of Gen. MacArthur's forces only in the broadest sense, giving them a mission to perform and leaving it to Gen. MacArthur to carry out as he sees fit.

Mrs. T. writs: "My son is in the army and his birthday anniversary is only a month away. It there any way I can have a party for him and the boys in his barracks? He's at Baton Rogue, La."

ANSWER: This is a fine idea. I suggest that you write to your son's commanding officer immediately, asking him for permission to sponsor such a party. He should be glad to assist you in the arrangements. Army officers here say your proposal will be excellent for morale.

H. L. H. writes: "I'm of draft age. I am married, but am separated from my wife. Further, I am the father of a baby son, born to another woman whom I intend to wed as soon as I can get a divorce from my present wife. Can I claim this woman and our son as dependents? If not, how will they manage if I am drafted?"

ANSWER: Draft regulations provide that you can claim the child as a dependent, but not its mother. In order to claim the child as a dependent, both you and the child's mother must submit affidavits to your draft board certifying that the child belongs to you. Draft officials say that if you actually are supporting the child you probably will be deferred so that you can continue this support.

ROOSEVELT ACTS TO PUT LIFE INTO SEAWAY PROJECT

Meets with Leaders on St. Lawrence Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—In what was regarded as another plug for one of his pet projects, President Roosevelt today summoned congressional leaders to the White House for a conference on the pending billion dollar rivers and harbors authorization bill which has been slumbering peacefully on the house calendar since it was reported out of committee last year.

The measure, which includes the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence power and navigation project, would provide no money for the so-called improvements, but merely put a stamp of approval on them. Mr. Roosevelt began pushing the St. Lawrence project, which would cost an estimated 200 million dollars, back when he was governor of New York.

Killed by Senate in '34.

It was rejected by the senate in 1934 and considered dead until the President revived it last year on the ground that it is a defense measure which would supply needed power for arms construction.

The pending omnibus waterway bill, in its present form, would authorize a total of 236 projects, many of which are highly controversial.

Funds Are Necessary.

Before any of the projects could actually be launched, congress would have to vote special funds for construction.

It has been charged that the bill is merely a pork barrel measure which would enable congressmen to return to the home districts pointing to the authorization as almost as good an excuse for reëlection as an actual appropriation. However, records show there are between 2 and 3 billion dollars' worth of rivers and harbors authorizations on the books, some dating as far back as the administration of John Quincy Adams.

At his press conference this afternoon President Roosevelt refused to discuss individual projects, but his leaders in congress left no doubt that the St. Lawrence project will be among the "defense" projects regarded as necessary when the measure is called up for passage, probably in the next 10 days.

STATE REHIRES CHARLES WILLS, CALDWELL ALLY

Francis B. Murphy, state director of labor, disclosed yesterday that Charles F. Wills, who was ousted as a member of the state unemployment compensation board last August, now has another state job. Wills lost his former post, paying $4,700 a year, when it was divulged he was a close ally of Max Caldwell, his son-in-law and boss of the exploited local 1248 of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association.

Chicago labor leaders, who did not want to be directly quoted for fear of placing themselves in the rôle, as they expressed it, of "persecutors" of Wills, said nevertheless, that they were surprised at Wills' new appointment.

Gets $200 a Month.

Murphy said Wills now is chief deputy inspector of private employment agencies. Murphy said Wills is receiving $200 a month, and that he took responsibility for the selection.

"Wills is well known to me," Murphy said. "I met him during Gov. Green's campaign in 1940. He is a loyal Republican. I investigated for weeks and found nobody who knew anything against Wills."

The Chicago labor leaders recalled that Wills had been removed as a member of the Chicago Federation of Labor executive board and as business manager of the Federation News last August and is still out.

Charges Against Him.

Charges placed against Wills at the time by John Fitzpatrick, the federation president, were: that he sided with Caldwell when the union czar tried to coerce women food demonstrators into his organization [the demonstrators were saved from this alliance by AFL and CFL officials]; that he had appeared in court as a fixer for Caldwell and that he had allied himself with the local after it had been cast out of the federation.

William B. Crawford, assistant state's attorney, had learned previously that Wills had used his influence as a labor leader to put Caldwell in as an organizer for local 1248 and had personally gone to the international headquarters to vouch for his character.

Caldwell was ousted after a rebel group of members sued him and his associates for an accounting of an alleged $910,000 which they collected in dues and assessments in their four years in office. The books of the local are missing and only $62 of the assets have been found.

MINISTER TELLS GRAND JURY OF POLICY RACKET

Vows to Fight Evil Till It Is Ended.

The Rev. Joseph M. Evans, colored, pastor of the Metropolitan Community church at 4108 South Park way, won an opportunity yesterday for which he had prayed for a long time. He was summoned before the grand jury to tell what he knew about policy gambling on the south side.

He had plenty to tell. From 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. yesterday he and 75 others, members of the Community church and Christian Workers alliance, had been discussing the evils of policy and how to get rid of it and find honest jobs for those who work at selling the tickets to make the heads of the policy racket wealthy.

Ignores Danger Warning.

Some of the minister's friends have told him his life would be in danger if he continued to fight against the racket. It has been estimated that the colored people of the south side gamble away $600,000 a month and that 20 per cent of this sum comes from families on the relief rolls.

"I am not afraid," the Rev. Mr. Evans said. "Now that I am getting support I will carry on the fight to the end. Let us put ourselves on the spot; if we keep on we'll get help."

Shortly after the meeting was over a car sent by State's Attorney Courtney was at his doorstep and he was asked to go before the grand jurors. He accepted with gratitude. What he told them was not disclosed.

14 Wheels Running Again.

Among the facts brought out at the church meeting was the number of policy wheels in operation. [Each "wheel" is a separate lottery which holds drawings at regular intervals to determine winning numbers.] G. W. Lambert, an investigator, said that formerly there were 42, all of which shut down for a short time. He said that 14 of these were operating again in new locations and that some of them are in candy stores, where they are handy for school children to put in their nickels and dimes, and that one is operating in a room over a church.

The Rev. J. M. Howard, pastor of the Christ Temple Community church, said that the churches should apply pressure to politicians and force them to end the policy régime.

STIMSON DENIES PLEA FOR MORE LAKE DIVERSION

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday he had received a letter from Secretary of War Stimson denying the mayor's plea for an increase in lake water diversion to offset increased pollution of the Illinois waterway by expanding war industries.

Stimson based his refusal on the United States Supreme court decision of 1930, effective Jan. 1, 1939, which fixed the maximum average flow of water from Lake Michigan into the Chicago river at 1,500 cubic feet per second. The mayor said Stimson stated he had no power to interfere with his ruling.

At the same time Attorney General George F. Barrett announced that three medical authorities have declared that thousands of south side residents are living under daily threat of an epidemic which may be caused by polluted drinking water. They are Dr. Guy V. Pontius of St. Luke's hospital, Dr. F. W. Mohlman, chief sanitary district chemist, and Prof. A. C. Ivy of the Northwestern university medical school.

Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the United States public health service, has promised an investigation of the problem, Kelly said.

9 SEEK CHICAGO CAMPUS QUEEN HONORS AT N. U.

Nine pretty co-eds will vie for the title of queen of the Chicago campus of Northwestern university at the annual formal Jan. 31 in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel. Where Woman Died in Fiery Plunge

Police Sergt. William Donovan looking out of 8th floor office window at 537 South Dearborn street from which Dorothy Sullivan, 27, of Gary, plunged to death with her clothing aflame.

WOMAN PLUNGES TO DEATH WITH CLOTHES AFLAME

Informer Scheduled to Testify Today.

A woman informer who was to have testified for the government today against two men accused of narcotic drug peddling leaped to her death yesterday, her clothing in flames, from the eighth floor of 537 South Dearborn street.

The dead woman was Miss Dorothy Sullivan, 27 years old, 520 Jefferson street, Gary, Ind. She was the star witness last June in the government's successful trial of Victoria [Vic] Shaw, one time south side vice queen, on a narcotic drug charge.

Miss Sullivan plunged from an office occupied by the Pierce Advertising company, whose owner, Alvin Bernstein, 56, of 1250 Albion avenue, had stepped out a few moments before. Passersby in the street below, who heard the woman scream in midair, looked up to see what they described as looking like a "flaming bundle of rags."

Find Cleaning Fluid Bottle.

Peter McGovern, acting chief of the 25th battalion, said the office window was open and a box of matches still smoldering on the sill when firemen arrived. Some cleaning fluid was near by. Sergt. William Donovan of the 1st district said Miss Sullivan either set fire to herself or jumped in panic when her clothing flared up, perhaps as she removed a spot.

Walter J. McDermott, an investigator for Coroner A. L. Brodie's office, said he was convinced that Miss Sullivan committed suicide.

Bernstein said he met Miss Sullivan last March in a north side hotel when she was "working for the government." Later she asked him for a job and he hired her to do office work. She quit last December and had called on him several times since, he said. Yesterday, after talking with her, he asked her to watch the place and went to call on a client, he said. When he returned police were there.

Use of Pressure Denied.

Mrs. Catherine Tyler, Miss Sullivan's mother, charged that government agents had been trying to force her to testify against her will. This was denied by Miss Mary D. Bailey, assistant United States attorney in charge of narcotics cases, and James J. Biggins, supervisor of the federal narcotics office here. Miss Bailey said that Miss Sullivan, who was known as Peggy Evans when she testified in the Vic Shaw trial, was herself a former narcotics addict.

Gary police said Miss Sullivan's record showed she had been fined $400 in Dayton, O., in 1933 for grand larceny; sentenced to 60 days in Minneapolis in 1936 for vagrancy; fined $25 for larceny in Gary in 1939; arrested for Lincoln, Neb., authorities in 1940, and given a suspended sentence for intoxication in 1941.

OTHER LINES JOIN 'L' IN ASKING FOR TRANSFER BOOST

Attorneys for the Chicago Surface Lines and the Chicago Motor Coach company yesterday joined with the elevated lines in contending that the rate of fare for intercompany rides should be boosted from 10 to 13 cents.

The action was taken at a hearing before the Illinois commerce commission on the "L" petition for a 2 cent boost in the 10 cent "L" fare and a 3 cent increase for transfer rides between the "L" and the surface and bus lines.

SEIZE 9 ROBBERY GANG SUSPECTS; 8 ADMIT HOLDUPS

9th Blames Predicament on 'Stool Pigeons.'

Nine accused holdup men, including two parolees, were held last night at police headquarters for identification by an estimated 40 victims of south side robberies committed since last October. The gang might have numbered 10, except that the brother of one of those held was shot and killed by a policeman in an attempted holdup last September.

Lieut. Kyran Phelan, head of the police robbery detail, said that eight of the nine held had admitted from 3 to 18 robberies and that the lone prisoner who refused to talk had been implicated by the others in at least eight holdups. Phelan said the gang had robbed two south side hospitals and a sporting goods store among other places and that five revolvers, two shotguns, and a rifle were among the loot recovered.

At Least 12 Cars Taken.

He said they also had taken at least 12 cars, abandoning them after holdups. After a job, he said, they went on a spree, renting rooms in a good hotel and spending freely in the 63d street night spots. Their headquarters was a 63d street tavern.

Those in custody are:

Joseph Jackolsky, 24 years old, 4539 Woodlawn avenue, paroled from Joliet in January, 1940, after serving nearly five years for auto theft.

His brother, Stanley, 23, of 8408 Colfax avenue, freed in 1938 after serving three years in prison for auto theft.

James Kehler, 20, of 6315 Harper avenue, who served 60 days in the Bridewell for larceny last year.

John Forsythe, 25, of 6219 Greenwood avenue, who served 10 months in the Bridewell in 1940 for auto theft.

Edward Waters, 23, of 6449 Minerva avenue, fined $50 for assault in 1936.

Max Proskauer, 22, of 4539 Woodlawn avenue.

George Artonis, 26, of 6128 University avenue, put on a year's probation in 1934 for rape and sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell for larceny in 1937.

David Edgerley, 25, of 6539 Minerva avenue, paroled from Joliet last October after serving seven years for robbery.

Slaney Durk, 19, of 2954 North Leavitt street, whose brother, Arthur, 21, was shot and killed Sept. 4 by Policeman Robert Hayes in the midst of his second holdup of that evening.

Phelan said all except Edgerley admitted the holdups when the gang was rounded up as the result of the capture in Pennsylvania Dec. 28 of Stanley Jackolsky and Kehler. The two, accused of planning to rob a union headquarters in Pittsburgh, where Jackolsky was formerly a steel worker, ignored a stop light and were returned to Illinois when guns were found in their car.

Edgerley Won't Talk.

Edgerley told Phelan bitterly:

"I've been in trouble all my life. I won't talk. The only time I was ever caught doing anything wrong was when a cop caught me siphoning gas when I was 13. The only times I've been in trouble since were thru stool pigeons."

Phelan reported that $283 was found in Proskauer's room. The gang had been saving the money to hire an attorney to defend Jackolsky and Kehler, he said.

13 DIE, 22 HURT AS FIRE SWEEPS LODGING HOUSE

Lynn, Mass., Jan. 20 (AP).—Thirteen persons lost their lives in a blaze which swept a five story lodging house here today. Twenty-two were injured. The fire started in the basement and spread so quickly that dozens of tenants, many of them aged and infirm, were trapped on top floors of the structure.

Firemen found many clinging to ledges as flames enveloped the building. Others had jumped and lay moaning and screaming on the ground.

Mayor Albert T. Cole of Lynn said he would demand a state investigation to determine why fire escapes were not available for the tenants. There were no visible outside fire escapes on the building.

"I saw a number of persons come to the windows on the top floor and then fall back," said Police Sergt. William Gillespie.

Plunges Off 9th Floor Fire Escape to Death

A man identified as Henry B. Zettler, about 35 years old, of 557 Surf street, leaped to his death yesterday from a ninth floor fire escape of the apartment building at 426 Belmont avenue. Frank Bier, 23, elevator operator in the building, told Town Hall police that he saw the man lean out on the fire escape and when Bier ran toward him heard him cry: "Here goes!" Cards identified Zettler as a member of the elevator operators' union.

PUZZLE OF TUESDAY, JAN. 20, SOLVED

Chicago Daily Tribune
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

FOUNDED JUNE 10, 1847

ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER MAY 14, 1903, AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHICAGO, ILL., UNDER ACT OF MARCH 3, 1879.

All unsolicited articles, manuscripts, letters and pictures sent to The Tribune are sent at the owner's risk, and The Tribune company expressly repudiates any liability or responsibility for their safe custody or return.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 21, 1942.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."
—Stephen Decatur.

PEARL HARBOR FORESEEN.

The other day the Manchester Guardian Weekly, dated Nov. 21, reached this office from England. The leading article was entitled "Japan's Policy." Written well over a fortnight before Pearl Harbor, it began:

"The speeches made by the Japanese premier and foreign minister officially confirm what was already known and show how near Japan is to entering on a far eastern war."

The article went on to review the increasing tension in Japanese-American diplomacy in recent years, to show that the breaking point might be very near, and concluded:

"Japan has time to think again and there will be no war unless she makes it. But the warning is clear. The Pacific powers will have no excuse if events should catch them, any one of them or all together, unprepared. In 1904, against Russia, Japan struck suddenly and it is now the fashion."

Perhaps that last sentence ought to be set in italics, but we doubt if that device is needed to make the point that the carelessness displayed at Pearl Harbor and in Washington was, in the circumstances, criminal. A diplomacy was being pursued which sensible men the world over realized might well result in war. Nevertheless, adequate preparations for war were not made. Why not? It is to be hoped that the commission of inquiry, headed by Mr. Justice Roberts, will not keep the American public in the dark much longer.

A BROTHER IS READ OUT OF THE LODGE.

We have an unpleasant duty to perform. Treachery has been uncovered. Mr. Fortune Gallo, the operatic impresario, will please step away from that ice box door and face a jury of his peers.

It seems that the other evening, after the opera, Mr. Gallo suggested to his hostess that he repair to her kitchen and prepare a platter of spaghetti. That was not the crime. You don't have to be an impresario to suggest that you dash out to the kitchen and whip up for the ladies a festoon of spaghetti, or a rarebit, or some eggs scrambled with blue cheese in cream and golden fried onions [this department's contribution to the national dyspepsia]. If your hostess is squeamish about making scenes in public, you may get away with it.

No, Mr. Gallo's sin was committed in the kitchen and, if it hadn't been for Marcia Winn of Front Views and Profiles, might have gone undetected. Don't feel harshly toward Miss Winn, Mr. Gallo. Being a woman, she didn't know what she was saying. We quote:

"And, as he whisked about, tossing in ingredients, he carefully washed each used utensil."

This is treason to the society of amateur and occasional male cooks.

In spite of carping feminine prejudice, the amateur male cook is really quite a fellow. He approaches his task free of the inhibitions of budgets and undulled by the routine of having to dish it up three times a day. When he brings forth a confection it is something that he has been mulling over in his mind for months, and it is a confection. Scrambled eggs with blue cheese in cream and golden onions. The onions fried in olive oil. What woman would ever think that one up?

The natural penalty of his talent, unless he took protective measures, would be that his principal feminine critic would be so taken with his efforts that she would insist on his doing a regular turn in the kitchen. But as long as he leaves the place looking like Mozhaisk after the Nazi evacuation he is safe.

And then this miscreant, Gallo, gives it all away by doing the dishes.

In view of his previous good record; the jury will let the defendant off with a sentence of three months, during which he will take all his meals in tearooms. And how do you like those lettuce sandwiches, Mr. Gallo?

THE CONGRESSMEN BACK SENATOR BROOKS.

The unanimous support tendered Sen. Brooks in his coming campaign for renomination by the 16 Illinois Republican congressmen is a deserved tribute to his usefulness in the senate.

In the 15 months in which Mr. Brooks has sat in the senate he has won recognition far beyond that usually accorded newcomers to that body. He has made his mark as the senate's finest orator. In debates and on roll calls he has demonstrated himself to be an honest and faithful representative of the people of this state who sent him to Washington. No one has been in a better position to recognize these high qualities than the members of the Illinois congressional delegation, who have been on the ground and who in the many matters of public interest have had the close coöperation of Sen. Brooks.

The Illinois congressmen have a selfish interest in the senator's renomination. They will also be candidates this year and they are properly concerned that the ticket shall be headed by state-wide candidates having the greatest possible appeal to the voters. The congressmen are supporting Sen. Brooks in the conviction that his name will be a source of strength to them.

The congressmen have placed themselves on record that the Republican party in Illinois shall continue to be led by Republicans, believing in Republican principles, and cannot be seduced by party turncoats and renegades into becoming an appendage of the New Deal machine in the state.

NO BLACKOUT OF SENSE.

Mayor Kelly's refusal to stampede Chicagoans into untimely practice blackouts is to be commended. From the first, when he declared that Chicago had defeated hysteria, its worst potential enemy, the mayor has taken a sensible view of his duties as civilian defense coördinator. He has left others to play at war. Chicago has been getting on with its job, especially in armament production, while other cities have panicked themselves silly. If there ever is any emergency in Chicago, the mayor's defense organization will not have left its performance at the dress rehearsal.

WHO OWNS THE AUTOS?

One of Mr. Cahn's business charts, published recently in the financial section, showed that the largest single group of automobile owners in this country consists of persons with incomes of $20 to $30 per week. Those in that group comprise nearly one-quarter of all car owners. More than one-fifth of the cars are owned by people falling in the $10 to $20 a week group. A million and a half cars belong to persons earning less than $10 a week. Half of all the automobiles are driven by people earning $30 a week or less. Only one automobile in eight is driven by a man whose weekly pay check is $60 or more.

The automobile is largely the utility of the common man. He uses it on Sunday to give the family a treat and during the week to take him to his place of work. The automobile enables the mechanic to live in the suburbs and to go to his employment in the big city. It has multiplied many times the area that can be covered by salesmen and service men and therefore reduced selling and servicing costs.

The Interstate Commerce commission in a recent report has revealed the extent to which we are dependent upon automobiles. All of the intercity travel by every means in 1940 comprised 284,340,000,000 passenger miles. Of all this travel 86 per cent was accomplished in private automobiles, less than 9 per cent on railways, 4 per cent in buses, and a fraction of 1 per cent each by water carriers and airplanes.

The automobile has won its present place partly by displacing horse drawn vehicles and partly by capturing steam and electric railway traffic. It has done more than merely replace other transportation. It furnishes a supply of transportation with a power and flexibility which did not exist before. There is no kind of transportation facility, certainly not horses or trains, which can possibly take over the work of the passenger auto.

The people of the United States are dependent upon the automobile. The well fixed city resident or the suburbanite who uses his car chiefly to ride to the train can turn to sole leather, but these are not the typical automobile owners. Remember that only one-eighth of the cars are owned by men who earn as much as $60 a week.

The war needs of the country must be met, but the government ought to face the transportation problem realistically. It cannot cut off the supply of new cars without making it impossible for many persons to carry on their regular pursuits. A plain, small, low priced automobile is a necessity.

Time should not be lost in authorizing the automobile industry to proceed with the manufacture of the least expensive current models, stripped of every nonessential. That could be done during the period running up to a year that it will take to change over the plants to war work. A clever manager of the war effort would plan to use workers who would otherwise be unemployed to produce transportation we cannot get along without.

THE COST OF SHIPS.

The report of Sen. Harry S. Truman's committee investigating waste, extravagance, and inefficiency in the armament program indicates that the navy badly needs business management and a system of cost accounting. Sen. Truman reported that when he asked why costs of construction in private shipyards were apparently exorbitant, he was told by Rear Adm. Samuel M. Robinson, chief of the bureau of engineering, that "it was almost impossible to compare the costs of private with navy yard shipbuilding because of the navy's method of keeping its books."

Sen. Truman, however, found that 9 of the 13 private shipbuilders who had cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts are entitled to receive fees plus possible bonuses which exceed their own estimates of their net worth.

"The fees plus possible bonuses bore no relation to the average net profits of the companies during the period from 1936 to 1940," said the senator. "In one case they exceeded by nearly 800 times the average annual net profits; in other cases by 20, 30, and 40 times the annual net profits."

Sen. Truman described the profits of repair-ship-conversion work as "even more staggering." He said the navy permitted the yards to charge their regular hourly rates for repairs, despite the fact that such rates had been fixed at a time when there was very little business, and when the entire overhead of the organization had to be charged to a comparatively small volume of work. He said that the representative of one corporation told him that navy ship-conversion contracts "gave us a profit of $1.80 a day on every man we had, and I think we had around 35,000. If it hadn't been for taxes we couldn't have handled our profits with a steam shovel."

The system so far has permitted the navy an even greater latitude than the war department in handling its construction program. Congress has simply voted lump sum appropriations and the OPM has done little more than allocate materials and in some instances help to get construction under way. Congress, the OPM, and the navy department alike had no conception of the costs.

The reorganization of OPM, sending Donald Nelson to the top, may reduce the worst of the confusion, and the appointment of William S. Knudsen as a lieutenant general in charge of production may iron out some of the mismanagement in the war department. The fantastic muddle in the navy department would seem to indicate that the least that might be done there is to appoint an experienced business man as a vice admiral, if there is no disposition to correct the situation even closer to the top.

PRIVATE BARROW.

[New York Times.]

Joseph Louis Barrow of 4320 Michigan avenue, Chicago, found himself in this city on Monday, when it was time for him to be inducted into the army, and accordingly arranged with his home board for a transfer to local board 20, 331 Madison avenue. Mr. Barrow didn't ask for any special attention. When a reporter asked him what he intended to do in the army he replied, "Do what they tell me."

Nevertheless, he got attention. This is not usual, especially when the new arrival is to start army life as a private. Some of this attention came to Mr. Barrow because he is heavyweight champion of the world. But it was warm and friendly attention, because of the kind of champion he is: Fair, clean fighter; modest, gentlemanly citizen between fights; generous beyond any fighter on record in giving the entire proceeds of his last fight to war relief.

Joseph Louis Barrow, by the manner of his private and professional life, has done magnificent things for his own folk. They have a righ. to be proud of him. But all of us, of all racial origins, are proud of him. He is a good American. There can be none who don't wish him success in his new $21 a month job.

FOUR HORSEMEN RIDE AGAIN.

The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse are riding across the pages of history again, and some one has asked us to explain them. They have become figures of American folklore, especially among cartoonists, and altho they have been explained often the general public is hazy about their origin and their symbolism. So here goes.

To get started right you should turn to the last book in the New Testament, called the Revelation of St. John the Divine, and also the Apocalypse. In this prophecy by fantastic symbolism, chapter 6, you will find the four horses and their riders, thus:

"And I saw, and behold a white horse; and he that sat on him had a bow, and a crown was given unto him; and he went forth conquering, and to conquer. . . .

"And there went out another horse that was red; and power was given to him that sat thereon to take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another; and there was given unto him a great sword. . . .

"And I beheld, and lo, a black horse, and he that sat on him had a pair of balances in his hand. And I heard a voice . . . say, 'A measure of wheat for a penny and three measures of barley for a penny, and see thou hurt not the oil and the wine'. . . .

"And I looked and behold a pale horse; and his name that sat on him was Death, and Hell followed with him. And power was given unto them over the fourth part of the earth, to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death, and with the beasts of the earth."

They stand for imperial ambition, war, famine, and death by pestilence in the wake of war.

Then read "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" by Vicente Blasco Ibañez, Spanish novelist, published in English in 1918; and also try to remember the film made from it, in which Rudolph Valentino appeared. This will complete your education on this subject. . . . The Four Horsemen of Notre Dame were nicknamed by sports writers.

The Four Horsemen of football came into sports lore in 1924 when the Notre Dame team won a national championship. The phrase was first spoken by George Strickler, a Notre Dame student who was Rockne's secretary, in the press box at the Notre Dame-Army game. Grantland Rice popularized it in his report of that game. Strickler became a member of THE TRIBUNE's sports department, and is now director of publicity of the National Football league.

CAROLE LOMBARD.

Perhaps she would have chosen such a way
To leave the scene; her gay, impatient soul
Would not have wished for age to steal the play
And some day mark for her some minôr role.
She gave us laughter in a troubled age
And so we know she would not ask our tears,
Since she has only found a better stage
Before the camera of memory's years.
Her flight was ever higher toward the sun
Till one bright instant when the curtain fell;
The prolog ended, and the play begun,
What need is there for us to bid farewell?
Grand exit, gallant spirit, and adieu
While in the wings you wait your greatest cue.

A State of Mind Named "Absaroka."

If my pore ol' memory serves me rightly, the proposed state of Absaroka [Jan. 15] was started in a heat and ended in a joke. The national playgrounds of Montana and Wyoming couldn't get what they considered their fair share of government money for improvements, etc., several years ago and decided to band together into the 49th state.

Three summers ago the auto license plates, boosting Absaroka, abounded in the region from Sheridan to Billings, but every one, including the Yellowtail members of the Crow Indians, chuckled when inquiries were made and didn't take it too seriously. By last summer the plates and the talk had all but completely disappeared.

To Complete the Career of O'Leary's Cow.

The cow that kicked over the lamp that set fire to the barn that set fire to Chicago did not perish in the flames. After the fire had moved on the north, she was still breathing. Both the cow and her calf, saved by Peg Leg Sullivan, were sold by the O'Learys to Hynek Kleker, proprietor of a meat market on the southwest corner of Jefferson and De Koven streets, who slaughtered them. As Mr. Kleker was a specialist in minced meats, it is likely that a good part of mother and daughter went into sausage. This is not baloney.

THE FAITHFUL ONES.

too frequently I'd been with Pain
he followed where I'd go we'd walked thru bitter, blinding rain we'd shared the winter snow

old Sorrow, too, I had as friend for many lean, bleak years and he would very often send me gifts he'd made of tears

then Laughter came along one day
I loved him instantly but Sorrow sent him on his way and Pain stays close to me

GUARD THE GATEWAYS TO THE LUNGS.

NOOKS within the skull provide excellent bases for nests of germs. In fact, when bacteria attack the body, three out of four assaults will be launched from this area. All of which signifies that these regions will need to be watched constantly. They constitute the advance firing line in our battle against infection.

There are numerous pockets wherein microbes may lodge. Some are deep, while others are drained poorly. In consequence, colonies of these destructive agents may find their way into crypts where they will grow, bring on inflammation, and manufacture toxins. For example, whole families may establish themselves about the roots of the teeth, in the tonsils, the sinuses, and the middle ear spaces.

Every one is exposed daily. No one can remain in a dust laden room for 30 minutes and fail to breathe in enough organisms to cause illness. If we remain well it is because the resistance is high enough to destroy the unwelcome visitors about as rapidly as they are able to gain lodgment.

But suppose that neglect of good hygiene has let down the bars. What then? Nature will do her best to get rid of the invaders. If saliva is secreted in normal amounts the act of swallowing, which may take place several times each minute, will flush both the mouth and the throat. When bacteria reach the stomach, if the organ is intact and performing its duties manfully, few will be left undestroyed.

In this fashion the surfaces of the tonsils are bathed. The muscles of deglutition have a squeezing effect equivalent to a mild scouring. Furthermore the lining of the airways produces a mucous secretion which is one of the best germ catchers we possess. But the nasal passages must not be allowed to become dry, as flaky crusts will cause irritation and deprive the individual of the protection afforded by the discharges. The reason we have a profuse outflow of mucus during a cold is because the parts are doing their best to sweep away the irritating elements.

Congestion is a natural co-worker of inflammation. The tonsils can become a menace whenever the bacilli are able to cause distress. In other words, an attack of tonsilitis indicates that these glands are involved. A second or third siege means that the trouble is chronic. It is permanently located in the organs which have become a center of bacterial growth, of pus formation, and of toxin production. In such a situation the structures become springs of poor health and the sooner they are routed out the better.

We may well wonder if we are quite fair to the orifices of the body which receive the first onslaught from the army of microörganisms. Yes, we brush our teeth because that is an accepted hygienic measure. But, to be effective, this should be done after each meal as well as at bedtime.

But how often do we rinse the mouth thoroly and gargle the throat? As we know, this practice cannot lure these "wee beasties" out of deeply hidden pockets, but it will wash away countless regiments of surface forms, which will lessen the chances of illness.

MISSED THE BOAT.

L. E. M. writes: Where does food land when it "goes down the wrong way"?

REPLY.

When one swallows, the material enters the esophagus, which leads to the stomach. A morsel, finding its way into the trachea, which connects with the lungs, will provoke coughing and choking. This is the wrong way.

BAKED EXTREMITIES.

E. W. writes: When it is cold I like to sit by the stove and put my feet in the oven. My friends tell me this will dry the blood. Is this possible?

REPLY.

No. If you are comfortable and the oven is not too hot, well and good. A steaming foot bath will function even more efficiently, however, in increasing the blood flow to the parts.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

WE TRUST THEY'RE STILL THERE.

MIDWAY ISLAND, North Pacific Ocean, Nov. 27.—I am from Chicago and was a daily reader of THE TRIBUNE. Now here is what I wish to ask: Would some young people, from the ages of 18 to 25, correspond with us? We would be very thankful. P. FORTE, P. F. C.,

FRED MACMURRY, P. F. C.,
Fleet Marine Force.

ROTC MEDALS.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Mr. Philip Maxwell of your staff presented the Tribune gold and silver medals to Lake View's outstanding cadets Wednesday in a very impressive assembly before the whole school. The Tribune medals are greatly appreciated by the winners and the public award of them gives the work of the ROTC prestige in the school. In these times people can readily see the value of this ROTC work. But there have been times during the last 24 years when the public was not completely convinced of its value. Your constant support over that period has preserved the organization for its present usefulness.

O. WINTER,
Principal, Lake View High School.

SUGAR RATIONING.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Yesterday I went over to the store where I do most of my shopping, purchased a few things and asked for five pounds of sugar and could not get the sugar because I had not bought a dollar's worth of groceries. This is the first sugar I have asked for since we went to war. Is there somewhere in this town a place where poor people can get what sugar they need without a dollar purchase? Or do we have to go to those people who soon will be bootlegging sugar as they did in the last war?

READER.

MISS LOMBARD AND THE FLYERS.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—I am wondering, just like countless other readers, whether Miss Carole Lombard and her mother were the only passengers on that ill-fated ship. Of course, we feel sorry that this lovable and entertaining movie star had to lose her life, but it seems to me that the 15 army flyers were far more important.

E. C.

[THE TRIBUNE acknowledges a large number of other letters of similar tenor to the one above.]

LEON HENDERSON HAS HIS.

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 15.—Due to the present shortage of tires for vehicles, it would seem wise and generous on the part of bicycle owners to lend the OPM their "bikes" for the duration of the war.

There are some 10 million bicycles in operation thruout the country. I dare say at least one-third of this number could be loaned and not missed by the owners.

This would save the government the expense of manufacturing the 750,000 "victory" bikes which are scheduled for this year.

EVELYN GRALIKER.

NOMINATION.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—After the war, MacArthur for President! He is doing a mighty lot with a mighty little. We here, with everything to do with, are doing nothing.

L. A. JORDAN.

NO WAR FOR AMATEURS.

Decorah, Ia., Jan. 17.—At frequent intervals we are assured that astronomical appropriations are made or to be made which will provide a cloud of airplanes and tanks with which to overwhelm the enemy.

In the meantime at the points where the planning and the directing force to all this effort should be taking place, we find a mêlée of political cross current—a jockeying for political control. The first and final consideration is the test of political expediency. And with this we hope to win a war against a tight, ruthless enemy possessing all the advantages of short communication lines and established position.

This war cannot be won by amateurs. We cannot even defend ourselves, let alone win a war, with such direction. When a Pearl Harbor hits us we may get some satisfaction from chopping off a few subordinate heads, but the thing cuts deeper than that. Eventually under immediate threat we may shake down to a merit system. That has been the history of our other wars. In the meantime we shall have to sit back in our easy chairs and listen to that wonderful invention, the radio, assuring us that we are the unbeatable, the inexhaustible, "arsenal of democracy." I wonder if Gen. MacArthur does not sometimes wonder where that arsenal is.

After all, a system that has functioned with such success for more than nine years can't be wrong now, or am I in the right church but the wrong pew?

LARS HALSTAD.

HOW ROCHESTER DOES IT.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—After reading the editorial on staggering of working hours to relieve transportation congestion, I suggest that the city council study the system which has been in use for a number of years in Rochester, N. Y.

Shopping hours are condensed, eliminating congestion in the peak hours.

Weekly passes [there are all buses in Rochester] are usable any time, in any direction. I think the price is $1. Two daily shoppers' passes are issued for 15 cents.

In the morning they can be procured as early as 8:30, depending on the distance from the shopping district, and are good until 11:30. The afternoon pass is issued at 1:30 or 2 o'clock and is good until 4 o'clock. The holder must be started home by that time, or pay regular fare. The color of the pass tells the driver if it is eligible. There are no transfers needed and no punching.

A. B. H.

OVERCONFIDENCE.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—I agree with your editorial, "Our Principal Enemy," but nevertheless I think you muffed the answer. Our principal enemy and Britain's also is Anglo-Saxon arrogance and conceit. Britain was all but licked by it—and is still taking it on the chin. Pearl Harbor and our subsequent setbacks can be traced largely to the same source. Before the war our navy men bragged about what they would do to the Japs. That thing at Pearl Harbor simply couldn't happen to us. They are still bragging about what they are going to do. Overconfidence is a subtle and potent enemy, and very difficult to combat. Ask any football coach. It couldn't happen to Duke, but it did. Probably we will have to be cured the hard way.

GEORGE BORROWMAN.

NO OWL BUSES.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—The surface lines are compelled by franchise to operate 24 hours of the day, whereas the motor coach company operates during the lucrative daylight hours, and then, when the jingle of the cash register begins to slow down, it quits.

Along with my fellow passengers, I endure their cattle car operating tactics, for which they charge a 10 cent fare, where comparable surface lines service is available for 7, but it would seem that this were special privilege enough without allowing that company alone to operate only during those hours when they can enjoy the cream of the business.

If you live along Addison street and are called to work too early in the morning, or if you come home too late in the evening, why, brother, just start walkin'.

R. L. HEALY.

PROBABLY NOT AS LOW AS THEY SEEM.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—I live at 6306 Waveland avenue, which seems to be in one of Chicago's air lanes. In the last few years we have been disturbed at numerous times by low flying aircraft. The offenders most of the time are air liners that fly so low it is possible to read their markings. This morning on a clear day at exactly 7:45 a large TWA plane flying south and slightly east flew not more than the height of an 8 story building, at Addison street and Mobile avenue.

R. P. WIEBKING.

AT LICENSE BUYING TIME.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—When there is a rush in private business all employés work fast to relieve that rush, but did you ever see a state or city pay roller when a few hundred people are waiting to pay money?

EDWARD MUMMERT.

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

ADVERSE USE.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. For more than 40 years I have lived at the address shown below and during this time, when necessary to clean windows outside on south side of my home, have used gangway of cottage to the south. New people, who claim to have purchased this cottage, ordered me out of said gangway.

3. There is no other way for me to clean my windows on the outside.

4. The neighbor north of me uses my gangway for the same purpose.

1. The question whether you have acquired a right by adverse user depends upon all the proof as to whether your use was adverse or merely permissive.

2. Yes, originally.

3. This is not enough to prove that you have a right to encroach on the other side of the boundary.

4. Same. If you attach sufficient importance to the point, we suggest that you go over all of your facts in a personal interview with a lawyer whom you will employ if litigation proves necessary.

MISS BARRYMORE STAR ON W-G-N RAMPARTS SHOW

Noted Comedians Also on Program.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Ethel Barrymore will make one of her rare radio appearances on W-G-N-Mutual's Americans at the Ramparts program which will salute the fight against infantile paralysis in a special broadcast from 7 to 7:30 tomorrow night. Miss Barrymore is starring currently in "The Corn Is Green" at the Harris theater.

Other stars for this show are to be James Dunn of the "Panama Hattie" company; Morton Downey, radio and night club singer, and Comedians Arthur Treacher and Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy.

Carole Lombard had been engaged, prior to her tragic death, to make a guest appearance on the Jack Benny show next Sunday, it was disclosed yesterday. Miss Lombard and Benny recently finished the movie, "To Be or Not to Be." It was in deference to the memory of Miss Lombard that Benny did not broadcast last Sunday.

Bill Slater, NBC sports editor and former West Pointer, is returning to active service in the army. Bill is the second of New York's major sports announcers to join the armed forces. Al Helfer of Mutual recently joined the navy. Helfer also was master of ceremonies for W-G-N-Mutual Spotlight Bands series, currently aired from Chicago. That post went to Gil Newsome, who was only a few weeks back virtually an unknown announcer on a Philadelphia station. Newsome, who was announcing bands from night clubs there, was assigned to Glenn Miller's orchestra. Miller liked him, had him brought to New York for an audition and in a few hours he was lined up as master of ceremonies for a major network show.

ADVISED TO GET BOY FRIEND, SAYS SUING EX-WIFE

Testifying yesterday in her suit to compel payment of a $1,000 a month divorce settlement, Mrs. Lilly Parsons Reighley of San Francisco, Cal., told of her unhappy married life with Reginald Bemis Parsons of Seattle, Wash., heir to a large fortune.

Mrs. Reighley, a tall, statuesque brunette who was born in Germany and lived there until her marriage to Parsons, said they never lived a normal married life and that she was advised by a lawyer that she would have to "get herself a boy friend or go insane" if she continued to live with Parsons.

The suit was brought in Superior court here against the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, which is in charge of a trust fund for Parsons, and is being heard by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer.

The couple were married in Berlin in 1935 and divorced there in 1936. Mrs. Reighley said she acted to dissolve the marriage only after physicians in Germany had told her husband he was impotent and "only God could help him."

"Pursuit of a Parcel"

By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull

(Copyright: 1942: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull)

SYNOPSIS.

Cornelius Rossiter, born Cornelius Roos, is the adopted brother of Antony Rossiter, and is a spy for both Germany and England. When a man high in the Nazi circles suspects him of his French connection, Cornelius announces he has taken a dictagraph of the man's expressions of disloyalty to Hitler and it will be sent to Goering if anything happens to Cornelius. In London, Antony is sent by Col. Garrett of the British Intelligence to Holland to get secret information concerning Cornelius' loyalty to England. Before leaving, Antony makes his fiancée, Delia Merridew, promise not to mention his errand. A package addressed to Antony is received by Delia's uncle, Philip, just before a bomb wrecks his office. Emanuel Holt, a clerk, rescues the package, and Philip, dangerously hurt, makes him promise to keep the package safe. But Holt gets frightened when two attempts are made to steal the package from him and he takes it to Delia, but he is followed to Delia's house by a man named Jimmy Nash. Nash sees Holt give Delia the package, while waiting outside her house. He mistakes a Miss Murdle for Delia, and as she leaves the house brutally assaults her in a vain attempt to get the parcel. In Holland, Antony, posing as Piet Maartens, a ne'er-do-well nephew of Anna Brandt, a tavern keeper, interviews Cornelius and learns about the package.

INSTALMENT XV.

RECOGNITION.

Delia pushed the clothes back with a sudden quick thrust and jumped out of bed. As soon as she was dressed she ran downstairs. That is to say that she began by running, but before she had reached the hall the impulse which had prompted her was slackening.

Something dragged at her feet and slowed them to a walk. She came to the study and stood with her hand on the door for a moment before she pushed it open and went in. The sun was on the window. The chairs in which she and Emanuel had sat faced one another across the hearth. The chair with its back to the window was hers.

She unlatched the casement and threw it wide. The morning air came in, fresh and a little frosty. She put her knee on the sill and climbed out.

Yes, some one had stood here among the lilacs. There were footprints, one very deep as if a man had leaned forward on that foot and kept his weight there, leaning forward and looking in. Some one had looked in at the study window.

Delia stared at the footprints with a kind of horrified intensity. It had rained all yesterday morning—real heavy, sluicing rain. The footprints had been made after that, or they would have been blurred and partly washed away. The ground must have had time to dry a little, because the edges were sharp and clear, but it was still soft enough to sink under a man's weight and leave a deep impression.

If a man had stood there and looked in, what would he have seen? Emanuel Holt and Delia Merridew? He would certainly have seen Emanuel Holt. He would have seen no more of Delia Merridew than her back. . . . She began to shiver so much that she had to catch at the window and steady herself. He couldn't have seen her face, because she hadn't turned around—she was sure that she hadn't turned around. She had taken the parcel and gone out of the room, and Miss Murdle had taken her knitting bag and gone out of the house and been murdered. These two things couldn't have anything to do with each other.

Delia began to feel cold and sick. They couldn't possibly. Or could they? . . . With a dreadful clarity it came to her that they could. Miss Murdle hadn't been killed because she was Miss Murdle. She had been killed because some one thought she was Delia Merridew. No, that wasn't right, either. All the things which Emanuel had told her rushed into Delia's mind—the burglary, the man who wasn't from the water company, the fuss at the bus stop. She thought, "Miss Murdle was killed because some one believed that Mr. Holt had given her Antony's parcel."

She straightened up and began to walk around to the front door. Her legs were shaking. It would be easier to go in that way. But as she came to the steps she met the postman coming down, and wished she had scrambled in at the study window, because of course he would talk about Miss Murdle, and she didn't feel as if she could bear it. Every one she met all day long would talk about Miss Murdle, and she felt as if she would end by believing she had murdered her.

The postman began at once.

"Shocking thing, this about Miss Murdle, isn't it, miss?"

There was a stone balustrade on either side of the steps. Delia leaned against the left hand bottom pillar and said in rather a breathless voice:

"What happened?"

This was almost too good to be true. Mr. Cobbett's bright, alert face became extremely animated. He was too humane to feel pleasure in a murderous attack, but he certainly enjoyed talking about it.

"Struck down without an eye to see, and there she might have laid all night, poor lady, if it wasn't for Mrs. Fletcher coming by to the farm. Almost trod on her, and got such a turn she isn't over it yet. And whether Miss Murdle gets over it or not, well, there's no saying."

Delia gave a gasp.

"Isn't she dead?"

Mr. Cobbett shook his head.

"Not yet she isn't, but there's no saying."

Delia felt as if a cold and heavy weight had been lifted from her heart. Miss Murdle might have been her dearest friend.

"O, Mr. Cobbett, are you sure she's not dead?"

Mr. Cobbett was quite sure. He had it from Barnett, Dr. Kyrle's chauffeur-gardener, who in his capacity as a St. John's ambulance man had assisted in conveying Miss Murdle to the cottage hospital.

"Looked like a corpse and never so much as groaned when they shifted her, but the doctor, he says very decided: 'O, no, she's not dead,' he says, and that's as far as any one knows."

Delia went into the house. Breakfast seemed more possible since she had seen Mr. Cobbett.

Half an hour later she came downstairs wearing a warm tweed coat and carrying Antony's parcel. She went around to the garage, took out her own little car, and drove into Wayshot with the parcel on the seat beside her. If any one was watching her or the house, well, let them watch and see what they made of it.

Soon after she had turned out of the drive she heard the chug-chug of a motor-bicycle coming up behind her. Once odd things begin to happen, everything seems odd. She felt a passionate dislike for that motor-bicycle, and a cold drop went trickling down her spine. She was wishing she had brought Parker with her, when large, solid, and noisy, the Benting bus came up behind, going a great deal faster than its legal 30 miles an hour. She let it pass her, stepped on the gas, and followed it into Wayshot.

An angel bus, a bus of deliverance—only what was there to be delivered from? She looked about for the motor-bicycle, and couldn't see it any more. The bus had stopped in front of the Blue Lion, and she had stopped in front of the bank, so there was no reason at all why the motor-bicycle should not have stopped, too. It might be parked in Parson's alley, or around the corner of the lich gate, or behind the grocer's van, or it might be lurking on the far side of the bus.

She got out of the car with Antony's parcel well in evidence and disappeared into the bank.

Presently she came out without it and drove back to Fourways.

Antony, in the character of an aimless loafer, was drifting down a street towards the waterside. Presently a man whom he wanted to see would come along and pass him a word. That would be the first step toward getting home again. It was a pleasant morning with a soft air off the sea, and the sun coming and going between blue sky and a fleece of cloud. A girl in a blue coat and skirt and a little blue hat came out of one of the small houses on the opposite side of the street. She looked at Antony and, most unfortunately, at that exact moment Antony thought about Delia and smiled. If it hadn't been for the smile, the girl might have let him go, but the minute he smiled she was sure of him. She ran across the street and planted herself squarely in his path.

"Why—Antony!" she said in a light, surprised voice.

Antony could have murdered her with all the pleasure in life. Her name was Mina Van Eyden, and she was a very pretty girl. He had met her and her sister at a dance when he was over in April. Cornelius had introduced him. They had danced, they had sat out, and he had an idea that at some point in the proceedings he had kissed Mina. The sister wasn't so pretty, but he had liked her. They had all seen quite a lot of each other for a week. A week in April—it was a long time ago.

Really a bit of the most outrageous luck to run across her here. And what was she doing in a street like this anyway?

He made his face as blank as he could and muttered something in Dutch.

Mina Van Eyden tossed her head.

"What a silly man you are! Did you really think I shouldn't know you again? I've been visiting my old nurse—and this is the reward of virtue!" She was speaking in English as good as his own.

He shook his head, shuffled with his feet, and muttered a clumsy excuse.

"I do not understand—I speak only Dutch."

A shade of uncertainty crossed her pretty face. She opened her mouth and shut it again.

Antony pushed past her and left her standing. He hoped that she would have enough sense to hold her tongue.

Mina had no sense at all. She was as silly as she was pretty. She went out to a lunch party and told all her friends she was quite sure that she had met the good looking Englishman who was the adopted brother of Cornelius Roos.

"Antony Rossiter—that was his name. Cornelius introduced him to me at a dance in April—I forgot whose dance it was, but that does not matter. He danced divinely. I have never danced with any one whose step suited mine so well. It was like a lovely dream."

Brilliant Satire in Novel That Is Truly Adult

"Along These Streets," by Struthers Burt. [Scribners, $2.75.] Published Monday.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

This is one of the rarest of books, a really adult novel. We meet one almost as seldom as we come across that blue moon of fable. A book needn't be adult to be great. Some of the most memorable novels—American novels, especially—have been great just because they were not tolerantly adult but had that eternal quality of vivid intolerant youth about them.

"Main Street" is the most obvious example. In that book, neither the author nor the heroine took a seasoned, long view of Gopher Prairie. Its satire was the passionate, seeing one side kind of satire that youth and youth alone is capable of.

The novels of John P. Marquand about Boston are the best recent examples of what I mean by adult. Their satire is no less biting than was Sinclair Lewis' in "Main Street," "Babbitt," and the rest of his most memorable and ironic tales, but Mr. Marquand has a kind of tender tolerance in his no less biting satire. Like "The Late George Apley" and "H. M. Pulham, Esq.," Struthers Burt's new novel about Philadelphia might be called a loving satire on a state of mind. And as such, it is brilliant and exciting and—rare.

Three satires of the Philadelphia state of mind will be remembered in this generation—Christopher Morley's recent "Kitty Foyle," William C. Bullitt's "It's Not Done," published in 1926, and Struthers Burt's "Along These Streets." "Kitty Foyle" is the best story; "It's Not Done" was youthfully satiric; Mr. Burt's is the most mature, and, in its interpretation, the most real.

As a story, "Along These Streets" is not exciting. It is about a young man suddenly inheriting a fortune on the proviso that he live nine months of each year in the family "rose-colored" brick house in mid-Philadelphia and what he decided to do about it. An anthropologist, psychically unconditioned to women, or at least unaccustomed to them, he makes good satire material himself and Mr. Burt gives him the works.

But it is the way his story is told, not the story itself, which makes this book a joy. There is intelligent talk here, intelligent observation, intelligent interpretation, adult—and often extremely amusing—satire. "Along These Streets" is one of the best novels in its genre.

A Well Spun Story

"Young Ames," by Walter D. Edmonds. [Little-Brown, $2.50.] Published Monday.

New York in the early 19th century is the background, but the hero of "Young Ames" is as up to the minute as the smartest young cub of Wall street. He is a "boy wanted" as the book opens. As it closes he is the man needed.

In a carefully interlocking and progressing series of 11 short stories which are complete in themselves, the story of young Ames' business and emotional life is told by one of the most skilled of our tale tellers. Each story is done in the same pattern. All is eventually well after mild deterrents. New York, with its streets as happy a runway for pigs as for humans, its docks holding the price of cotton in their grasp, its picturesque volunteer fire company, and its Irish riots, and a lightning trip to New Orleans in 13 days, form the colorful background for as neat a bag of business tricks as any smart young man ever pulled.

Young Ames is called "unscrupulous" by his employer, but is honored by him for his Yankee tricks and loved by his spirited niece. Young Ames' adventures make as good "escape" reading as you'll come across—easy to read and easy to forget, like an excellent dinner whose immortality is earned when it brings a glow to the body and the haze of comfort to the mind.

Walter D. Edmonds wrote, as you remember, "Drums Along the Mohawk," "Rome Haul," and other novels of the period, but of "Young Ames" he declares that it "lays no claim to historical value of any sort," which is too modest on the author's part, for from it you get a graphic picture of the really little and old New York.

Novel of Mexico

"Nayar," by Miguel Angel Menendez. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]

The runner-up in the Latin American Prize contest, which was won by Ciro Alegria's "Broad and Alien is the World," also is a tale of simple folk against an excitingly unfamiliar background. The jungles, the swamps, an occasional village of Mexico, and the creatures which prowl or hoot or fly there are, oddly, much more real characters in "Nayar" than are the humans.

"Nayar" is a poetic panorama of sights, sounds, terrors, the eternal violent battle of nature, more memorably than it is the tale of a half breed who slew a judge for the oldest reason on earth and, with his friend, who tells the story, hides in the jungle from official wrath.

Back to the primitive life of the Indians [from a civilization which seems no more civilized to the reader], the hero and his companion trek, thru the healthy tragedy of nature's ceaseless war, thru the bitter disaster of natural catastrophes. They are, with the Indians, onlookers at man's war with man in the revolution to a poetic end, inevitable and therefore not tragic.

"Nayar," authorities say, is typical of the Mexican novel, in which subtlety of inference takes the place of the straightforward outspokenness of reality found in the literature above the Rio Grande. But there is no haziness about the reality of nature in "Nayar." It is beautifully, hauntingly real.

Volume of Verse

"The Collected Poems of Josephine Hancock Logan." [Kroch, $3.]

Selecting from her two previous volumes of poetry, "Lights and Shadows" and "Heights and Depths," and including a number of poems which have previously been published only in anthologies or periodicals, Josephine Hancock Logan has gathered together her "Collected Poems" in a handsome volume.

Mrs. Logan is a well known patron of the arts in Chicago, best known as founder and president of the Society for Sanity in Art, which condemns the unconventional forms of modern art. Some of her readers may point out that in her poetry she herself disregards the conventional rhyme forms, but in that she is not being inconsistent, for she thus advocates the truest sanity in art, the artist's selection of his own individual medium and form.

Most of the poems in this volume are happy family records, personal tributes, and lyrics of gentle emotion.

California Landmarks

"California, a Landmark History," by Joseph R. Knowland. [Oakland Tribune Press, $3.50.]

The publisher of the Oakland, Cal., Tribune, who has been for many years interested in the preservation of historic landmarks in California and has worked, since 1902, as chairman of the committee of the Native Sons of the Golden West, has made a record in fact and in photograph of the fine restorations of the old missions and frontier forts and the marking of California's historic and literary shrines. His book, altho not intended as a history, does give the reader an interesting picture of the past as well as of the present.

A Million Books for Army Boys Is Chicago Goal

Have you made your contribution to the Victory Book campaign yet? One million books for our sailors, soldiers, and marines is the goal of the Chicago metropolitan area committee under the directorship of A. Kroch and Carl B. Roden, librarian of the Chicago public library. The American Library association, the Red Cross, and the United Service organizations are sponsoring the national drive for 10 million books.

"Bring Books for the Boys" parties have had a phenomenal success in Hollywood, and there's no reason why you can't whip up a few neighborhood parties yourself, with books as the price of admission.

Books in good condition, good books, the kind of books YOU like will be the kind that the boys like. Take them to any of the branches of the public library, the main library or your favorite bookshop. They will be sorted and turned over immediately to the camp libraries which need them.

If you have 50 or more books, telephone Randolph 5520, and a truck will call for them. If you have fewer than that number, but too many to carry yourself, telephone the Friends of American Writers, Diversey 2213.

That organization has volunteered to make book collections and also will be happy to have volunteer workers. You needn't be a member of the organization or of any of the 30 clubs affiliated with it.

But meanwhile, go over your own bookshelves and give yourself the happiness of passing on the books which have given you pleasure.

MISSION TO MOSCOW
JOSEPH E. DAVIES

AMBASSADOR JOSEPH E. DAVIES

Why has Mission to Moscow become the first best-seller of 1942?

MISSION TO MOSCOW was published less than four weeks ago. An immediate, country-wide wave of major reviews has made people aware of the book's deep and timely significance. Orders for between three and four thousand copies every day are being wired, phoned and air-mailed in by the nation's booksellers.

As our Ambassador to Russia, Joseph E. Davies acquired so much secret official information that he was one of the few Americans to predict the amazing performance of the Red Army. His book is the record of his confidential dispatches to the State Department, released with the Department's extraordinary consent.

Mr. Davies saw history in the making at close range and reported it intimately in his private diaries and off-the-record letters to President Roosevelt, Secretary Hull and others. As a result, the reader has the sensation of being permitted to look behind the veil into the workings of our secret diplomacy.

Mission to Moscow is written by a capitalist who is able to look at communism with an open mind. It answers hosts of hitherto baffling questions about the Soviet Union, from the secret of the Red Army's power to the true stories of the Moscow trials. The reviews below will indicate why it is "required reading" for every thinking American. 5th Printing. Price $3.00

A few of the many tributes Mr. Davies has received from leading opinion-makers

President Roosevelt says, (in a letter to Mr. Davies dated January 2nd, 1940): "You exercised a happy faculty in evaluating events at hand and determining with singular accuracy their probable effect on future developments."

William Allen White says: "No one who would pretend to assess the actual values of modern Russia can afford to let these revelations by Ambassador Davies go by. It will be a reference book to which historians will turn for many years."

The New York Herald Tribune "Books" says: "This is a book that gives heart to embattled democrats. It is a report to the American people which is heartening in a world where secret diplomacy has at last managed to live up to its name."

Pierre van Paassen, (author of Days of Our Years) says: "Every American who wants to know the wheels within wheels must turn to this book. Here is something truly indispensable."

Time Magazine says: "Joe Davies' prophetic shrewdness is revealed in full in Mission to Moscow."

The New York Times Daily says: "This is the one book above all to read on Russia. It is unlikely that we have ever had a more sincere or more nearly unprejudiced report."

Walter Duranty says: "This is a historical record, first-hand and hot from the fire. A good and true story written with exceptional vision and courage."

DEWEY TO SEEK RE-ELECTION TO CONGRESS SEAT

Thanks Supporters in 9th District for Aid.

United States Representative Charles S. Dewey, Republican, of the 9th Illinois district on Chicago's north side, announced yesterday his candidacy for reëlection to congress. He will seek renomination in April. He promises if renominated and reëlected to continue his war support of the administration.

Charles S. Dewey.

Congressman Dewey is serving his first term in the house. He is a member of the committee on banking and currency, and is considered one of the foremost authorities in congress on financial matters. He also is considered one of the most active congressmen from Illinois and a spokesman for increased lake diversion.

Thanks His Supporters.

"I wish to express my sincere thanks to the four elected Republican ward committeemen in the 9th congressional district who have unanimously indorsed my candidacy for reëlection, and to the precinct captains and workers in their organizations, all of whom loyally supported me in the 1940 campaign," said Dewey, in announcing his candidacy.

"I also received the support of a number of independent Republican organizations, for which I will always be appreciative.

"As a candidate for reëlection I wish to state unequivocally that I shall continue to support the President for the attainment of an early and complete victory in the war that has been thrust upon us.

Opposes Discrimination.

"At the same time, I shall ever be alert to oppose any discriminatory legislation oppressive to any racial, religious, or national group composing our great country.

"In this great struggle for free institutions we must hold fast among ourselves to the great underlying principles of free representative government lest we lose at home that for which we are fighting abroad."

Congressman Dewey formerly served as assistant secretary of the treasury from 1924 to 1927, and as financial adviser to the Polish government from 1928 to 1930.

SUPERIOR COURT JUDGES TO RUN OWN PRETRIALS

Chief Justice Loren E. Murphy of the Illinois Supreme court informed the Superior court executive committee yesterday that a recent Supreme court ruling permits each Superior court judge to be his own pretrial judge.

In accordance with the ruling, the Superior court on Jan. 5 adopted the pretrial conference system for handling lawsuits, and Judge James F. Fardy, head of the law division, was named pretrial judge for all cases. It was specified, however, that the new system would not be allowed to interfere with the 12 law calendars—one to each law judge—made out when the court year began last September.

Because of the confusion resulting from two systems in operation at once, the executive committee queried the Supreme court on the possibility of having each judge be his own pretrial judge. Whether such a system is to be adopted will be decided soon. It would amount to a return to the calendar system, at least for the remainder of the current court year.

Woman's Second Effort to End Her Life Succeeds

Mrs. Mildred Olsen, 41 years old, wrote several farewell notes in her home at 2450 Haymond avenue, River Grove, last evening, then slashed her wrists with a knife. She was taken to the West Suburban hospital in Oak Park and placed in a fourth floor room overlooking Austin boulevard. A short time later Mrs. Olsen opened a window, leaped out, and was killed.

TALK OF KICKING SHERIFF UP TO CONGRESS SEAT

Democrats Plan Slate for Primary.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Democratic county leaders talked yesterday of the possibility of slating Congressman A. F. Maciejewski of the 6th district for the Denis A. Horan vacancy on the sanitary district, so that Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien might be ticketed again for Washington where he preceded Maciejewski in the house.

O'Brien cannot succeed himself in the sheriff's office and what to do with him has long been a subject of Democratic discussions, in view of the amount of publicity he received during the anti-gambling campaign.

The latest suggestion for the sheriff's political future may be discussed further at the meeting of the Democratic county central committee which Chairman P. A. Nash is expected to call this week. Mr. Nash is laid up with a bad foot at present so the meeting might be held in his home at 3234 Washington boulevard.

Plan Candidate Committee.

Appointment of a subcommittee to consider candidacies and draft a slate is expected to be the principal result of this gathering. The Republicans already have a candidate committee at work. Their candidate interviewers were in session again yesterday in the La Salle hotel, but there was no indication when the job will be completed.

Former Trustee Horan, who died a few months ago, would have been up for reëlection this year, so no special election is necessary to name his successor. Trustee George Seif preceded Horan in death, but to date Gov. Dwight H. Green has not called a special election to fill out his term, which has four years to run. If the governor does so, each party will nominate four candidates for the district.

Trustees Tom Byrne and Paul V. Collanni, whose terms expire this year, are expected to seek reëlection and prior to yesterday there were reports that former State Auditor Edward J. Barrett had his eye on the Horan vacancy and hoped to be their running mate. Barrett may go thru with this reported intention or he may seek another county office.

Hopefuls in Sheriff Race.

A number of hopefuls for the Democratic nomination for sheriff are included in the preslate talk, with supporters of Ald. Joseph P. Rostenkowski especially active. Peter B. Carey, former president of the board of trade, is also talked of.

The senatorial situation remains unclarified, with the attitude of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney still undetermined. Mayor Kelly has steadfastly refused to talk on the matter, except to say that he discussed it with President Roosevelt in Washington last week.

PRICES OF HORSES TOP AVERAGE OF PEACETIME SALE

The first Chicago horse market since the declaration of war got off to a slow start yesterday, but prices picked up in the afternoon and topped the average of the last market by $15 a head.

About 1,000 buyers, breeders, and onlookers attended the auction in the pavilion at 43d and Halsted streets.

Sellers who had expected tire rationing and the ban on auto sales to elevate horse prices to boom levels were disappointed in the morning session, when prices were $30 to $50 a head below average.

A total of 300 commercial and farm horses brought their owners $40,500 at the auction, an average of $135 a head.

TRIPS—VACATIONS THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE TOURS—CRUISES

FLORIDA GAFFS A FEW OF WAR'S FISHY STORIES

'Keep 'Em Trolling' Still Is Slogan There.

BY BOB BECKER.

Those suntanned guides who every winter take thousands of northern fishermen and their tackle out into the deep and behind the protected keys from Florida cities such as Fort Lauderdale, Miami, Miami Beach, West Palm Beach, and St. Petersburg are annoyed these days. Several have written that too many ridiculous war rumors about Florida are going the rounds in northern cities.

These stories [none of them true] have guide boats afraid to go fishing because of mines supposedly floating around among the schools of sailfish and barracuda. One story that is making Florida residents boil over has the sunswept beaches barricaded by barbed wire. The only war story missing so far is that the enemy has subsidized the ocean going swordfish so that the latter will ram all fishing boats and cut 'em in half.

Anglers Still Having Fun.

All the yarns about what the war has done to Florida aquatic sports are bunk. "Keep 'em trolling" still is the slogan of the boats that ply the blue Gulf stream, and the anglers continue to have a lot of fun down where the sailfish dance on top of the water and the bonefish race across the mud flats behind the keys.

Tom McBride of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., got so angry about the rumor business last week that he wrote:

"There are rumors going around, so we hear down here, that south Florida game fishing on the outside is at a standstill because of floating mines and continual danger of submarines.

"Just how they got started no one knows. But the trouble is that they're circulating, and in some cases they're believed. Stuart, Palm Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Hollywood, and Miami have run into the same stories.

Brands Rumors Stupid.

"Other rumors, just as widespread and ridiculous, have it that the overseas highway to Key West is blocked to civilian traffic and that the army is searching all cars entering Florida. The fact that these rumors are stupid seems to make no impression.

"You can take it from me and a million other Floridia residents and winter visitors that all this stuff is unfounded, but we're concerned about it nevertheless. There are hundreds of charter boat captains who are going to suffer if these unfounded rumors persist. If there is any danger here we will be the first to acknowledge it."

Apparently all the stories haven't worried a number of Chicagoans who already have been south, found the Atlantic "as usual," and enjoyed good fishing. Among the catches have been many sailfish. Mr. and Mrs. Roos Richard of Chicago boated two tarpon weighing 40 and 25 pounds and hooked 35 others while trolling out from Miami Beach. Veteran guides say the fish are bigger and more plentiful this year than ever before.

Sailfish Derby in Progress.

At West Palm Beach they expect to see more than 500 sailfish captured in the first 21 days of the 8th annual Silver Sailfish Derby, which opened last Sunday. That the sporty sailfish are plentiful this season off the east coast is indicated by the fact that in four days of another sailfish Derby in December 225 of them were captured. Anglers turn back all the small ones to conserve the supply.

Sportsmen also are making some excellent catches around Key West, with the women taking top honors in some classes. Mrs. M. B. Harris of 1540 Lake Shore drive landed a 35 pound grouper while seeking various species of salt water fish. Mrs. G. A. Pockels of 6499 West 65th street brought in a 28 pound barracuda.

Fort Lauderdale Good Base.

Fort Lauderdale has been another good fishing base. A few days ago two Chicagoans joined the exclusive sailfish club of that resort when they fought and brought to gaff a couple of good sized specimens. They were awarded sailfish certificates and buttons by the Fort Lauderdale Anglers' association.

The two anglers were Leonard T. Moore of 315 North Ada street and E. W. Steinweg of 8214 Chappel avenue. Moore's big finned gamester, caught aboard Johnny King's Bon Ami, was 7 feet long and weighed 41 pounds. Steinweg's, also a 7 footer, tipped the beam at 43 pounds and was caught from Capt. F. R. Merritt's Caliban III.

One of the nicest "sails" captured this season by a woman at Fort Lauderdale was a 6 foot 7 inch specimen boated by Mrs. A. H. Truax of 40 East Oak street. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Burns of 5118 Grace street landed four sailfish there recently.

Reports from the Florida west coast indicate that Chicagoans are out in front with their catches of black bass from inland rivers and lakes, and snook, redfish, and sea trout from the gulf. From St. Petersburg south along the coast to Naples are scores of sites for northerners who like to use light tackle to catch salt water game fish.

Springtime River Cruise to Natchez Is Announced

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 20 [Special].—A springtime cruise down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers from Cincinnati to Natchez, Miss., has been announced for the steamboat Gordon C. Greene. The steamer will sail March 7 and reach Natchez in time for the garden festival there.

TOURISTS: YOU STILL CAN GET INTO CALIFORNIA

Special Newspaper Ads to Dispel Rumors.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 20 [Special].—Los Angeles county supervisors have approved a series of three newspaper advertisments that will be published in an effort to offset war born rumors considered detrimental to California's tourist business.

The advertisments will be published in 11 of the largest midwestern and eastern papers.

Recommendation of Club.

The rumors are that highways into California are blockaded, that women are not admitted to the state, and that no one is permitted to move around except on military business. All these are untrue.

The action of the supervisors in approving the ads was taken on the recommendation of the All-Year Club of Southern California.

Don Thomas, managing director of the club, appeared before the board with a plea for the action to stop the damage that, he said, is being done not only to Los Angeles county but to the whole west coast.

Reads Number of Letters.

Thomas read a number of letters the club has received from persons in the midwest and east desiring to spend their winter vacation in Los Angeles and wanting to know if there are any restrictions.

While the series will be a special one, costing $17,236 and directed by the club, it will be made to fit in the organization's regular campaign of newspaper advertising and will involve no cost to the taxpayers.

ICKES RECOMMENDS TRAVEL AS BUILDER OF HEALTH, MORALE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 [Special].—Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, has recommended that, as an aid to the promotion of national health and morale, travel for relaxation be continued as far as consistent with troop and materiel movements.

In a telegram to M. L. Lyles, assistant to the president of the Santa Fe railway, the secretary said:

"Department plans to continue operation of national park areas for visitors. Nearly 28,000 service men used these areas in November. This use should be fostered. So far as consistent with troop and materiel movements, feel strongly that civilian travel for purposes of relaxation as health and morale measures should be continued. United States should profit by experience of her allies, who learned early in war that too long hours at high pressure work resulted in decreased production."

Ski Enthusiasts on an Outing at Mont Tremblant

BY JUDITH CASS.

SOME winter sports enthusiasts head for Wilmot, Palmyra, or Slinger in Wisconsin each week-end during the winter, while other skiers have time to go all the way to Sun Valley, Idaho, to practice their slaloms and schussing. Still another group of sportsmen like to strike a happy medium by taking a week or so off at a time to go exploring trails that are new to them.

To the latter group belong Miss Shirley Garnett, Miss Gertrude Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Owen Fairweather Jr., who left last week-end for Mont Tremblant in Canada. By now Miss Garnett, daughter of the Cyrus L. Garnetts of Evanston; Miss Smith, daughter of the Walter Garritt Smiths of Evanston, and the young Fairweathers have settled down to two weeks of serious skiing in the northern resort. Even a serious accident last winter didn't dampen Miss Garnett's enthusiasm for skiing.

Mrs. Garnett, too, is enjoying a midwinter vacation. She is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Donald Metz; Mr. Metz, and their two children at their farm in Maryland.

Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord Is on Way to Arizona.

Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord left yesterday for three weeks in Arizona, where she hopes to tuck in a skiing outing. Her first destination is Tucson, where one of her sons, Stephen, is studying at the Arizona Desert school. While in Tucson she also will visit Mr. and Mrs. Stuart H. Otis of Lake Forest, who are spending the winter there.

Another popular winter sports haven is Long Lake lodge in Phelps, Wis. Earlier in the month Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Matthiessen of Winnetka and their son, Richard Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Copeland of Michigan City, Ind., formerly of Winnetka, and their children spent some time at the resort. With the Matthiessens for the holidays was their cousin, Miss Angela Tillyard of Cambridge, England, who left yesterday for her preparatory school in Toronto, Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Shroyer of Barrington also recently returned from Long Lake lodge.

Mary Cook to Be Wed to Dr. Burge on Feb. 7.

Miss Mary Cook and Dr. Edward Seymour Burge, whose engagement was announced recently, have decided to be married on Saturday, Feb. 7. The wedding will be a small one at 8:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Cook of Evanston, and will be followed by a reception there. The Rev. Dr. Emory Luccock of the First Presbyterian Church of Evanston will officiate. After their return from a wedding trip to Sun Valley Dr. Burge and his bride will live in Evanston.

Miss Cook's two sisters, Mrs. Peter Grieve and Mrs. David Parsons of East Dorset, Vt., will be her matrons of honor. Donald Burge will be his brother's best man. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Burge of Wilmette.

A number of parties have been planned for the young couple. On Saturday Mrs. William Sherman Hay of Winnetka will entertain for them at dinner. Sunday brings a sort of progressive party given by the Sheldon Lees and the David Sampsells of Evanston. There will be a shower at the Lees' home in the afternoon and the same group will go to the Sampsells' for supper. Later the four hosts and hostesses will take their guests to the hockey game.

Mrs. Robert Fenner and her daughter, Mrs. Robert Berry, of Evanston are planning a pantry shower for the afternoon of Jan. 30. The next evening Mrs. John Haas and Mrs. Harry A. Hunsberger of Barrington will give another shower for the bride-to-be. Mrs. George F. Falley, the Cooks' next door neighbor in Evanston, has made reservations at the Woman's Athletic club for a luncheon for Miss Cook.

John L. Haverkampfs III. Parents of Second Son.

Friends of Mrs. John L. Haverkampf III. who saw her at the Chicago Junior league meeting on Monday will be surprised to learn that just a few hours later the young Haverkampfs' second son was born. The baby was born at the Passavant hospital early yesterday morning. He has been named Peter T., the "T" standing for no special name, the Haverkampfs say. Peter is the grandson of Mrs. John L. Haverkampf Jr. and of Mrs. Peter S. Theurer. Peter T.'s brother, John L. IV., is 3 years old.

Mrs. Edward A. Leight will be hostess this morning in her home in Lake View avenue to the group at-

CHICAGO SERVICE MEN'S CENTER

BY REA SEEGER.

Definitely a fine brown taste in the passing fashion parade is not the dull color you'd imagine. Fascinating, flattering tones of butterscotch, caramel, soft tobacco browns, dark beige tones, exciting blonde tints, and the neutrals are all included.

One famous Chicago store, featuring a "brown promotion," fanfares all kinds of new costume accessories, as well as clothes for street, daytime, and evening. One of the newest shades is called Balenciaga brown and could easily be listed with the neutrals because of its obliging tone. It is equal to the job of contrasting or complementing practically every other color known to fashion and the dye makers.

Blouses in solid colors or in gay prints, with the patterns of this subtle shade of brown sharpened against dull white, chartreuse, or pale blue, are plentiful. They make ideal early spring top contrasts for the many smart slim suits seen everywhere these days under fur jackets and coats. Gloves, handbags, and footgear, exactly matched in the same new brown shade, make life easy for the matching shopper, for assembling the right colored costume accents in this color will be fun.

Hats are particularly stunning in these soft browns. Included are exquisitely soft felts twisted into turbans, cut high and dashing in brimmed models, swathed in pebble textured crêpes or cream smooth jerseys. Crisp ribbon hats, as well as knitted chenilles and even yarn, offer a most distracting collection of toppers from which to choose.

New spring fabrics in rayons, silk and rayon mixtures, all the fresh, crisp new cottons, seersuckers, linens, piques, and the other cottons are especially tempting after a winter season of dark woolens. These early arrivals in sepia promise much for the well planned spring and summer wardrobe.

Women in War Work . . . . By India Moffett

[The Women in War Work department will report on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women who wish to take part in these activities.]

An announcement of great interest to the women who are anxious to take training to fit them for defense work is one being made today by President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago. Only 50 women will be able to take advantage of the intensive free course at the university, announced by President Hutchins, but it is expected to be only the first of many courses to train women for defense industries, supplanting men inducted into the armed forces.

The course, designed to fit women to fill positions as accountants, secretaries and general clerks, administrators, supervisors, analysts, cost and pay roll clerks, and personnel supervisors, will start Feb. 2. It will be on a six day basis for ten weeks. High school graduates and particularly women now employed in defense industries whose employers wish to send them for training will be admitted to the course, but preference will be given to women who have the equivalent of two years of college work.

The ultimate purpose of this training is to place outgoing students in positions where they can contribute to the national war effort by developing as rapidly as possible their capacities for increased service and responsibility.

President Hutchins specifically mentioned this problem in his address to the trustees and faculty on Jan. 7 when he said:

"Teaching is an art, and one that we [the university] possess. The special talents of this faculty can make the war training program more effective than it would be if it were manned by hastily recruited laymen. Since we know what teaching is and how to teach what to whom, we can exercise our ingenuity in planning trained courses which might not occur to persons less sophisticated than ourselves. For example, we can see that women will play a more active part in this war than in any earlier one. . . . We can take the initiative in working out courses for women; we can point out that many of the existing governmental training programs should be opened to women and closed to men. In short, our special knowledge makes us directly useful in the effort to win the war."

Miss May Plaunt.

The Women's Advertising Club of Chicago yesterday gave a check for $1,500 to the Red Cross war relief fund to purchase a mobile unit. Miss May Plaunt, president of the club, presented the check to James B. Forgan, general chairman of the campaign, at a dinner meeting last night in the Cordon club, 410 South Michigan avenue. The mobile units are being used thruout the country in connection with the Red Cross blood donor service. They carry equipment to areas in which there are no donor centers.

A library training course for Red Cross Gray Lady volunteers who work in hospital and army and navy posts will begin today under the direction of Miss Selma Linden, librarian at Presbyterian hospital. The course is being sponsored by the Woman's board of Presbyterian hospital, with Mrs. Philip F. W. Peck in charge. It will consist of weekly lectures on various phases of hospital library work, followed by apprentice work in the wards and private pavilion at Presbyterian.

The first class of 19, selected after personal interviews at Red Cross headquarters, will hear a lecture on personality traits by Dr. Byrd Arnold Smith, clinical psychologist, at the Children's Memorial hospital today. Miss Selma Linden is the only full time professional librarian employed in any Chicago hospital. When the Gray Ladies are considered proficient as library workers, they will be graduated and listed as available for service by the Red Cross.

"Woman's Part in Civilian Defense" is the theme of the program which the Chicago Woman's club will hear in the club dining room this afternoon after a 1 o'clock luncheon. Mrs. L. Robert Mellin, co-chairman of the woman's coördinating committee for national civilian defense, who has planned the program, hopes that Mayor Edward J. Kelly will be in town to be the featured speaker. Daniel Cobb, baritone, will sing the national anthem, accompanied by Lois Carter Robuck.

Nearly 2,000 soldiers, sailors, and marines are listed in the birthday club organized two weeks ago by Mrs. Florence Barrete, executive director of the Midwest chapter of the British-American ambulance corps. Any one who would like to celebrate his birthday by remembering an enlisted man whose birthday falls on the same date is invited to stop at chapter headquarters, 81 East Madison street, and find a name on the birthday club list. Or if you want to remember an anniversary or any special day in your life, adopt a "birthday boy." Mrs. Barrete has sent letters about the birthday club to naval training stations and camps in the midwest and boys who would like to be listed submit their names. The chapter also has a display of gifts the boys might like. Proceeds go into the fund for ambulances which are being donated to cities thruout the country for civilian defense.

A report on defense activities that Theta Sigma Phi members could participate in will be made at the Chicago Alumnae chapter meeting tonight in the chapter house, 50 East Cedar street. Betty Behl will discuss what advertising writers can do for defense, Mildred Brennan and Helen Chambers will discuss the duties of creative writers, Janet Powers will report on writing for civilian defense, and Mary Lou Bowen, president, will suggest volunteer jobs at the Service Men's center, 176 Washington street. A chapter defense program will be planned on the basis of this survey, Miss Bowen said. Members have been knitting for the Red Cross for more than a year.

"There will be no more butter in crocks, Madam, and no more crackers in tin cans, the creamery man and the grocer say," reported the boss of our kitchen yesterday. Extremely slight annoyances which may be expected to become numerous before victory is won. To be able to obtain butter in any sort of container is something for which to be thankful, every American woman realizes.

'Panama Hattie' Is Fast, Funny, and Gay Show

"PANAMA HATTIE."

Musical comedy in two acts and 13 scenes. Music and lyrics by Cole Porter. Book by Herbert Fields and B. G. De Sylva. Dances by Robert Alton. Book staged by Edgar MacGregor. Costumes and scenery by Raoul Pene DuBois. Presented by B. G. De Sylva in the Erlanger theater beginning Monday evening, Jan. 19, 1942.

THE PERFORMERS.

Frances Williams, Arthur Treacher, James Dunn, Ann Barrett, Jane Sterling, Red Marshall, Pat Harrington, Sammy White, Lorna Lynn, Carmen D'Antonio, and many others.

BY CECIL SMITH.

From the uninhibited response of last evening's audience, it looks as tho "Panama Hattie" is here to stay for some time. Even without Ethel Merman, for whom the book and score were tailor made, and without some of the other performers who have dropped by the wayside in more than a year's run in New York, the show remains fast and handsome and funny. The material is too good to be wasted, and I for one am glad we are able to see it, in spite of its present indifferent cast.

In the third of his big musical productions to reach Chicago within a year, B. G. De Sylva has perfected his particular entertainment formula. The sketches, blackouts, and dialog of "Panama Hattie" run to corn of a variety which is none too green; burlesque blue and the black of good, common dirt often seem to be the predominant colors. But this low vaudeville banter and this low smoking room humor are balanced by sentimentality of purest ray serene, notably in the sublimated maternity which Frances Williams, as Hattie, is called upon to lavish on an enchanting little girl named Lorna Lynn.

The packaging of the whole enterprise is exceedingly handsome. Raoul Pène Du Bois' scintillant costumes and sets, with their rich textures and gay color combinations, represent Panama as a much more festive place than it probably really is. Cole Porter's lyrics and music are slick and urbane, and spiked with many a neat twist of sophisticated verse and many a piquant harmonic surprise. Robert Alton's dance routines bubble over with freshness and life, and the dancing chorus performs them excellently.

By its very split personality "Panama Hattie" is a show which cannot possibly fail, for it overlooks none of the ingredients of popularity. It constitutes an amazingly successful emulsion of artistic beauty and low comedy, of suavity and roughness, of up to date inventiveness and hallowed, timeworn hokum.

Miss Williams, with a new lemon-gold tint to her upswirled hair, and with a hearty desire to give the customers a good time, makes a reasonable success as Hattie, tho she spoils some of Cole Porter's best rhythmic ideas by using the music hall device of singing after the beat has passed by. Her most diverting colleagues are Arthur Treacher, who extracts all the possible dryness from his English butler rôle, and Red Marshall, head man among three sailors whose repartee and behavior contain no attempt to conceal their acquaintance with the spirit and substance of the burlesque shows.

Among the other positive assets in the personnel of "Panama Hattie" are Carmen D'Antonio, who vibrates and gyrates in a satisfactorily Latin manner, and various other dancers, among whom may be numbered Lewis and Robert Hightower, Vera Ellen, Rosemary Sankey, and Jack Baker.

All the people I have not mentioned I did not think were very good.

And a Belt Won't Work.

Full horror of the rubber shortage struck home yesterday when an outsized gentleman who finds it necessary to have his braces, suspenders, or galluses made to order, discovered a stutter in the usually suave carriage of his trousers. As he has a vast expanse of trousers to hold up and considers this very important, he repaired immediately to his galluser.

In all confidence he ordered four pairs of suspenders. After consultation among many clerks he was told that he might have two pairs only.

The fellow has taken to brooding which may, in time, affect his work and has opened negotiations with a retreader.

This Changing World.

What once was known as Jap mink now is advertised as Asiatic mink.

He Wanted Adventure.

Once, 10 years or so ago, he was writing advertising copy for a Chicago firm at $22.50 a week. It was dull, and he felt dull, and he wanted adventure, so he bought a third class ticket around the world. His money ran out in Shanghai, and he wrote more advertising copy there, but soon went north to Peiping to teach English in the Catholic university. He began buying old Chinese furniture and before he knew it he was a North China authority, but the furniture and curios were taking all his time and he sent for his brother, Bill, to come and join him.

Business flourished, as did the brothers, but when the rays of the Rising Sun of Japan cast their ominous shadows across North China, Bill came home. That was two years ago. But not the brother. He loved China and the Chinese and no transitory war could uproot him, for by now he spoke, read and wrote fluent Mandarin and in his actions was more leisurely than any oriental. But he moved southward—to Shanghai, and when the rays of the Rising Sun struck fiercely there, he moved south again—to Hongkong. Then to Manila, then back to Hongkong, and altho the cable last week merely said, "Miraculously escaped," that is how tall blond Bob Drummond of Chicago happens now to be in Lashio where the Burma road begins, holding down an important post for the American Red Cross.

Last Week.

The town is full of tales of Carole Lombard, but here is one about her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Peters. Frank Mitchell, a weather-beaten graying cab driver, carries a dog-eared letter which Mrs. Peters wrote his cab company in praise of him. She had left her purse, containing $2,000 and a few railroad tickets, in his cab a year ago, and he had raced a block after her to return it.

Apologia.

The telephone rang.

"You have piece about Papa Gallo making spaghetti?"

Yes, we did.

"Well, we Italians do not like. We are mad. You say nize beeg kitchen. Italian do not say nize beeg. Germans say nize beeg. Italian say nice-a beeg-a."

Red Cross Passes One-Third Mark in Fund Campaign

A $10,000 gift from the Pullman company, plus eight other smaller ones, brought a total of $24,650 into the Red Cross war relief fund yesterday, James B. Forgan, general chairman, reported. The official total stood at $1,332,980 or just past the one-third mark in the drive for $3,750,000 as Chicago's share in the national Red Cross campaign for $50,000,000.

Other donations included $5,000 each from the Barrett Cravens company and the Chicago Bridge and Iron company; $1,000 each from the American Hair and Felt company, and the J. Greenbaum Tanning company, and $500 each from the Midwest Forging and Manufacturing company, the Studebaker Sales company of Chicago, the Elgin National Watch company, and the Gary Screw and Bolt company.

All the donations were exclusive of employé subscriptions, Mr. Forgan said. Reports from the 100,000 volunteer workers making solicitations thruout the Chicago chapter area indicate that employés are not only responding to the war fund plea but are subscribing on the basis of "one day's pay from those who are working for those who are fighting," Mr. Forgan added.

PTA Proposes Registering All U. S. Children

The National Congress of Parents and Teachers yesterday sent from its headquarters here a petition to the Office of Civilian Defense in Washington calling for a system of registration and identification of all children in the United States. The action followed a three day conference of the executive committee of the congress last week in Chicago.

In a letter incorporating the executive committee's motion for the nationwide system, Mrs. William Kletzer of Portland, Ore., president of the congress, said:

"From Europe's experience we know that air raids, sabotage, and other catastrophes to which the community may be exposed in time of war can cause the separation of children from their families.

"We believe this matter to be of such great national importance that we are petitioning the Office of Civilian Defense to establish a nationwide system that can be used by all communities and all defense councils, including a system of registration that would make it possible to reunite children with their parents and to locate relatives of children in case of death of parents."

To implement the defense activities program set up by the national board last September, the executive committee outlined seven "war activities," urging all PTA members to special "emphasis in these areas of service": Conservation of human and material resources, registration and identification of children, health thru nutrition and increased production of protective foods, the educational emergency, the national Victory book campaign, prevention of epidemics thru immunization, and the purchase of defense savings bonds and stamps.

Details of the seven-point war program are being prepared at national headquarters for dissemination in a war bulletin to the 28,000 Parent-Teacher associations in the country.

The executive committee of the congress is composed of 13 national officers and three members at large from the national board.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 20.—One of the town's characters was directing his newest picture, "Palm Beach Story." "Ah," I greeted him, "Cecil B. De Sturges!" Mary Astor giggled and Rudy Vallee laughed, and Preston Sturges huffed, "whadda ya mean?"

Preston Sturges.

"All this," I waved.

And all this was something—a bedroom, bath and dressing room about as big as the Radio City Music Hall, and gaudier. The bed was roughly a quarter-acre and had a 30 foot canopy with cascades of lace. There was a spherical white bird cage bigger than a medicine ball, and it had one little canary in it.

Furniture and rugs were white. The bathtub, pink marble, looked like the tomb of the unknown soldier, sunk low enough so you could step in it. The water faucets were glass crystal balls. The dressing room, big enough for a banquet, was all white rug and mirrors. . . . Miss Astor was fixing her newly blonde hair and Mr. Vallee, a stuffed shirt with nose glasses, was conversing with her into a mirror. [Cameramen love mirror shots because lighting them nearly drives you crazy.] Rudy is Mary's straight-laced brother in this picture.

"O, this!" said Sturges. "Well, I'm not trying to imitate C. B. De Mille. As a matter of fact"—here he whispered dramatically—"I am more than slightly imitating my former mother-in-law, Mrs. E. F. Hutton.

"You see, 'Palm Beach Story' is Palm Beach. Mary is the daughter of somebody like John D. Rockefeller—awful rich. She has been married seven times. She is the Princess Cetimiglia. She has this place in Palm Beach. I assure you it is not an exaggeration. My former mother-in-law had a place like it. Why, she used to receive guests in the bathroom."

Sturges is enthusiastic about his stars, Claudette Colbert, Miss Astor, and Vallee. Miss Colbert, out with flu, was being "shot around." Preston thinks Rudy will be a revelation in this picture, because for the first time he's playing a character instead of himself.

Miss Astor had to dye her red hair blonde for the part of a gay cynic. She says she likes it all right, too—"except that it's a damned nuisance."

Sturges is making everybody on the set—script girls and stagehands as well as actors, read a book he's crazy about. It is "Two Lives in One," by Marie Benyon Ray, and it tells how you can keep going twice as hard without getting tired. A combination of psychiatry, diet and exercise, I gather. Preston hasn't been tired since he read the book.

Over on another stage director Mark Sandrich is shooting a new Fourth of July number for the Crosby-Astaire "Holiday Inn." This is another Hollywood result of the war. As you must know by now, Irving Berlin has written songs for all the holidays for this big musical, and the one for July 4 was called "It's a Great Country."

Well, along comes Pearl Harbor and Berlin thinks his nation's holiday song is a little weak because it's so obvious. So he gets on a train in New York, and one Sunday on the train he writes a new number called "Song of Freedom." By the following Saturday the song has been scored and Crosby has sung it for the sound track, and now the picture is being shot to go with it.

She hopes to find employment, but must have presentable apparel. Has any reader a winter coat and dresses, size 18 or 20, and a pair of shoes, size 7B, which could be given to her. The address is on the south side, and she will be glad to call for offers.

Mrs. M. has written to me on behalf of her husband. He holds a clerical job which he is fearful of losing because of his shabby appearance. His salary is small and insufficient to provide for clothing as well as for the needs of his wife and two small children. He wears size 37 or 38, and is of slim build.

Mrs. J. is anxious to locate a heavy overcoat, size 38, for her brother. He suffered a severe stroke a few years ago and has been unable to work since then. However, he has now recovered sufficiently to be able to go outdoors occasionally and walk with the aid of a cane. His sister has supplied his other needs, but cannot afford to buy a warm coat for him.

Mrs. C. has been crippled for the last two years. Her son, who is a widower, has had little employment and has found it difficult to support her and his 11 year old son. He is in need of clothing, size 32, and a pair of shoes, size 6.

These are only a few of the appeals for clothing of all sizes which have come in to this office. Any apparel that is clean and wearable is welcome.

Thru the Looking Glass

Women who are outdoors a great deal, especially in the dusty city, or those who work in grimy offices or factories, must of necessity use cleansing cream in generous quantities. And because they use it so freely and so often they like their cleanser to be good, quick, and inexpensive.

They should take a leaf from the book of the theater folk and give a good theatrical cold cream a thoro trial. The grease paint users, who must apply a cleanser in enormous quantities, have found that nothing gives them quite the satisfaction—and economy—of a theatrical type cream that is pure and well made.

One of our favorites among creams that fill this bill is an old timer. Theater people have used it for decades. It's fluffy and smooth, almost like whipped cream in texture, has a pleasant, clean kind of fragrance, and is amazingly inexpensive. It's packed in a plain, eight ounce size tin. Quality and efficiency are in the product, certainly.

This is a cream to be slathered on; it removes the dust and the makeup thoroly, and if you use it lavishly you'll find that it contributes in its own small way to the cause of supplying your skin with the oil it needs. The skin will be immaculately clean and velvety smooth. It's an especially good cleanser for the kind of complexion that seems to pick up much more grime than it should, and it's one of the most economical of cleansing creams for women whose skins are subjected to more than a normal amount of dust.

Mrs. Merrick Again Heads Senior Board of N. U. Settlement

Mrs. Clinton Merrick was reëlected president of the Evanston senior board of the Northwestern University settlement at a meeting yesterday in the home of Mrs. John E. Wing of Evanston. Serving under Mrs. Merrick will be Mrs. Walter Dill Scott, first vice president; Mrs. John H. S. Lee, second vice president; Mrs. Donald Miller, treasurer; Mrs. Thomas C. Galloway, recording secretary, and Mrs. Charles R. Glover, corresponding secretary.

Heading committees will be Mrs. William H. Barnes, files; Mrs. John Breytspraak, publicity; Mrs. Chester Cook, hospitality; Mrs. Martin M. Gridley, transportation; Mrs. William B. Johnson, library, and Mrs. Elizabeth C. Reith, sewing.

Miss Harriet Vittum, head resident of the settlement, spoke of the group's work along Red Cross and civilian defense lines.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

Only once in a blue moon should a defender "hang on to" a high trump. Almost invariably, the possession of such a card is more a liability than an asset, this, of course, being aside from its value as a trick. While the defender holds the high trump he is in recurring danger of being thrown on lead and forced to make a ruinous return. Note today's hand:

West, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
East-West 60 part score.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	1 spade
2 clubs	Pass	Pass	2 spades
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

Obviously, South "put his neck out" when he bid two spades, vulnerable. The opponents' part-score was largely responsible. South hated to give up the rubber to a mere two club bid. This was understandable, but South might have considered that his partner also appreciated the situation and that his failure to defend against two clubs was an announcement of dire weakness. West made a good pass to the spade rebid. He realized that East would take some action, especially under the part-score condition, and since that action might well be in the form of a double, West did not want to interfere by making another rebid.

West opened the heart ace and declarer let him hold the trick, discarding a club. Noting the doubleton diamond in dummy, West realized that he would have to remove dummy's trumps, which otherwise would be used as ruffers. Hence he boldly laid down the spade king. Declarer won and led the ace and a low diamond. East won and furthered his partner's plan by cashing the spade queen. This was sound, but East's next play was very bad. Instead of realizing that there was no point in holding on to the 10 and 9 of spades, one of which was bound to become the high trump, East played three rounds of clubs. Declarer ruffed the third round, cashed the spade jack, and then used his last trump to throw East on lead with the spade 10, the high trump. Now East was "stuck." Having nothing left but hearts, he could cash only the king and then had to make dummy a present of two heart tricks while the declarer gratefully discarded losing diamonds. Instead of the defenders taking the nine tricks they should have won, they took only seven. Hence, a penalty that should have been 1,100 points turned out to be only 500.

[ADVERTISMENT]

Your Daughter Has a Right to Know

It is every mother's duty to tell her daughter physical facts. How much better that she learn them from you, rather than from girls her own age. In feminine hygiene, facts may be distorted, or wholly untrue. As a result, many brides use over-strong solutions of acids for feminine hygiene which can actually burn, scar and harm delicate tissue.

Today such risks are needless. Science has given womankind Zonite. So powerful, it kills instantly all germs and bacteria with which it comes in contact. Deodorizes—by actually destroying odors. Protects personal daintiness. Yet! Zonite is non-caustic, non-poisonous, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles bought. Get Zonite at your druggist today.

Free Book Tells Intimate Facts

Old-fashioned buttermilk biscuits are a treat whether accompanied only with butter, or served in a more glorified manner with honey or jam.

Buttermilk Biscuits.

[1½ dozen small]

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour,
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅓ cup solid fat
- ¾ cup buttermilk

Sift together, flour, baking powder, soda, and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture is in coarse lumps. Add buttermilk and stir vigorously until dough leaves the sides of the bowl. Turn out onto a slightly floured board and knead gently for about 30 seconds. Pat out with the hands to about ½ inch in thickness and cut with small biscuit cutter. Place on baking sheet, brush lightly with butter or margarine, and bake at 450 degrees about 12-15 minutes, or until golden brown.

Cabbage rolls are an "old country" dish, savory and attractive to look upon. This recipe is typical, I think.

Cabbage Rolls.

[Serves six]

- ½ cup raw rice
- 1¼ cups milk
- 1 large head cabbage
- 1 pound ground beef
- ¾ pound ground pork
- 1 cup milk
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons bacon drippings or butter
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- ½ cup hot water

Cook rice in milk. Remove leaves from cabbage and cook in boiling, salted water until wilted enough to be pliable. Drain. Combine meats with milk, seasonings and rice. Mix well and place a spoonful of the mixture on each cabbage leaf. Roll up leaf and tie with string. Brown cabbage rolls in bacon fat or butter. Sprinkle brown sugar over them. Add hot water [use water in which cabbage leaves were wilted] and cover. Bake in a 325 degree oven for 2 hours. Serve liquid in pan as sauce for rolls.

Baked Apricot Souffle.

[Serves six]

- 1 cup sieved or chopped cooked dried apricots
- 4 egg whites
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Apricot pulp should be drained. Beat egg whites with salt until stiff, and gradually beat in sugar, a tablespoon at a time. Continue beating to a stiff meringue. Fold in fruit pulp and lemon juice. Pile in lightly greased baking dish and bake at 325 degrees for 30 to 45 minutes, or until firm. Serve immediately, with soft custard sauce or whipped cream.

Apricot whip may be made from this same recipe. For whip, just pile the fruit-meringue mixture into sherbet glasses, chill, and serve with whipped cream or custard. There's no baking to be done.

Jewish Congress Women to Fete Mrs. A. H. Vixman

A reception and tea in compliment to Mrs. A. H. Vixman, national chairman of organizations for the Women's division, American Jewish congress, will be given at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Chicagoan hotel by the Chicago women of the congress. Mrs. Vixman is on a speaking tour of the middle west. Mrs. Benjamin J. Rasoff is chairman on arrangements for today's meeting.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Mrs. K. Kennedy, 4144 Sheridan road, Chicago, wins today's $5 recipe contest prize with her "lamburgers."

Send in your own favorite recipe to Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It may win one of the daily prizes. Type or write it legibly, in standard recipe form [ingredients listed in order of use], and make directions clear and specific. Send in only one recipe at a time, please. Winning recipes are thoroly tested.

LAMBURGERS.

[Serves Six.]

- 1½ pounds lamb shoulder meat, ground twice
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tablespoons butter or other fat
- ¼ cup currant jelly

Combine all ingredients except butter and jelly. Shape mixture into six patties and brown on both sides in butter. Remove excess fat from pan. Add jelly, cover pan, and cook over low heat for 15 minutes, turning once.

[Save this for your scrapbook.]

Child's Crocheted Frock

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Illustrated is a crocheted dress which may be made for the year old baby or for the 2 to 6 year old. By following a chart given with the instructions, it is possible to create a crocheted dress, smart on any youngster. The yoke is double crochet and body of the dress is done in a shell stitch.

For Instructions in crocheting the child's dress, No. 439, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Women Taxi Drivers.

A rolling stone gathers information: Women taxi drivers have appeared also in Milwaukee, Detroit, and New York. [Times Square has had a woman driver for several years.]

Carole Lombard.

"What was Carole Lombard really like?" I asked a long standing friend of hers. "What was she like in her work? That's what the working girl might be interested to hear."

"She knew the name of every electrician, every prop boy, wardrobe mistress, hairdresser, and script girl on the set," the friend said. "She was unfailingly considerate. Last summer when it was terribly hot they decided to 'shoot around' her, but she didn't go home and forget about the rest of them working in the heat. Cases of gingerale and cold drinks arrived on the set, sent by Carole.

"She was very loyal to people who worked for her. On her ranch she had an elderly couple, chosen because they needed the work. For years she employed as her secretary Madeline Field [Fieldsie], who was once the fat girl in the Sennett comedies when Carole was beginning her movie career.

"The nicest thing about working with her was that she let people know her."

Boogie Woogie.

It was in a sandwich shop of a large office building, where the noon hour finds no vacant tables and scraps of conversation pass from one group to another. They were enumerating the different kinds of boogie-woogie.

"And then," said one girl, "there's the revival of the old kind: Horse and Boogie."

Application.

H. M. D. sends along a card bearing the suggestion that readers of this column might enjoy unusual letters of application. She includes an answer from a Chinese to an ad for a stenographer:

"Sir—I am Wang. . . . I can drive a typewriter with good noise and my English is great. My last job left itself from me for the good reason that the large man has dead. It was on account of no fault of mine. So, honorable sir, what about it? If I can be of big use to you, I will arrive on some date that you should guess."

Came the Dawn.

The Beginning of an Imperfect Day:

The favorite blouse unpressed.
A tantalizing postal card from Miami.
A scratchy fountain pen.

Satire of 1961.

From the Chicago Bar association's "Her Day in Court," the script of which has found its way to this desk:

"In her girlhood, Dora worked at the 5 and 10 cent store—and was fired because she couldn't remember the prices."

The merry saga [written by Thomas Robert Mulroy], satirizing a woman judge of the year 1961, has many a good humored jibe.

Instead of asking "What's at issue?" in true judicial form, the lady judge of 1961 asks, "What's cookin'?" And her decisions drip with descriptions of feminine apparel.

Ann Lee Brady's Marriage Last Month Surprise

Miss Ann Lee Brady's marriage on Dec. 19 to Sub-Lieut. Ian Ross of the Canadian navy came as a surprise even to her family. Miss Brady, the daughter of Mrs. Laban J. Brady of South Shore drive, was visiting in Toronto during the holidays when she and her fiancé decided suddenly to be married immediately instead of waiting until next June, as they had planned. The ceremony took place in Grace Church-on-the-Hill in Toronto. Young Mrs. Ross is living with her husband's mother, Princess Chikhmatoff of Toronto, and his grandparents, the Robert P. Butcharts, in the latter's home in Victoria.

Sub-Lieut. Ross has been studying law, but now is in training at Royal Roads in Canada. He received his degree from McGill university last June. His bride was graduated from the Finch school in New York. She also studied at Tortington Park in Sussex, England, and at Mme. de Gremont-Gresley's school in Paris.

Another young couple whose marriage plans were stepped up because of the war is Miss Joan Elizabeth Gerwe and Lieut. Arthur A. Laibly, who were married on Jan. 14 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Gerwe of Wilmette. Lieut. Laibly and his bride, who had planned to be married this spring, are living at his army post. The former Miss Gerwe attended the University of Illinois and Northwestern university. Lieut. Laibly was graduated from the University of Illinois. Their engagement was announced just a few days before the wedding took place.

Mr. and Mrs. William King Jr. of Winnetka announce the marriage on Jan. 15 of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Lieut. Robert Braucher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Braucher of Massapequa, Long Island, N. Y. The ceremony took place in Seabrook, N. H.

Mrs. Alice M. Huling of Winthrop avenue announces the marriage on Dec. 28 of her daughter, Barbara, to Robert Richard Hailey of Council Bluffs, Ia. The former Miss Huling attended Mundelein college. Mr. Halley was graduated from Iowa State university. He and his bride are living in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Kohn of West 66th place announce the marriage on Jan. 18 of their daughter, Hilda, to Dr. Paul H. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Brown of West Palmer avenue. Dr. Brown and his bride will live in Boston, Mass., where he is an intern at the Forsyth Dental Infirmary for Children. The former Miss Kohn attended the American Conservatory of Music. Dr. Brown was graduated from the Chicago College of Dental Surgery.

Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

In Lou Costello's writing we find the restless movement which is part of the business of being funny. Humor is not static, and those whom we call our comics are never still for a moment during a performance. They are in perpetual motion to hold your smile or chuckle. Their hands, feet, and eyes keep up a ceaseless accompaniment to their chatter. Charlie Chaplin's phenomenal success has been due to his art of making each movement a telling one by precise pantomine, rather than relying on indiscriminate gesticulating.

Lou Costello

Costello has a quick, spontaneous humor. The speed of his writing is perhaps the most outstanding characteristic, showing that his imagination runs away with his pen. And he has plenty of imagination, as we can see in the preponderance of looped letters. And note the loops are balloonlike, which gives buoyancy.

And don't overlook the long, enthusiastic t-bar. But wait until you see the t-bar which Bud Abbott uses! Watch for it tomorrow.

For Handwriting Analysis send 10 cents (in coin) and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, together with a sample of handwriting, to Shirley Spencer, Box 116, General Postoffice, New York City. IMPORTANT: Write 25 words and signature in ink.

Two Attractive Dresses

SIZES
11-19
3195
SIZES

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESSES.

Just the thing to wear on "dates" with service men are these two simple, but dainty, dresses. In this informal social era, you don't want to overdress, yet the mental image the beau takes back with him to camp must be a feminine, appealing one. Both these simple dresses are "just right."

Style No. 3196 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19. Size 15 requires 2⅞ yards of 39 inch material, ¾ yard of binding, and ¾ yard of 1 inch ribbon for pocket bows.

Style No. 3195 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16 and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The winter pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Rear Adm. Woodward Will Be Town Hall's Speaker Friday Night

Appearing in the Town Hall lecture series, Read Adm. Clark Howell Woodward will speak on "Our Sea Power" at 8:15 o'clock Friday night in Scott hall on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university. Adm. Woodward retired last March after a long and distinguished career in the United States navy, during which he received the distinguished service medal on two occasions, the navy's distinguished service cross, and numerous citations from the Latin American countries. He was commander of the first destroyer division in the Asiatic fleet.

Skills Come Slowly to a Two Year Old

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Even a 6 months old infant has a budding desire for independence. He likes to hold his bottle in his own chubby hands, draw on it for a while, rest, and then nurse again. He isn't very expert in the beginning, but he soon is able to hold it nonchalantly with only one hand, all of which is a step up in his young life.

When a little child first tries to feed himself it's a formidable task for him to get the food on his spoon and then to direct it so that it arrives somewhere in the neighborhood of his rosebud mouth. His movements may be slow, meandering and awkward, but he's only just beginning to learn how to bring the necessary muscles into play, and to coördinate his physical and mental processes to the acquisition of this new skill. It isn't just routine functioning and the missteps between his plate and his mouth are to be expected and, so, always excusable.

It may seem to us to be easy for a child to learn to feed himself, but it isn't. Have you ever ridden a bicycle? If not, just try it some time and see how difficult it is until you've learned to balance yourself, pedal, and steer, all at the same time. Or do you recall the intense concentration you found necessary in order to learn to drive your car? How it seemed almost impossible to do so many things almost simultaneously in order to start the car, shift gears, step on the gas, and stay on the right side of the highway, or to turn the car around? If so, you'll appreciate somewhat how much effort a youngster must make to achieve even a modicum of success in feeding himself.

A child's natural impulse is upward and forward, and if he's sufficiently encouraged and helped he'll usually fall in with our plans for him. It might be possible to interest a small boy in the fundamentals by letting him feed his pet teddy bear or wooly dog. It'll be messy, undoubtedly, but he'll learn to handle a spoon and direct it toward the bear's "button" mouth. "If he's still using a high chair and lunch time comes along," one young mother advised, "swathe him in a rubber apron or coverall, spread newspapers beneath his chair, and beyond, and then let your small son try his luck at feeding himself. Don't be disappointed if he does pretty well one time and then seems to fall down on the job the next. If he's tired or his mind wanders, step into the breach and help him out. Make it a happy, cheerful game, not a tiresome routine. Praise him generously and don't hold or criticise his efforts at all, above and beyond all, don't hurry him."

How may a child be taught obedience? Should children be permitted freedom of the house? You will find answers to these and other problems in "You and Your Young Child." Mrs. Gladys Bevans' latest booklet, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 15 cents; postpaid, 18 cents.

The Housewife

It's not hard to keep order in a bureau drawer if you equip it with lightweight partitions made especially for the purpose. These devices are made with many slots so that they can be set up to form various sized sections. You fit them together as you wish, there being six long pieces and three cross pieces, all made to fit a standard sized drawer. You can have one partition or section for hosiery, another for your nightgowns, a third for your slips, etc.

Duty of Parents to Shield Youth from Temptation

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"O! Why did I let her go? Why didn't I say 'No'?"

Thus sobbed a mother as she knelt over the mangled body of her daughter, looking in vain for some sign of life. It was 2:30 a. m. The speedometer still pointed at 70, the speed at which the car was traveling when it ran into the uprights of a culvert and catapulted its two occupants into eternity. The radio still was splintering the silence of the night. The boy was 21, the girl only 19. They were returning from a hilarious party when the fatality occurred.

A melodramatic tale? No. It's happening all too frequently, prefaced by an even more usual home scene. As the particular mother, above described, looked for some twitching that would betray a flickering of life, and saw only a motionless face, the scene enacted at her home six hours earlier came back to her. She could hear Marjorie's plaintive remonstrance: "But, Mother, they're all going. Why should I be kept at home?"

Yes, the mother knew it would be a late party. She knew there would be drinking. Chaperonage would be a function highly disapproved by the young set. Or, as put by the Rev. John A. O'Brien, Ph. D., who recounts the foregoing tragedy in his vivid pamphlet, "Youth's Struggle for Decency": "There would be drinking, the show-off drinking of youth, taking not wisely, but too much."

The incident illustrates one of the most important factors, says the noted cleric, in the damaging of youthful character that is so widespread today. That is the failure of parents to do their duty, their failure to protect their children from temptations almost too strong for weak flesh and blood to resist.

GOLDEN GLOVES ENTRY LIST CLOSES TONIGHT

CUBS WILL SEEK COMISKEY PARK FOR NIGHT GAMES

AWAIT MAJORS' AGREEMENT ON NEW MAXIMUM

Waive Own Plant to Aid Defense.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs may play night baseball "at home" next season, but their home for such events would be Comiskey park, domicile of the White Sox. This scheme, as yet in the infant stage, was unfolded yesterday by James Gallagher, Cubs' general manager who at the same time revealed that contracts had been let for a Wrigley field lighting plant, but that rights to the material had been waived in behalf of national defense.

In making the announcement Gallagher explained that it grieved him to think of moving away from Wrigley field for even a few games, in fact, that he is not a night ball addict, but that if President Roosevelt, as indicated by his letter to Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, favors expansion of the after-dinner program during the war period, the Cubs are more than eager to join the parade.

Wait for Major Agreement.

To date, according to Gallagher, nothing has been done in connection with moving the Cubs bag and baggage into Comiskey park for whatever number of National league night games may be considered adequate. Formal presentation of a request to rent the Sox premises, which include an elaborate lighting system, will not be made until after the two major leagues come to an agreement on the expansion of the present seven game limit. This will be disposed of at a joint meeting called yesterday by Commissioner Landis for Feb. 3 in New York.

White Sox officials last night were inclined not to commit themselves. However, there is a possibility that despite a fancy rental fee, the proposal may be rejected out of fear that the night game market may be overtaxed. If the two leagues decide on a 14 game maximum both the Sox and the Cubs probably will schedule the limit. That will mean a total of 28 electric light contests in one park.

Cost Set at $185,000.

The Wrigley field lighting plant on which preliminary work already had been done, was to have cost approximately $185,000 and was to have been completed by next April. Specifications called for 165 tons of steel, 35,000 feet of copper wire, and 800 aluminum reflectors. The lights were to be clustered on six towers, two in the outfield and the others over the grandstand.

Immediately after the bombing of Pearl Harbor by Japan Dec. 7, the plans were abandoned and the material on order offered to the government. Various departments in Washington replied with thanks and at present are determining where the lighting equipment can be put to best use.

The Cubs and Boston Braves are the only National league clubs not equipped for night baseball. The Phillies enjoy the privilege by rental of the Athletics' grounds. Detroit, Boston, and New York are the lightless parks in the American league.

HILLIGAN NAMED PRESS SERVICE DIRECTOR BY A. L.

Will Harridge, president of the American league, last night announced the appointment of Earl J. Hilligan as manager of the press service bureau to succeed Henry J. Edwards, whose retirement will become effective on Feb. 1.

Hilligan, 35 years old and a native of Bessemer, Mich., studied for two years at the University of Minnesota, transferred to the University of Michigan and was graduated in 1930. He began his newspaper career on the staff of the Ann Arbor, Mich., Daily News.

He joined the Associated Press in Detroit Nov. 1, 1933, and specialized in sports. He was assigned to the Chicago bureau of the Associated Press in March, 1936, and a year later he was named assistant sports editor.

BIG TEN LEADERS DIFFER ON WAIVER OF FROSH RULE

Most Directors Favor Wait and See Policy.

Western conference athletic officials showed a "Let's wait and see" attitude in their comments yesterday on the advisability of abrogating the freshman rule for Big Ten varsity teams during the war. The subject had been brought up the previous day by observations of a conference spokesman who advised going slow in the waiving of this long standing regulation.

Two of the officials who commented yesterday favored suspension of the rule, three were definitely against a change, but most of the others indicated that they were going to await developments before making up their minds.

Hayes Favors a Waiver.

E. C. [Billy] Hayes, Indiana university track coach who is serving as athletic director during the vacation of Z. G. Clevenger, was outspoken in favor of waiving the rule. He said:

"The object of the university's accelerated program is to speed up a student's period of education and to permit him to graduate in the briefest time possible. If the present rule applying to freshmen eligibility is retained it would encourage boys to become slackers by laying out a semester and then reëntering school for athletic competition. An object of the speeded up educational program is to develop physical fitness. The intercollegiate program is the best means of accomplishing this objective."

Crisler Opposes Change.

Herbert O. [Fritz] Crisler, University of Michigan athletic director and head football coach, was one of those definitely opposed to a change.

"I hope that conditions are such that we won't have to resort to abolishing the freshman competition ruling during the war," he said.

"Such a practice as permitting freshmen to participate in athletics would lend itself to, and invite, proselyting to a degree unknown at the present time."

"I think it would be unfortunate for the Western conference and other big conferences in the country to abrogate the freshman rule at the present time," L. W. St. John, director of athletics at Ohio State university, said. "I think that in the Big Ten there will be no need for the move."

Will Await Developments.

Harry Stuhldreher, athletic director and head football coach at the University of Wisconsin, is not in favor of waiving the freshmen rule "at the moment."

"We will have to await developments before arriving at a definite

IAC BOXERS TO MEET TONIGHT IN TOURNEY FINALS

BY FRANK MASTRO.

One defending champion, one 1941 finalist, and two 1940 runners-up survived last night's opening round competition in the 11th Illinois Athletic club amateur boxing tournament in IAC gymnasium.

These lucky fellows are Bertrand White, 1941 bantamweight champion; Roosevelt Thomas, last year's light heavyweight finalist, and Al Noto and Frank Bausone, flyweight and featherweight runners-up, respectively, in 1940.

White advanced to tonight's semifinal and final fights by conquering Gene Roberts, representative of the Danville post, American Legion, while Thomas remained in the running by drawing a bye.

Noto Beats Adams.

Noto, 1941 CYO 112 pound title holder, defeated Georgie Adams of the Savoy A. C. in his preliminary battle and Bausone outpointed Glen List of the Danville team. Noto's opponent in the championship flight this evening will be Bob Grunden, also of Danville. Bausone's rivals include Al Walker and Wendell White of the Savoy club, and Melvin Johnson of the Catholic Youth organization.

Sixteen bouts, eight each in the semi-finals and finals, will comprise tonight's card in the IAC gym. All eight weight classes will be represented. Contestants will include Walter and Eddie Baka, twin featherweights from the Madison-Cicero Boxing club. Walter advanced by eliminating Dale Krueger of Danville and Ed reached the semi-final round by drawing a bye.

Two Quick Knockouts.

Two of the first four contests on last night's card were ended by one round knockouts. Al Walker, Savoy A. C. lightweight, sent Eddie Bozek of the Illinois A. C. to the canvas in 1:02 of the first round, and Melvin Johnson, CYO 135 pounder, stopped Harlem Yoho of Danville in :40 of the first.

126 POUNDS—Albert Adams, Savoy A. C., beat Clarence Thurman, Danville [3]; Walter Baka, Madison-Cicero Boxing club, beat Dale Krueger, Danville [3]; Eddie Baka, Madison-Cicero B. C., and James Calhoun, Savoy A. C., drew byes.

135 POUNDS—Al Walker, Savoy A. C., knocked out Eddie Bozek, Illinois A. C. [1]; Melvin Johnson, CYO, stopped Harlem Yoho, Danville [1]; Frank Bausone, CYO, beat Glen List, Danville [3]; Wendell White, Savoy A. C., drew bye.

160 POUNDS—Bill Cravens, Illinois A. C., stopped Charles Williams, Savoy A. C. [2]; Guy Crow, Danville, drew bye.

118 POUNDS—Bertrand White, CYO, beat Gene Roberts, Danville [3]; Jack McBurnie, CYO, drew bye.

112 POUNDS—Al Noto, CYO, beat Georgie Adams, Savoy A. C. [3]; Robert Grunden, Danville, beat Ray Murray, CYO [3].

HEAVYWEIGHTS—Hubert Hood, CYO, beat James [Cairo] Hodge, Savoy A. C. [3]; Arnold Winters, Illinois A. C., drew bye.

175 POUNDS—William Seitman, Northwest gymnasium; Reedy Evans, Savoy A. C.; Harry Stephens, CYO, and Roosevelt Thomas, Savoy A. C., drew byes.

Rangers' Late Rally Beats Bruins, 4-2

Boston, Mass., Jan. 20 (AP).—After spotting the Boston Bruins two goals, the New York Rangers went into a first place National Hockey league tie by overtaking the Stanley cup champions for a 4 to 2 victory tonight before a capacity crowd of 14,900 in the Boston Garden.

It was the Bruins' first home game setback since Feb. 25, 1941, when the Rangers shut them out, 2 to 0.

The Rangers loosed a three goal attack in the final period and their last pair of tallies were registered while the Bruins were playing short handed.

Lynn Patrick tied the score at 2 all during the third minute of the final, with the 100th goal he has made during his eight National league seasons. About 11 minutes later, while Art Jackson was serving a minor, Alex Shibicky blasted a game winning 10 foot drive thru Goalie Frankie Brimsek.

While Dit Clapper was off with a major penalty, Phil Watson scored the final goal.

Milt Schmidt accounted for both of the Boston goals during the first 24 minutes of play. Lineups:

FINAL PHYSICAL EXAMINATIONS SET FOR FRIDAY

South Side Trials to Open Monday.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Today is the last opportunity to enter Chicago's Golden Gloves tournaments. Entries postmarked before midnight will be accepted and the boxers will be assigned to the final examination Friday night at Trafton's gymnasium.

With last night's examinations at Trafton's, the tournaments on the north and south sides rapidly are taking shape. The list will be completed Friday night and sent to the printer for the program. The south side trials will start Monday in the St. Sabina gymnasium, 78th place and Racine avenue. The north side trials will start a week from today at Loyola university.

Among the teams entering the 15th tournament is the Stockyards Sports club, 5445 South Ashland avenue. Ted Bogan is team manager and Jack Lindgren is the trainer. Eleven boys will represent the club.

Wisconsin Rapids Opens Tonight.

Sixteen boys will win championships on the south side and 16 will win on the north side. These are divided between the Open and Novice classes so that the city championships in the Coliseum Feb. 12 will consist of 16 fights. The north and south champions receive gold medals. A golden glove is the award for each Novice and each Open division champion.

While the entry list for the Tournament of Champions is not complete, nearly two score cities will be represented in the bouts Feb. 23, 24, and 25. The Milwaukee Journal has become the center for all Golden Gloves boxers in Kenosha and Green Bay.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer's tournament opens tomorrow night and continues on Friday evening. The Indianapolis Times holds the second round of its tournament tomorrow evening while the Wisconsin Rapids Tribune Golden Gloves tournament starts tonight.

157 Boys Report.

Many of the Open division boxers were engaged in first round matches last night in the IAC tournament. The Savoy Athletic club bouts also were scheduled last night.

One hundred and fifty-seven boys reported. Seven per cent were rejected by the staff of physicians. One-third of the boys were experienced boxers. Among the boys in the Open division who will compete in the St. Sabina gymnasium are Lucino Armstrong and Walter Balrarz, featherweights; Robert Dorgan, lightweight; James Paley, Tony DeFramko, Stanley Shehey, and Harry Griggs, welterweights; Fred Winesburg, middleweight; Eugene Davis and Blase Zorich, lightheavyweights; Casimer Ziolkowski and Willie Yancy, heavyweights.

He's Determined to Win.

Ziolkowski, who lives in South Chicago, will represent St. Michael's. He's big and rugged and already, before the complete list of entries is known for the south side tournament, is determined he will win the heavyweight title and earn the right to fight for the Chicago championship in the Coliseum.

The eight novice and eight Open division champions of Chicago will receive golden gloves. The eight Open division champions will be outfitted by the Chicago Tribune Charities and will represent the city in the Tournament of Champions Feb. 23, 24, and 25.

VOYLES ADMITS INTERVIEW ON ILLINOIS POST

Richmond, Va., Jan. 20 (AP).—The News Leader said today that Carl M. Voyles, director of athletics at William and Mary college, had admitted being approached by representatives of the University of Illinois in connection with the appointment as head football coach. However, he said he had received no offer nor had made any committments. His contract does not expire until 1944.

A BIKE REPORTER SOBS FOR GAY OLD COLISEUM NIGHTS

Recites Cruel Fate Which Befell One Oscar Egg.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

What are we doing, writing a piece about old time six day bike racers who will NOT be in Chicago's Own International 6-day Bike race which starts in the Coliseum Sunday night?

We arn't going to report the event. In fact, we'll be in temporary retirement, worrying about having to cross Catalina channel on a tugboat, a tugboat so small that we could, with the assistance of Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis of the Cubs, upset it as tho it were the frailest of birch bark canoes. But here we are, nostalgic about bicycles and bicycle riders.

It seems only yesterday, nevertheless the last six day race in the Coliseum was in 1929. The first Chicago race was in the same structure 27 years ago and it is the period between 1915 and 1927 that brings the glassy glitter of memories to these fading blue eyes.

Alfred Goullet.

Oscar Egg.

What a Touching Scene!

Those were the nights! How well we recall how tears streamed down our cheeks when we heard the cruel boys in the upper terraces chanting "Lazy Oscar! Lazy Oscar!! Lazy Oscar!!!" as the great Swiss, Oscar Egg, struggled out there on that saucer giving his all to his precious pedals. And for what—raucous hollering by unthinking sports lovers.

Egg had been one of the greatest cyclists of all times but he was slipping a bit when the boys started their vicious chants. However, let those who used to be such meanies toward Oscar, ponder his history since he ended his riding career. Oscar moved from his home in Zurich to Paris, where he invented and manufactured a gear shift bicycle, on which he is reputed to have made more than a million dollars.

A Raspberry Paradise.

Egg still is in the heavy dough, for when the Germans started harassing France, Oscar got to England with several satchels loaded with that beautiful negotiable stuff. He is a London business man today.

There is an intimacy about the bike setup as effected in the Coliseum that prevails in few other halls. For that reason the festive insult was the thing. When you insult a rider in the Coliseum he can hear it. Of course, the idea sometimes went too far in the old days. One night a fan threw a pop bottle at Greasy Ryan. The speeding Greasy wheeled around, picked up the bottle and threw it right back at his balcony assailant.

Goullet Was High Priced.

You have to go way back to recall Alfred Goullet, who made top fees in the days when most pro athletes worked for fractions of what pros get in these times. In New York Goullet received $1,000 a night and drew a bonus of $1,500 if he finished a race. His pay in the Coliseum was almost as high.

And speaking of money, premiums as high as $500 were not uncommon.

Of course, Reggie McNamara was omnipresent during those Coliseum nights, but we don't feel so nostalgic about Reggie, for he's been here for every race in recent years as an associate referee.

Alf Letourner and Gerard Debaets are the only riders in the impending race who pedaled in the last Coliseum whirl. Pat Mulvey, who supervised the building of the first saucer in the Coliseum, will be the boss in the erection of the track for the coming race. Harry Mendel, manager of the approaching race, represented a Newark newspaper at the race in 1915.

Plan Paralysis Fund Ring Show in Coliseum Feb. 6

Arrangements were started yesterday to present a boxing show in the Coliseum Feb. 6 for the benefit of President Roosevelt's Infantile Paralysis fund. Windup principals have not yet been determined. Contrary to a previous report, Promoter Ross Miller said he is not interested in closing a return bout on the card between Joe Maxin, Cleveland boxer, and Booker Beckwith, who scored an unpopular decision over Maxin in the Coliseum last Friday. . . . George Nyberg, Port Arthur, Ont., welterweight, who upset Sammy Secreet three weeks ago, opened boxing drills in Trafton's gymnasium yesterday for a ten round headliner in Marigold Gardens Monday against Tony Motisi. . . . Amateur fights will be held tonight in Social Turner hall, Belmont avenue and Paulina street, and in Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue. . . . There also will be a professional wrestling show this evening in Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

Tony Zale, middleweight champion, will leave Feb. 6 for a 12 round nontitle contest with Billy Conn in Madison Square Garden Feb. 13. . . . Jesse Darcy, manager of Nick Castiglione, yesterday criticized alleged dictatorship tactics of Sam Gorenstein, Illinois Athletic commission inspector, for rejecting Frankie Gilmore, Cincinnati lightweight, for a ten round encounter against Castiglione in Midway arena Jan. 30.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Ample Reward, $14.20 straight, $6.30 place, $4.50 show: Wise Bob, $3.40 place, $2.80 show: Orpheum, $6.60 show.

AMPLE REWARD swerved badly at end of first furlong. He blocked ORPHEUM and WISE BOB, forcing both boys to take up abruptly. AMPLE REWARD then drew away but was driven out to win. WISE BOB suffered interference and might have won but for being fouled. ORPHEUM got away fast and was running down the inside when the winner came over, forcing him back. He recovered and finished with a rush. TOWER CAPTAIN ran good race.

SECOND RACE—Purse $1,200. Four year olds and up. Seven furlongs [chute]. Start good. Won driving, place same. Went to post at 2:31. Off at 2:34. Winner, b. h., 5, by High Time-Plaid, by Wrack. Owner, J. F. Ladley. Trainer, L. H. Silver. Time, 1:27.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Wood Robin, $6.20 straight, $3.60 place, $2.70 show: Five-O-Eight, $8.80 place, $4.30 show: Horn, $3.00 show.

WOOD ROBIN got away well, was allowed to rate along in a contending position to the stretch, where he was sent to the front, and drew away. FIVE-O-EIGHT galloped along back of the leader, saved ground in stretch, and finished fast. HORN broke slowly but was rushed up and closed gamely. BAYRIDGE closed a big gap. NESTONIAN got away well in motion, showed speed, but quit badly in final furlong. CATCALL ran well for five furlongs, then quit.

SIXTH RACE—Purse $1,500. Fillies and mares. Four year olds and up. Mile and a furlong. Start good. Won easily, place same. Went to post at 4:31½. Off at 4:32. Winner, b. f., 4, by Equipoise-Transit, by Chicle. Owner, Blenheim farms. Trainer, J. P. Smith. Time, 1:54 1-5.

N. U. Seeks to Square Series with Irish Five

College Basketball

GAMES TONIGHT.
Northwestern at Notre Dame.
Illinois college at Millikin.
Illinois Wesleyan at Bradley.
Eureka at Shurtleff.
Southern Methodist at Texas Christian.
George Washington at Army.
Brown at Yale.
Rice at Texas A. & M.
Fort Sheridan at American P. E.

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 20 [Special].—Northwestern and Notre Dame, intense rivals in all sports since before the turn of the century, will meet here tomorrow night in the second of their two annual basketball games. The Irish won the traditional New Year's eve game in Evanston, 40 to 36, administering the first defeat of the season suffered by Northwestern.

Both Have Incentive.

Both teams will be out to rectify week-end losses, while the Wildcats have the added incentive of trying to maintain the break-even status of the series prevailing the last three years. Notre Dame lost its first January game since 1938 when Butler won a 49 to 43 decision in Indianapolis Saturday. Northwestern has lost three games in a row, despite heroic work by Russ Wendland, junior guard. The Wildcats lost week-end games to Wisconsin and Ohio, having been beaten previously by Michigan after taking six of their first seven starts.

Further incentive for Northwestern is found in the fact that Notre Dame has not lost a January game at home since 1933. The Irish have defeated Harvard, Washington university, and Syracuse here this year.

Faught Probable Starter.

Bob Faught, Irish sophomore center, who passed Charlie Butler, Chicago junior forward, in the scoring race in the Syracuse game and extended his lead to nine points in the Butler contest, is likely to start in Frank Quinn's center post. Faught has made 77 points, Butler has 68 and Johnny Niemiera, Chicago sophomore, climbed into third place with 52 by making 11 points against Butler.

ILLINOIS SKATING TEAM NAMED FOR ST. PAUL RACES

The Illinois team in the North American speed skating races in St. Paul, Minn., Saturday and Sunday was announced last night by Sid Novak, secretary of the Illinois Skating association. Novak will accompany the Illinois stars with Pete Miller, president of the American Skating union, and Herbert J. Knudten, Illinois president who will referee the North American meet. The skaters are:

Vic Ronchetti, state champion; Bob Heckenbach, tri-state titleholder; Steve Gadus, winner of the Silver Skates, and Elaine Bogda Gordon, lone senior girls' representative.

Intermediate skaters entered are Don Fahrenbach, Chuck Edwards, and Bill Carnduff. Girls' intermediates are Shirley Jane Burnett and Dorothy Oul. Junior stars will be John Martin of Champaign-Urbana, Walter Rust of Elgin, Virginia Mazetta, and Rita Janet.

Blackhawks Face Rebuilt Brooklyn Team Tomorrow

Coach Helge Bostrom sent the Blackhawks thru a particularly hard practice session yesterday in preparation for their game with the Brooklyn Americans tomorrow night in the Stadium. Manager Red Dutton, after two months of trading with minor league teams of the eastern American league, has developed a Brooklyn team which now can give a good account of itself. Last Sunday the Americans' 5 to 3 victory over the Red Wings in Detroit enabled them to gain fifth place in the league standing.

Prior to their success in Detroit they had scored at least one victory over every other team in the league and right now, with Tommy Anderson going at his best, the Americans are regarded as a dangerous team.

Anderson is not only leading his own team in points but is far ahead of all the league's defense men in the same respect. In the 17 games remaining to be played by the Americans Anderson will try to break the defense player record of Eddie Shore, who made 8 goals and 27 assists in the season of 1932-'33 for a point total of 35. Anderson to date has scored 24 points, made up of 5 goals and 19 assists.

JOHNNY KOTZ'S 91 POINTS LEAD BIG TEN SCORING

The 21 points scored by Johnny Kotz, Wisconsin forward against Michigan Monday night gave the Badger star a total of 91 points in six Big Ten contests and a lead of eight points in conference scoring. Kotz pulled away from Otto Graham, Northwestern star, whose 12 points Monday night, ran his total to 83.

In third place is Russ Wendland of Northwestern, who added 16 points Monday to run his total for the season to 75. Max Gecowets of Ohio State is fourth with 61 points, having scored 16 against Northwestern Monday to gain a place among the leaders.

Minnesota is the circuit's top scoring team, having made 294 points in six games, tho Illinois, which is undefeated in five games has made 253 points. Leading defensively is Purdue, which has limited four opponents to 109 points.

Big Ten Heads Differ on Frosh Rule Waiver

decision on abrogating the freshmen rule, but right at the moment I am not in favor of freshmen participation in athletics," he said.

Doug Mills, director of athletics at Illinois, had this to say:

"At present, so far as Illinois is concerned, it does not appear there is necessity to lift the ban on freshmen competition in varsity sports but of course the situation may change soon. We feel strongly that we should not curtail our program of intercollegiate athletics."

Chicago Stand Explained.

Nels Norgren, University of Chicago basketball coach, in the absence from the city of Prof. A. J. Brumbaugh, faculty representative, and Athletic Director T. Nelson Metcalf, said he personally could see no harm in waiving the rule.

"On the basis that students are remaining in the universities only until called to service in the armed forces, I would suppose that they should all receive the benefits which competitive athletics can give in military training," he said.

Wilson Gives Views.

E. G. Schroeder, Iowa, athletic director, said:

"I am neither for it or against it at the present time," he said. "It all depends upon what happens to the upperclass ranks in the next few months. We can make up our minds then."

K. L. [Tug] Wilson, Northwestern athletic director, said he believed the rule should continue in force unless colleges crowd their four year programs into three years.

"I do not believe present conditions warrant waiving of the freshman rule," he said. "If the time comes when colleges condense four year programs into three, I believe it would be advisable to permit freshmen to compete on varsity teams."

Private Joe Louis to Be Honored By Boxing Writers

New York, Jan. 20 [Special].—Private Joe Louis of the United States army will be an honored guest tomorrow night at the annual dinner of the Boxing Writers' Association of New York. The world's heavyweight champion will be awarded the Eddie Neil memorial plaque as "the fighter of the year" for 1941.

HORNSBY VOTED INTO BASEBALL HALL OF FAME

Former Cub Manager Is 26th to Win Honor.

New York, Jan. 20 [Special].—Rogers Hornsby, player and manager in both major leagues for almost 25 years, today was named to the baseball Hall of Fame and next summer a bronze plaque telling of his career will be set up at baseball's museum in Cooperstown, N. Y. The Baseball Writers' Association of America announced that in the first general poll since 1939, Hornsby received 182 votes, the only man to receive the required three-fourths of the 233 ballots cast.

Hornsby, once manager of the Chicago Cubs, joins the 26 baseball immortals already chosen. The first group to be elected included Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner, Christy Mathewson, and Walter Johnson. Hornsby is the third second baseman honored, Napoleon Lajoie and Eddie Collins being the others.

Bill Brandt, who headed the committee which supervised the election, said 72 players had been named by the writers, who were asked to submit 10 each. Frank Chance, once manager of the Yankees and the Cubs, finished second with 136 votes. The erratic Rube Waddell polled 126, Big Ed Walsh 133, Miller Huggins 111, and Ed Delahanty 104. The rest were under the 100 mark.

Waddell Gets Support.

Hornsby rolled up 176 ballots to finish fifth in 1939 when 274 writers voted. That year George Sisler, Eddie Collins, and Willie Keeler were elected, with Waddell finishing fourth, with 179.

During his major league career which started with the Cardinals in 1915, Hornsby captured the batting championship six years in a row, starting with 1920. In 1924, with the percentage of .424, compiled in 142 contests, he was at his peak as the greatest right handed batsman in the game's history. He also won the batting title in 1928, when he hit .387 for the Boston Braves.

He played in turn with the Cardinals, Giants, Braves, and Cubs in the National league and the Browns in the American league. He was appointed player-manager of the Cardinals in June, 1925, and in 1926 directed his team to the pennant, and climaxed this by defeating the Yankees in the world series.

Hornsby's Tour Starts.

Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, refused to meet Hornsby's salary demand, and traded him to the Giants in 1927.

Hornsby remained with the Giants under John McGraw only one season, and drew $36,000. He was traded to the Braves as a player, but in a few months he was appointed manager. At the end of that season, he was traded to the Cubs for $200,000 and five players. The Rajah was named manager of the Cubs during the season of 1930, succeeding Joe McCarthy. In August of 1932, he was released. The following year found him back with the Cardinals, but in the same season he was let out, and immediately engaged by the St. Louis Browns as player-manager.

In mid-season of 1937, the Browns turned Hornsby loose, ending his career as a major leaguer. From coach of the Baltimore Orioles he went to Chattanooga as manager, then back to Baltimore as manager. Last June he quit as Oklahoma City manager. A few weeks ago he was engaged as general manager and field leader of Fort Worth.

GRATEFUL, SAYS HORNSBY.

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 20 (AP).—Rogers Hornsby today accepted his official induction into baseball's Hall of Fame with the same calmness in which he has accepted all the good and bad that have come to him in the game the last quarter of a century.

He was pleased and happy, to be sure, but not excited.

"Naturally I appreciate this great honor," he said, "I am sincerely grateful to all fellows who voted for me."

Finally Makes It

ROGERS HORNSBY.

Bulla Will Quit Golf to Pilot Air Line Plane

Johnny Bulla, the giant North Carolinan who has been around and about a few golf courses, including several in Chicago, is going to change uniforms. Waiting for a plane back to San Francisco last night, Bulla called THE TRIBUNE to state he presently will be flying a regular route on the United Air Lines.

Bulla regards his enrollment in the commercial airway force as his contribution to national defense, so that within less than a month, he will be wearing a pilot's regimentals in lieu of the familiar light slacks and sleeveless sweater which have distinguished him for American galleries for the last six or seven years.

Wants to Help Out.

"I'm doing this because I feel in times like these, you shouldn't be sitting on your pants, waiting for something to happen or somebody to call you. I've already registered and been classified 3-A, but I think the least I can do, since I probably won't be called immediately, is to contribute my flying experience. The army and navy are bound to be using planes in this country for several important reasons, and I want to help out."

Bulla is golf's No. 1 aviator. He has more than 500 hours in the air. Yesterday he passed all the necessary tests to qualify for a pilot's job with United Air Lines after having flown to Chicago from the Oakland, Cal. Open. Tomorrow Bulla will start in the San Francisco Open. Then he will put away his clubs for the duration by arrangement with his employers, Walgreen & Co., and repair to Cheyenne, Wyo. There he will take a three weeks' course in company policy and instrument work.

Family Will Go to Coast.

Shortly thereafter Bulla expects to be flying a regular route between Oakland, Cal., and Salt Lake City. His wife, his 2 year old son, and nine months' old daughter are now in Greensboro, N. C., but his intention is to rent a home on the Pacific coast and take them there.

HERE'S STORY OF HOW BASKETBALL TOURNEY GREW

Illinois State Event Goes from 13 Teams to 913.

BY RICHARD RAMEY.

Thirteen teams in 1908! A leap to 400 in 1922! Then 700 in 1927! And, now, 913 for 1942!

Those are the notable milestones in the growth of high school basketball in Illinois. Each figure designates the number of contenders for the state prep title on those occasions. The last named is the record entry for the 35th championship race in this, the 50th anniversary of the sport.

Albert Willis, assistant manager of the Illinois High School association, yesterday announced the establishment of the new record—15 more teams than the previous high of 898 in 1940. This afternoon the association will release the geographical assignment of schools for district and regional tournaments, the first two stages of the elimination race.

This year's entry is marked by the return of the Chicago Public School league and its 40 members, after a year's absence; by the appearance of Oak Park for the first time in more than 10 years; and by the addition of four academies and 20 Catholic High schools.

Very Few are Missing.

So all-embracing is the field that only three schools of major caliber are missing. These are Thornton of Harvey, Evanston and Highland Park. Following are the principal newcomers:

Mooseheart, Marmion Military [Aurora], Western Military [Alton], Roosevelt Military [Aledo], Immaculate Conception [Elmhurst], St. Mary [DesPlaines], St. Thomas [Rockford], Spalding [Peoria], Central Catholic [East St. Louis], Trinity [Bloomington], Routt [Jacksonville], Corpus Christi [Galesburg], St. Patrick [Kankakee], St. Bede [Peru], Notre Dame [Quincy], St. Paul [Odell], St. Mary [Woodstock], Aquin [Freeport], St. Joseph [Cairo], St. Paul [Highland], St. Mary Community [Sterling], St. Mary [Carlyle], St. Joseph [Rock Island], and Cathedral [Springfield].

The procedure of crowning a champion this year goes back to the 16 team state tourney plan abandoned in 1941 for a one year test of quarter-final tourneys. These constituted an added stage in the elimination and produced the four survivors for the semi-final and title games in Champaign. The Chicago league champion and 15 sectional champions will constitute the "sweet 16" in this year's state tourney on the University of Illinois court March 19-21.

Sectional Events in March.

The 15 sectional tournaments are scheduled for March 10-13, involving 60 regional champions and 60 regional runners-up, a total of 120. All the schools in the race, excepting the 40 in Chicago, will be assigned today to 60 regions. The six schools of largest enrollment within each region automatically qualify for regional tournaments to be played March 3-6. The total in this group is 356, the association stated yesterday. The other 517 will be forced to play in district meets Feb. 24-27.

CHICAGO GIRL LOSES IN FLORIDA GOLF ON 37TH

Punta Gorda, Fla., Jan. 20 (AP).—Louise Suggs of Lithia Springs, Ga., proved her championship caliber today in winning the annual Punta Gorda women's golf tournament for the second successive year.

She defeated Ellamae Williams of Chicago, 1 up, in a 37 hole contest. Once during the morning round Miss Williams was three holes down but refused to believe she was beaten and took the 14th, 15th, and 16th by shooting par golf. She lost the 17th and ended the first half of the match one down.

In the afternoon Miss Suggs was 2 up on the tall challenger as she won the 540 yard 15th with a par five. But Miss Williams won the next two holes and halved the 18th to run the match to an extra hole.

The match ended when Miss Williams' second shot on the final hole went out of bounds. Even then she might have recovered except for the champion's putting.

Lane, Schurz Remain in Tie for Prep Lead

Lane Tech and Schurz High remained tied for first place in the senior division in the north section of the public school league by scoring their fourth consecutive victories yesterday. Lane Tech routed Taft, 40 to 18, in Lane gymnasium, while Schurz triumphed over Roosevelt, 42 to 38, on the latter's court.

Lane Tech held a 23 to 9 advantage over Taft at the end of the first half. Timbul Thomas and Sam Vukovich were the leaders in the victorious attack, the former scoring five field goals and three free throws, and Vukovich contributing five baskets and two free throws. Forward Robbins and Center Burstrom starred for Schurz, Robbins with 11 points and Burstrom with six baskets.

Lane Tech's juniors also scored an easy triumph, defeating Taft, 38 to 15. Roosevelt's juniors evened the program with Schurz by winning, 43 to 10. Lineups:

LINDBLOM WINS

Lindblom High's junior quintet scored its second victory in three central section games yesterday by defeating Farragut, 29 to 23, in Lindblom gymnasium. Guard Meyers was Lindblom's individual star, scoring three field goals and one free throw.

Du Sable and Manley were victors in two other central zone junior contests. Du Sable won its first league contest, conquering Gage Park, 37 to 19, on the latter's floor. The teams were tied, 10 to 10, at the intermission. Manley, with Forward Ordman scoring 14 points, triumphed over Kelly, 40 to 27, on the Kelly court. Lineups:

A City and a Sports Department

(The Tribune Grows Up with Chicago)

[This is the eighteenth of a series of articles on the highlights of the development of sports in Chicago, with especial reference to the part the Tribune sports department played in reporting them, from pre-Civil war days to the present time.]

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

AMONG the early arrivals at the World's Columbian exposition here in 1893 was Sir Henry Truman Wood, the British commissioner to our first big fair, who came over a year in advance to arrange a number of exhibits. Sir Henry apparently didn't plan to spend all his time at the exposition, for his luggage included a quaint kit of sticks identified by the curious as golf clubs. And why did Sir Henry bring them all this way? To play golf, of course, and where could he play it, please? Something had to be done.

Something was done. In no time at all, golf was being played at two now historic sites in 1892. There are reports of a number of gents of Scotch ancestry batting the pill around in Jackson park in 1887, but to Sir Henry and to the late Charles Blair MacDonald must be given full credit for putting the game on a full fledged basis in Chicago.

Seek Larger Pastures—and Greener, Too.

The two original courses were laid out by MacDonald, who had attended school in Scotland and had played the game at St. Andrews. In response to Sir Henry's suggestion, MacDonald designed a seven hole layout on the lawn of John B. Farwell in Lake Forest. Not content with that, he was soon moved to extend his efforts. He and a group of prominent Chicagoans purchased a plot of rolling land at Belmont, 22 miles west of the city, near Downers Grove, and set up nine holes. You couldn't tell the fairway from the rough and tin cans were used for holes, but it was there that our first golf club—the Chicago Golf club—was incorporated on July 18, 1893. J. C. Sterling was elected president, J. Marshall Weir vice president, James B. Forgan treasurer, and MacDonald was team captain. Sir Henry was the first man to smite a ball at Belmont. A barn was used as the clubhouse.

That first course at Belmont produced such activity that the charter members decided to seek larger pastures and better accommodations. Accordingly, they purchased 200 acres of the Patrick farm, a mile south of Wheaton, for $28,000, and MacDonald was deputized to arrange a new course. The story is still told that Mr. MacDonald, a congenital slicer himself, laid out the holes in such a fashion that the wildest sort of slice would land in the fairway, while a hook would sail into a cornfield. This situation created the out-of-bounds rule, strictly an American innovation, for the Rules of the Royal and Ancient at St. Andrews made no provision for same.

Tribune Writer Designs Onwentsia Course.

Among the leading lights at the seven hole course in Lake Forest were Hobart Chatfield-Taylor, Arthur Aldis, and Robert A. Waller. Out of this lake front property grew the present Onwentsia club, which was not founded until 1895. By the turn of the century, Onwentsia had eighteen holes, the planning of same being turned over to H. J. Whigham, a young Tribune writer who later became a son-in-law of Charley MacDonald, not to say a rival, for in those days, the great local fairway feud was a series of team matches between Onwentsia and Chicago Golf, with as many as 50 players to a side.

Johnny McDermott, who became the first American to win the National Open. His triumph was scored at the Chicago Golf club in 1911. This club and Onwentsia were scenes of the first big golf shows in Chicago.

Chicago owns the distinction of having the first 18 hole course in the country, Chicago Golf being the site before the east's famed Shinnecock Hills had completed its second nine. Chicago Golf was one of the original five members of the United States Golf association. It also boasted two brothers as professionals, who were to carry on a family golfing tradition that is still in existence. They also were to perfect the mashie-niblic. They were Jim and Dave Foulis, the former winning the 1896 National Open title. Dave's son, Jim II., is now pro at Ruth Lake, and is rated one of the ablest swingers in modern golf.

Chicago Golf Club Site of Many Nationals.

The Chicago Golf club, which is now preparing to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary, was the scene of many an early national tournament, as was Onwentsia and it is to these two clubs that our town owes its interest in the game, an interest which has made the city the capital of American golf today. Chicago Golf entertained the Amateur in 1897, 1905, 1909, and 1912, and was the stage for the 1928 Walker cup matches. The Open was played there in 1897, in 1900, when the great Harry Vardon won, and in 1911, when Johnny McDermott became the first native American to score. The 1903 Women's championship also was decided on the Wheaton course. Onwentsia held the Amateur in 1899, the Open in 1906, and the Women's in 1915.

It wasn't long before other courses were popping up in the Chicago area, for the original attitude of "Now, what pleasure can grown men find in knocking a ball around a 40 acre lot?" had been replaced by a lively curiosity about the activities of the pioneers in Wheaton and Lake Forest. Among the other early clubs still in existence are Riverside, 1895; Maywood, 1895; Exmoor, 1896; Glen View and Skokie, 1897; Midlothian and Westward-Ho, 1898; Flossmoor, 1899; Elmhurst, 1900; Calumet, 1901; Park Ridge, 1906, and Beverly, 1907. Golf was here to stay.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

That little nubbin of chalk that nestles in the right coat pocket of Willie Hoppe, the old master of billiards, didn't get a great deal of play last night as William whipped Ralph Greenleaf, the fidgety pocket billiards artist, 50 to 31, in 49 innings, in the first evening match of the world's three cushion championship in the Morrison hotel's Terrace Casino.

Ordinarily, as all of the Hoppe public knows, the dapper 54 year old New Yorker is reaching for that chunk of chalk before the balls have stopped rolling on the preceding shot, so certain is he that he has clicked. Last night he charged out of his chair after each uncertain try by Greenleaf in a fashion which would have been identified in the race charts as "Hoppe broke fast—but fast."

It's Hoppe's Fifth Victory.

Greenleaf, who had prolonged Monday's opening night match to 2 hours and 40 minutes before yielding by a point to the ailing Welker Cochran, didn't use his transit, compass, and barometer against Hoppe to the same extent he did against Cochran. Ralph was meeting a tactician who, like Cochran, when he's right, can adapt himself to his opponent's technique.

Willie, whose victory of last evening was his fifth in six starts and his 42d in 44 world championship appearances over a three year span, made no bones about his aims. He scored 10 points in the first five innings, and continued until he had piled up a 25 to 10 margin at the intermission in the 24th frame.

Illness Sidelines Cochran.

In the 26th inning, Hoppe jumped in an 11 point lead by running five for the second time. This gave him a 31 to 11 advantage. From there on, it was no contest.

José Chamaco, the jumping Mexican, moved into a tie for the tournament leadership with Hoppe 10 minutes after midnight by defeating Jake Schaefer, twice runner-up the last two years, 50 to 34, in 45 innings. José had a high run of 9 against Jake's 4.

The case of Cochran, who last night was under a physician's care, recalls last year's meet in which Hoppe collapsed during a pre-tournament challenge match with Jake Schaefer, returning to take his first defeat in 34 matches, and that by Welker. Cochran who complained of intestinal pains during his snug Monday night match with Greenleaf.

Yesterday, these were so aggravated that he requested a default against himself after lagging, 34 to 17, in an afternoon match with Otto Reiselt. The latter refused to accept the forfeit, asking that the match be carried over on the same basis.

In the second afternoon match yesterday, Earle Lookabaugh of the Illinois Athletic club dashed off a 50 to 47 victory over Arthur Thurnblad. Score by innings:

Bruins Battle Fort Wayne on 3 Game Card

A triple header basketball program in which the Chicago Bruins will meet the second place Fort Wayne Zollners in a National league contest, will be held tonight in the Coliseum, 16th street and Wabash avenue, starting at 7:15 o'clock. The Annunciation team, senior champions of the Catholic Youth organization, will open the card with St. Elizabeth's of the CYO. A girls' game bringing together the Ducky Sloans and Standard Transformers will start at 8 o'clock. The Bruins and Fort Wayne teams will play at 9:15.

The Bruins will seek their second straight victory with the lineup which beat Toledo last week. This includes Wibs Kautz and Johnny Drish at forwards, George Ratkovicz at center, and Dick Evans and George Morse at guards.

A victory over the Fort Wayne team tonight would drop it into third place and place the Bruins in a position to move into fifth place next week with a victory over Sheboygan.

Tonight's opening game will present four members of the Hoffman family who play with Annunciation. There are 10 boys in the Hoffman family and eight of them are basketball players. Lineups:

Rise in Duck Population in 1942 Predicted

BY BOB BECKER.

Another increase in the North American duck population is probable during 1942, according to Thomas Main, manager of Ducks Unlimited of Canada.

Mr. Main, who is in Chicago to appear as guest speaker at the Ducks Unlimited dinner tonight, said yesterday that three factors indicate another increase in the number of ducks which will fly south from the Canadian breeding grounds next fall. These are [1] new Ducks Unlimited dams and other projects to conserve water and decrease predator losses on the waterfowl breeding grounds, [2] the constant educational work among the Canadian people to protect waterfowl nests, and [3] conservation measures adopted by federal and state authorities in the United States.

Points to Steady Growth.

"The trend in the waterfowl cycle is on the upgrade now," Mr. Main said, "and we believe it will continue to rise unless unusual weather conditions prevail next summer. The continental duck population was about 60,000,000 in 1939, 69,000,000 in 1940, and 75,000,000 last fall. Each year we are getting a little more seed stock on the Canadian breeding grounds, and each year we make new strides in waterfowl conservation by building dams, acquiring land as duck refuges, and combating predators."

Main pointed out that Ducks Unlimited now has nearly 1,000,000 acres developed in Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and Alberta as waterfowl refuges. More than 180,000 acres were acquired by the organization during 1941.

He emphasized the need for projects which will maintain water in duck breeding areas the entire summer. "Drought conditions kill 22,000,000 ducks each year, almost three times as many ducks as all the sportsmen in Canada and the United States take by hunting," he declared.

The Program Goes On.

The American sportsmen already have decided to go ahead with the Ducks Unlimited program for 1942 and the Canadian government has urged that the rehabilitation projects be continued. All of the provinces are coöperating in the work of conserving North America's waterfowl resources.

Mr. Main will show his new colored motion pictures on waterfowl conservation work in Canada tonight before more than 400 sportsmen at the Ducks Unlimited dinner in the Svithiod club, 624 Wrightwood avenue.

BOWLING ALLEYS TO GET ALL NIGHT GO SIGNAL—IF

They Must Be Soundproof So Citizens Can Sleep.

For the benefit of the 90 per cent of Chicagoans who get their sleep between midnight and 8 a. m., the new all night bowling alley regulations that the city council is soon to pass will allow only those places that are sound proofed to operate in residential neighborhoods later than the present official 1 a. m. closing hour.

This was agreed upon yesterday at a conference between Mayor Kelly, a number of aldermen and representatives of a group of bowling proprietors. The mayor said that with this reservation he favors passage of an ordinance that will permit bowling proprietors to stay open all night. Members of the council license committee will ask Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes to draft such an ordinance today.

Earlier in the day a group of the bowling alley proprietors represented by Attorney Charles Falkenberg appeared before a license committee group and formally declared that they would not oppose paying an additional license for establishments that remain open thruout the night.

No Decision on Fee.

No mention has yet been made of the cost of the proposed all night license. Falkenberg said his clients left that matter entirely in the hands of the council. The aldermen said last evening that no decision on the fee has yet been made.

All night bowling has been a vital question in the council since Police Commissioner Allman, 10 days ago, ordered all alleys closed at 1 a. m.

Seven hundred sixty-eight of the nation's leading bowlers will start firing at 3 p. m. Saturday for $19,200 in prizes, including a $4,000 first award, when Louis P. Petersen's 27th individual classic opens on the Archer-35th recreation lanes. Twenty-four squads of 32 men each are to bowl during the nine day period ending Feb. 1. Each bowler fires eight games across 16 alleys. Defending champion is Johnny Ryan of Waukegan, who won $4,000 last year. . . . The Classic league bowls tonight at Kraft's recreation, 4047 Fullerton avenue. The schedule:

Pabst Blue Ribbon vs. Blatz; Ambrosia vs. Monarch Beer; Washington Shirt vs. Schlitz; Koenig Brau vs. National Bowling Equipment.

Contributes Day's Receipts.

Red Cross drive notes: Windy City has decided to give its gross receipts on one floor next Monday to the Red Cross. All money for both league and open bowling on the 24 alley second floor will be collected by two nurses. Bowling that day will be the 24 team Hawthorne club [women's], the 16 team Windy City Major [men's], and an eight team tavern circuit. . . . That Red Cross benefit match at King Pin Lanes in Wilmette is scheduled for 8:15 Saturday. The Classic Pabst and Monarch fives meet King Pin and Evanston Chamber of Commerce, respectively.

Bruno Wittkowski, a 181 average bowler in the Windy City Junior, fired a 298 game last night after 179 and 178 efforts. He left the 7-9 on the last ball. . . . Nordic Hills Country Club league has voted to bowl for defense stamps weekly, with each of the 40 members to pay $1 each week toward the night's stamp prize fund. The circuit bowls at Samuelson's Arcade. . . . Tonight's schedule of Samuelson's Major:

Wallace Coals vs. Waggoners; Budweisers vs. Michelobs; Universal Musics vs. Fritzi Scheffs; Goldammer Kids vs. Mee & Ramms.

PHONE OPERATOR KILLED WHEN CAR RAMS 'L' PILLAR

Married Companion Hurt; Auto Burns.

Miss Shirley Anderson, 21 years old, 5910 North avenue, a long distance telephone operator, was fatally injured early yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding struck an elevated lines pillar at Lake and Justine streets. The car caught fire.

Her companion, Charles Fein, 26, of 4943 Sheridan road, a married man, suffered a broken leg. He and Miss Anderson were taken to the County hospital, where she died later. Fein, a garage foreman, said he called for Miss Anderson late Monday and that they went to a tavern where they met two sailors. They were taking the sailors to Madison street and Pulaski road when the accident occurred.

The sailors, Fein said, fled after the crash. Fein said he had never dated Miss Anderson before.

Killed in Car-Truck Crash.

Mrs. Nettie Sharkey, 47, 1037 Lill avenue, was killed two miles north of Litchfield on highway 66 when the automobile in which she was riding collided with a truck driven by Max Gorsline of Decatur, Ark. Mrs. Sharkey's husband, Alfred, 53, of Chicago, whom she had married only four hours earlier in St. Charles, Mo., was critically injured. Their car was driven by Mrs. Sharkey's son-in-law, Donald Frey, 22, of 2942 Lakewood avenue.

Mrs. Katie Miehle, 84, of 2307 North avenue, died in Illinois Masonic hospital Monday of injuries received Nov. 5 when she was struck at North avenue and Leavitt street by a car driven by Bruno J. Gressick, 19, of 1085 North Paulina street.

Unidentified Man Hurt.

An unidentified man about 50 years old was fatally injured at 17th and North avenues, Melrose Park, when he was struck by a car driven by Benjamin R. Gates of route 2, West Chicago. A card in a pocket of the victim's clothes bore the name of Lawrence Iriman.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 63 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 46 were killed in Chicago, where 1,351 were injured in the same period.

MERRY FAHRNEY AUNT'S ESTATE TOTALS $1,651,745

The estate of Mrs. Susan Beachy, an aunt of Merry Fahrney, much married heiress to the Fahrney patent medicine fortune, was placed at $1,651,745 in a state inheritance tax return filed in County court yesterday by Attorney General George F. Barrett. The return placed the federal estate tax at $673,099 and the state inheritance tax at $101,003.

Mrs. Beachy, who lived at 238 Forest avenue, Oak Park, died Feb. 13, 1941, at the age of 77.

Barrett also filed a return placing the estate of Henry C. Schwab, former shoe manufacturing executive, at $1,229,245, with the federal estate tax amounting to $38,032 and the state inheritance tax totaling $7,996. Schwab died March 6, 1941, in his home at 1325 Astor street at the age of 73.

The Beachey tax was computed on the entire estate which was distributed. The Schwab estate tax was computed only on the part which was distributed. The major part was placed in trust, and will be taxed upon termination of the trust.

RECOVER BODIES OF 22 DEAD IN LOMBARD PLANE

Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 20.—The bodies of Mrs. Elizabeth K. Peters, mother of Carole Lombard, the film actress, and Otto Winkler, publicity representative of Miss Lombard, were brought to Las Vegas late today from the mountainside scene of the airplane wreck in which 22 persons, including the actress, lost their lives last Friday night.

Lieut. William B. Hunt, who was in charge of the removal of the bodies from the scene, testified at an inquest that none remained there.

Arrangements were completed to place the bodies of Miss Lombard, her mother, and Winkler aboard a train arriving at Los Angeles at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Clark Gable, the actress' grief stricken husband, will accompany them, together with a party of close friends.

DROP HOSPITAL PLAN TO WORK WAR OBJECTORS

Plans to put 34 conscientious objectors to work in the Elgin State hospital were called off last night by Lieut. Col. Lewis Kosch of Washington, D. C., at a protest meeting in Elgin sponsored by the American Legion. Col. Kosch is liaison officer for the national selective service board in charge of the placement of objectors.

He attended the meeting with Dr. Charles F. Read, managing officer of the hospital, city officials of Elgin, and war veterans from Kane and Cook counties.

PERTUSSIN FOR QUICK RELIEF

BOARD PASSES SCHOOL BUDGET OF $72,821,955

Increase of $1,398,668 Over Last Year.

The Chicago Board of Education yesterday passed the schools' 1942 budget totaling $72,821,955 for all purposes. This is an increase of $1,398,668 over the total appropriations for 1941.

The budget includes the restoration to teachers and other employés of the school board of 2 per cent of the salary cuts made in the depression. The pay increase will amount to $1,045,000 for the year. The cut in salaries amounted to 23.5 per cent in 1933. The latest restoration leaves the basic salaries 5.5 per cent below the predepression level.

Besides the salary increases, nonoperating expenses for 1942 were boosted by $1,700,00, but this will be partly offset by savings thru reductions in the number of employés and in expenditures for supplies in operating departments, James B. McCahey, board president, explained.

156 Jobs Eliminated.

The board approved the elimination of 156 jobs in noninstructional departments at a saving of $275,000, and reduced this year's appropriation for supplies and equipment by $150,000. In addition, the budget contemplates that $620,000 will be saved by not replacing a substantial number of teachers who will be retired during the year.

The schools' 1942 tax levies, from which most of the revenue is obtained, will be increased $318,289, to a total of $69,448,844, a tabulation submitted by McCahey showed. The educational fund's tax levy will remain unchanged at 52 million dollars, and the levy for the building fund will be reduced by $950,000.

This reduction is more than offset, however, McCahey explained, by increases in taxes for nonoperating funds resulting from conditions beyond the control of the school board. The increased taxes are a $837,000 boost in the levy for teachers' pensions, as adopted by the state assembly, and a boost of $431,000 in taxes necessary to meet bond retirements and interest on bonds.

More for Lunchrooms.

The appropriation for the high school lunchrooms for 1942 was raised to $2,100,000, compared with $1,541,258 in 1941, but this does not affect the taxpayers because the lunchrooms are self-supporting.

In cutting out 156 jobs, the board went beyond the recommendations made last week by a special administrative survey commission headed by A. H. Mellinger, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The commission proposed the immediate dropping of 74 jobs to save $177,600.

McCahey said the board is continuing its study of three other proposals made by the survey commission and will make its decisions later.

Ira S. Turley, president of the Chicago Teachers' union, last night declared that the 2 per cent salary restoration was inadequate. He asserted that employés in other local governments in Cook county have received full restoration of depression wage cuts, and that the union will continue to fight toward this end.

Dennis Cooney's Funeral Will Be Held Tomorrow

The funeral of Dennis Cooney, 1st ward politician and night life figure, will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 1820 South Michigan avenue to old St. Mary's church, 9th street and Wabash avenue. Timber Trial Witness

MRS. MARIE P. FORBES.

Resources Corpporation International held 2 million acres of Mexican timberlands for more than 12 years, but it never seemed to get around to cutting operations that were to realize millions for its 2,000 midwest investors.

There were elaborate dinner meetings at which heads of R. C. I. regaled stockholders with promises of wealth to come, but nothing tangible ever seemed to be done toward providing transportation and mills for getting finished lumber out of the Mexican hills.

This was the testimony yesterday of Mrs. Marie P. Forbes, widow of Walter A. Forbes, wealthy Rockford, Ill., foundry owner, at the $7,350,000 securities and mail fraud trial of nine officers and associates of R. C. I. before Judge Michael L. Igoe and a jury in Federal court. The Forbes family invested a total of $55,000 in R. C. I. securities, the witness asserted.

DR. TARNOWSKY, DECORATED FOR WAR WORK, DEAD

Dr. George de Tarnowsky, prominent surgeon, who won 22 decorations for his work in the World war, died last night in the Ravenswood hospital after an illness of several weeks. He was 68 years old, and lived at 2719 Pine Grove avenue.

Dr. Tarnowsky was born in Nice, France, of a Russian father, Michel de Tarnowsky, and an American mother, Juliana Oakley. He received his early education in France and was graduated from Northwestern university medical school in 1900. He had practiced in Chicago since. He was a co-founder of the Ravenswood hospital and a former president of the Chicago Surgical society and the Chicago Gynecological society. At his death he was professor of surgery in the University of Illinois medical school.

In the World war Dr. Tarnowsky served as a colonel in command of 378th medical regiment. For his work under fire, he was awarded the Distinguished Service medal, and medals by France, Italy, England, and other countries. Two daughters, Miss Mary, Mrs. Olga Hudson, and two sons, Alexis and Nixon, all known in the younger social set, survive. IT CAN HAPPEN EVEN TO YOU!

People in every walk of life acquire Syphilis innocently!

Don't think you can't have syphilis, for it can be innocently acquired from drinking cups, towels and other sources and exist for many years without your knowledge! Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT," the Public Health Institute makes a full examination for syphilis and gonorrhea at very low cost, and gives individual treatments at fees so small as to be within the reach of every wage earner.

UNION FINANCES, BIG PROFITS HIT IN NAVY REPORT

Figures Revealed by House Committee.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—The financial wealth of the labor unions of the nation—a mystery long kept from the people—was laid bare today by the house committee on naval affairs.

In an exhaustive report the committee accused some industries of "unconscionable profits" on arms contracts but also placed "great responsibility and blame" on labor for delays in the defense program.

The tremendous financial gains made by the unions during the defense effort and the vast amounts in their treasuries represent "an astounding picture of concentration of wealth," the report noted.

Minority Protests Labor Criticism.

Whereas the committee was unanimous in criticizing several industries for extracting profits running into the millions from defense contracts, an eight-man minority of the 23 members protested against the criticism of labor. Since Pearl Harbor, they said, capital and labor have pledged themselves to settle all disputes by mediation and arbitration and until that pledge is broken, congressional committees should refrain from criticism of either or both.

The 117 labor unions replying to demands of the committee for statements of their assets, having a total membership of 6,085,832, gave the following information: On Oct. 1, 1939, net assets were $71,915,665 and as of March 31, 1941, the net assets were $82,594,959, amounting to a net gain of $10,679,294, or 14.85 per cent.

During the period from Oct. 1, 1939, to March 31, 1941, the 117 unions reported receipts of $81,043,369 and disbursements of $68,860,244, resulting in a gain of $12,183,185.

[In an adjoining column is a table giving a breakdown of union finances by AFL, CIO, and independent organizations.]

Urges Profit Limitation.

While disapproving of such great war chests, the committee was no less critical of several companies who have made large profits out of war contracts. It referred particularly to a 27 per cent profit realized on a competitive-bid contract by the Cleveland Diesel Engine division of General Motors, amounting to more than 2 million dollars, the profits realized by the Bath Iron Works ranging from $850,000 to $1,125,000 and all in excess of 15 per cent, and numerous other cases.

Some method of profit limitation must be adopted to eliminate such profiteering, the report said. When even a partial survey of naval contracts indicates profits in many instances ranging far above 7 per cent, measures must be taken to prevent "excessive and unconscionable profits."

But the existence of vast tax exempt funds in the treasuries of labor unions, "many of whom by strikes and work stoppages have delayed and in instances even obstructed the defense program" also presents a problem, the committee declared, which must be dealt with by congress.

One independent labor organization, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, has net assets alone of $25,997,034, the report noted.

Assets of AFL Unions.

The stated net assets of some large AFL unions, as of March 31, 1941, follow:

Brewery, Flour Cereal, and Soft Drinker Workers	$1,225,907
Bricklayers, Masons, and Plasterers	8,239,821
Bridge and Structural Iron Workers	1,532,103
Carmen of America	*3,000,000
Clerks Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Handlers	2,411,320
Hotel and Restaurant Employés	*1,000,000
International Association of Machinists	1,458,070
Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen	*1,000,000
American Federation of Musicians	969,319
Plumbers and Steamfitters	1,048,741
Printing Pressmen and Assistants	2,695,934
Street and Electric Railway Employés	3,035,755
Switchmen's union	1,460,152
Typographical union	5,541,534
Hodcarriers union	1,535,489

*Estimated.

The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, reporting net assets of $2,979,469, and the United Mine Workers of America, with assets of $4,014,076, have treasuries far overshadowing other CIO unions, the report showed. Other CIO listings are:

Steel Workers' Organizing comm.	819,958
Construction Workers Organizing committee	262,112
Maritime Union of America	289,000
Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers	231,467

The committee noted that John L. Lewis of the Mine Workers reported a treasury balance rise from $2,467,969 to $4,014,075 in the 18 month period between Oct. 1, 1939, and March 31, 1941. This was raised partly by special levies on every working miner. Another special per capita levy is now being assessed against the mine workers, the report said, which is expected to raise another $4,000,000 for the Lewis treasury.

The only sizable fund, next to the gigantic 25 million-plus treasury of the Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen brotherhood, listed in the independent class was the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. It listed net assets of $2,006,233.

Lists Examples of "Profiteering."

The committee listed some of the outstanding cases of companies profiteering at the expense of the government. Taking a 7 per cent profit as a fair and just return, the following examples, the report charged, showed the reaping of excessive profits:

"General Motors corporation, Cleveland Diesel Engine division, on 15

Price Power for Wickard Is Held Likely

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—A compromise agreement representing a victory for the cotton bloc in congress and giving the department of agriculture a veto power over maximum prices for farm commodities was said to be under consideration by senate and house conferees on the administration's price control legislation today.

The administration was reported willing to accept the senate and house cotton bloc amendments in order to defeat the senate's O'Mahoney farm price boosting amendment, which President Roosevelt has denounced as a provision to compel inflation.

Fail in Final Accord.

Altho a general compromise settlement along these lines was reported to be under consideration, the conferees adjourned today without reaching any final agreement, either on the farm price amendments or other major controversial provisions of the bill.

Congressional leaders discussed the conference deadlock on the price control bill with President Roosevelt at the White House today. Altho, Mr. Roosevelt still opposes the senate's Bankhead amendment, which forbids Price Administrator Leon Henderson to establish farm price ceilings without the prior approval of Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, it was predicted in well informed quarters that the administration will take the Bankhead amendment in order to scrap the O'Mahoney amendment.

Cotton Prices at Issue.

The cotton bloc legislators also are expected to win retention of a provision in both the senate and house bills forbidding the fixing of maximum cotton prices below the 1919-'29 average price, which was 21½ cents a pound. This would give the cotton farmers an advantage of 2 cents a pound over a provision in the house bill which forbids the fixing of any maximum farm price below 110 per cent of the parity price.

The Conferees are expected to retain the house provision forbidding the establishment of farm prices below 110 per cent of the parity price, which is intended to give agricultural commodities a purchasing power in terms of non-agricultural commodities equivalent to the base ratio from 1909 to 1914.

The amendment sponsored by Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] and adopted by the senate would permit farm prices to rise to an average of at least 20 per cent above parity at present and perhaps much higher in the future.

DISCLOSE PLANS TO LINK TVA TO OTHER DISTRICTS

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 20 (AP).—A plan to link Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey with power lines from the Tennessee Valley authority generators as a defense measure was disclosed today by Leland Olds, chairman of the Federal Power commission.

"What we're attempting to do is to balance the electric power so that when the steam generated electric power in the north is low it can be bolstered by hydroelectric power generated by the TVA," Olds explained. "When there is a drouth in the Tennessee valley region and hydroelectric power falls off that supply can be augmented by whatever excess exists in the steam generated electric pools."

Warn Dealers to Hold Gasoline Prices at or Below Nov. 7 Level

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—Retail dealers in all grades of gasoline received notice from Price Administrator Leon Henderson today that their prices must remain at or below the level of last Nov. 7, or a price ceiling will be imposed.

The warning was contained in a letter to producers, refiners, and marketers of petroleum products clarifying price questions on petroleum and a list of specified petroleum products which temporarily are pegged at the Nov. 7 level.

A Warning on the Side.

While gasoline sold at service stations, curbside pumps, marine service stations and other retail outlets was not formally included in the list of affected products, Henderson's letter said:

"It must be undersoood, however, that these prices should remain substantially at or below Nov. 7 levels. If they do not, a formal ceiling order will be promulgated placing them under full control."

Henderson's letter stressed that the prices which prevailed Nov. 7 have not received approval from OPA, but may be revised upon completion of investigations now being conducted on the cost of production, refining, and marketing.

Covered by the request are crude petroleum, tractor distillates and other distillate type motor fuels, kerosene, including range oil or stove oil; burning, heating or fuel oils; Diesel fuel oils; asphalts, including road oils and other asphalt derivatives; lubricating oils including motor, aviation and stock oils, and liquefied petroleum gases.

Some Kinds Are Excluded.

Household oils and spot removers, along with industrial lubricating oils, industrial naphthas and solvents, greases and specialty products are for the time being excluded from the list of petroleum items subject to the price request. However, Henderson warned of possibility of rigid price control if the Nov. 7 price is surpassed.

PLAN NEW PURE OIL PLANT.

The office of the federal petroleum coördinator in Washington, D. C., announced yesterday that it had recommended to the Defense Plant corporation that Pure Oil company, Chicago, build and operate for the government a plant for manufacture of 100 octane aviation gasoline. The coördinator's office also proposed that a similar arrangement be negotiated with Southport Petroleum company, Kilgore, Tex. The office declined to divulge the cost or location of the proposed plants.

BUILDING CONTRACTS TOP 6 BILLION MARK FIRST TIME SINCE 1928

New York, Jan. 20 (AP).—F. W. Dodge corporation reported today building and engineering contracts awarded in 1941 in 37 eastern states totaled $6,007,474,000, topping the 6 billion dollar mark for the first time since 1928. The previous post depression high record was set in 1940, when awards in the eastern states aggregated $4,003,957,000 the statistical research service said.

"The 1942 program is presently estimated to equal in total dollar volume that of 1941," the concern said, "with a vastly increased war construction program, volume of civilian construction curtailed to absolute essentials and an approximately normal volume of maintenance and repairs.

"Seventy-five to 80 per cent of this year's total volume will be war construction," it added.

Gen. Aniline Stock Seizure Is Predicted

New York, Jan. 20 (AP).—Government seizure of foreign held stock control of the much investigated and shaken up General Aniline and Film corporation, originally created under German influences, was forecast today in financial quarters.

A legal authority said that while the government does not confiscate outright property other than contraband of war, a 1917 law gives it a wide latitude of discretion in dealing with alien property.

It was said that at present the unfrozen 2 per cent of stock is able to exercise voting control, accounting for recent directoral changes.

Seek Continued Control.

Definite and final transfer of ownership of the frozen stock may be desired to guarantee continued control by the present management, it was indicated. Records showed about 98 per cent of General Aniline's stock was held by I. G. Chemie, a Swiss company which has been referred to as an offshoot of I. G. Farbenindustrie, the vast German dye and chemical trust.

The treasury raised the question of I. G. Chemie ownership last October when it refused to let General Dyestuffs corporation, General Aniline's selling agent at that time, buy the controling stock interest. A treasury license for such sale and payment to the foreign owners would have been necessary under the freezing order.

Forecasts Seizure Soon.

"The government probably will take over that part of the stock," a source close to the company said, "and see that it eventually is transferred into unquestioned American ownership. I wouldn't be surprised to see it announced within a few days."

General Aniline and its big plants at Rensselaer, Johnson City and Binghamton, N. Y., and Grasselli, N. J., meantime operated under temporary executive schedules made necessary by treasury action of Jan. 13 banning from its premises five top flight executives who, it commented, "personified the domination of the company by the German dye trust."

The order ousting them culminated a series of executive changes which left John E. Mack, a friend of President Roosevelt, in the company presidency and added to the directorate such men as William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France, and Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad.

RUNAWAY TYPE OF INFLATION IS HELD UNLIKELY

Defeat Only Danger, Says Professor.

BY JOHN BAYLESS.

Runaway inflation such as experienced by Germany after the World war could occur in this country only in the event of complete military defeat, Prof. Stewart Y. McMullen, professor of accounting at Northwestern university, declared yesterday. There will, however, be a major increase in the general price level, he warned, unless the federal government takes drastic preventive action.

Addressing the Chicago Controlers' association at the Palmer House, Prof. McMullen asserted that any modern government could prevent extreme monetary inflation if it wants to. Certain situations might arise, however, in which inflation would appear politically desirable, he added.

Price Rise Held Inevitable.

The price rise that appears inevitable, he said, will result from a reduction in the supply of goods thru curtailment of civilian production and a steadily increasing demand for goods as the national income rises under the stimulus of war production expenditures. Its results will be an increase in the cost of carrying on the war; sharp reductions in the living standards of persons with fixed or semi-fixed incomes, many of whom will also be hard hit by increased income taxes, and the post-war deflation which he said must follow a war boom such as we are now entering.

Prof. McMullen said complete stabilization of prices is practically impossible at a time when the government is planning the expenditure of billions of dollars on armaments. The necessary increases in taxes will compel a rise in prices of many articles, he said. The total effect, however, will depend on how the taxes are levied. Income tax boosts do not generally affect the price level, he said; excise taxes have a direct effect.

Effects of Tax Programs.

He pointed out that the administration's tax program as thus far disclosed has favored sharp increases in income and social security taxes with but a minor part of the increased revenues to be raised from new or larger excise taxes. Insofar as these methods curtail purchasing power of individuals they will help to hold down prices, he said.

In theory, Prof. McMullen said, the total cost of the war could be financed by taxes. Government borrowing, popularly believed to be a method of passing on the cost to future years, in reality does nothing of the kind, he declared. Wars are fought not with dollars but with bullets, he added, and those bullets must be produced now out of this year's production. Borrowing in effect is merely a redistribution of current buying power.

The same effect could be achieved thru taxation, he declared, but the levying of sufficient taxes to pay all the war costs would be a job of such magnitude that it would be impossible to avoid inequalities of burden such as would seriously disrupt the nation's economy.

SELECT CONOVER OF OHIO TO RUN NORTH SHORE GAS

A. W. Conover, vice president and general manager of the Central Ohio Light and Power company, Findlay, O., has been elected president and general manager of the North Shore Gas company, it was announced yesterday. He succeeds William A. Baehr, who resigned recently.

A. W. Conover.

Conover's assumption of his duties Feb. 1 will mark an important change in the operating management of the company since its reorganization last month. The company supplies gas to communities along the north shore from Winnetka to the Wisconsin line.

Conover was formerly vice president and general manager of the Oklahoma Utilities company and Colorado Central Power company.

Authorize Willys Lease to Expand War Output

Toledo, O., Jan. 20 (AP).—Stockholders of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., approved today the leasing of 484,166 square feet of factory space to enable the company to accelerate war production. This will make construction of new facilities unnecessary, said Ward Canaday, board chairman. All officers and directors were reelected.

President Asks 300 Millions to Pay War Dole

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—President Roosevelt asked congress today for a 300 million dollar appropriation for unemployment compensation benefits for employés temporarily thrown out of work by conversion of industrial plants to wartime uses. He sent a letter to Speaker Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], recommending the appropriation and a plan for providing weekly benefits to qualified workers.

The President said the program should be controled by the social security board and suggested that the program continue not longer than this calendar year.

Thousands Already Affected.

"The conversion of industrial plants from the production of peacetime goods to the production of war materials and the drastic curtailment of civilian consumption required for the successful prosecution of the war have already thrown thousands of persons out of work," Mr. Roosevelt said. "Eventually these workers will be absorbed in war industries. In the meantime, there will be widespread distress unless the federal government takes appropriate action to cope with the appropriate action. . . .

"The present state and territorial unemployment compensation laws furnish some protection to these displaced workers, but the benefits provided under these laws are quite inadequate. . . .

Would Extend Coverage.

"Therefore, I recommend that the congress appropriate the sum of 300 million dollars to supplement and extend the protection now afforded by the state and territorial unemployment compensation laws, so that not only may employés insured under these laws receive an additional war displacement benefit, but employés not now insured under these laws, either because they work for small employers or for some other reason, may also be afforded protection.

"I suggest that the appropriation be made in such a way that the expenditures would be controled by plans approved by the President. These regulations would provide that displaced employés receive in total weekly benefits approximately 60 per cent of their average weekly wage, but in no event more than $24 a week for 26 weeks. Such plans would also provide that no displacement benefit be paid to any person who refuses to accept vocational training to better qualify himself for employment in a war industry or who refuses to accept suitable employment."

Wholesale Prices in Last 13 Years

NORTH AMERICAN TO SELL STOCK IN UNION ELECTRIC

New York, Jan. 20 (AP).—The North American company announced tonight it was planning to sell publicly its entire holdings of common stock in Union Electric Company of Missouri.

"Our program contemplates a nation-wide distribution thru a group of investment bankers of such amounts of this stock as can be sold at an acceptable price," the company said in a letter to stockholders advising them that an application was being filed with the Securities and Exchange commission for authority to sell its 2,695,000 shares of Union Electric, the entire amount outstanding.

"The carrying out of this program in its entirety would enable the company to realize from the sale of this one investment substantially more than the amount required to pay off all its debentures. It would also be a step towards conforming with the recommendations made to the commission by its public utilities division in integration proceedings against the North American company."

INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT SETS FASTEST PACE IN NATION'S HISTORY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—The federal reserve board said today that American industrial production rose in 1941 from 139 to 168 per cent of the 1935-'39 average. This 29 point gain was one of the largest for any year and brought the figure to the highest point in American history.

The December index of 168 was two points higher than November, but the board explained that actually December production was somewhat smaller. The index rose because the decline was less than expected normally and the index is adjusted for seasonal differences.

In its summary the board said, "Industrial activity declined less than seasonally in December and the first half of January, retail trade continued in large volume, and prices of many commodities rose further."

Study Places to Move West Coast War Plants

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—The government, President Roosevelt said today, is attempting to perfect a system of supplying substitute places where vital industrial plants on the west coast might go in the event of extreme danger. This does not necessarily mean there will be no expansion of existing plants on the coast, he told a press conference.

NO RATIONING OF USED CARS, DEALERS TOLD

Henderson's Pledge Gives Them Hope.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Automobile dealers were told yesterday that Leon Henderson, price administrator, does not at present contemplate either the rationing of used cars or the commandeering of private cars. His assurance was given at the 25th annual convention of the National Automobile Dealers' association in the Palmer House in a speech read for him by Cyrus McCormick, chief of the automobile and truck section of the Office of Price Administration.

Cyrus McCormick.

Henderson's message was applauded by the dealers whose used car business had been brought to a virtual standstill after Henderson had been reported in Washington, D. C., as having indicated that commandeering of private automobiles was a possibility.

3,000 Dealers Attend.

More than 3,000 dealers from every state are attending the convention, although it had been expected to draw about 700 persons. With their business imperiled by the nation's need to use the manufacturing facilities for arms instead of automobiles, many of the dealers said they had come to the convention to "attend our own funeral."

Henderson confirmed some of their

BUYING OF RAIL STOCKS BUOYS UNSTEADY LIST

Close Is Uneven; Market Average Unchanged.

New York, Jan. 20 (AP).—Rail stocks made a recovery movement today and, altho the majority failed to go any distance, they at least helped steady the remainder of the list. Gains ran to a point or so for favorites in the morning, with activity picking up at intervals. Extreme advances were later reduced in most cases and, at the close, numerous issues were about unchanged and minus signs were plentiful.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 37.8. Dealings slowed after mid-day and transfers for the full proceedings totaled 487,330 shares against 428,760 yesterday.

Reasons for Optimism.

Carriers still had the benefit of renewed hopes of rate raises being granted and prospects traffic would mount substantially this year. In addition there were several bright earnings statements and federal recommendation that oil companies put more tank cars into service to offset ship losses proved a bolstering influence.

Steels, oils, motors, coppers, utilities, aircrafts, and rubbers did little or nothing. Selling in the chemicals dried up to a certain extent altho the majority kept in minus territory. Oils were retarded by the warning of the OPA that ceilings would be put on gasoline unless retail outlets maintained prices at or below the levels of last Nov. 7.

Santa Fe touched a new 1941-'42 peak but eventually halved most of an early upturn of better than a point. Union Pacific gained 1¼.

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN.

Price movements were irregular on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in transactions involving 17,000 shares. Of 79 issues traded, 36 closed higher, 22 lower, and 21 unchanged. Utah Radio Products was the volume leader, rising ⅛ to close at 1½ on turnover of 1,900 shares. Chicago corporation was unchanged at 1⅛, Wisconsin Bankshares up ¼ at 5, and Commonwealth Edison ¼ lower at 22.

In the half hour after the close of trading in New York, Butler Brothers, Marshall Field, and Montgomery Ward each advanced ⅛, while Libby and Pullman each lost ⅛.

Commodities

The deadlock at Washington over the price control bill continued to make commodity dealers cautious yesterday, altho most futures prices scored small gains. Cotton rose 50 to 55 cents a bale. Santos coffee advanced .01 to .04 cent a pound to federal ceiling prices or slightly below. Fear that shipment from South America may be curtailed by sea warfare bolstered demand.

Cocoa added .01 to .02 cent. Wool tops were up .1 to .3 cent. Cottonseed oil was unchanged to .01 cent a pound lower.

CELOTEX CERTAIN OF BOOM TRADE, SAYS DAHLBERG

War Work to Overcome Residential Curb.

The Celotex corporation, which in 1941 experienced the most profitable year in its history, will work at full capacity in 1942 even if residential building is cut to a minimum or eliminated, Bror Dahlberg, president, told stockholders yesterday at their annual meeting at 919 North Michigan avenue.

Bror Dahlberg.

Structural, insulating, and acoustical materials manufactured by the company are required in the construction of arms plants, defense housing, army camps, and other military establishments, he explained.

Dahlberg said the company has experienced no difficulty in obtaining machinery or raw materials. The supply of bagasse, the fibrous leftover of sugar cane, is plentiful, he said, and is the principal raw material for Celotex products.

Develops New Products.

Among the new products developed or being studied by Celotex, according to Dahlberg, are fiber board for blackout purposes, construction board for defense homes, substitutes for cork, a substitute for galvanized iron which will withstand the same stresses but will not rust, and roofing insulation for heavy duty construction. The company's English subsidiary has manufactured blackout materials for three years.

Dahlberg declined to forecast 1942 operating results because of "unpredictable" price, wage, and tax factors.

"I know we will work at chock-full capacity, and, if we are allowed to make a reasonable profit, we will come out ahead in our 1942 fiscal year," he commented.

Stock Prices "Ridiculous."

In reply to a stockholder's question about the current low market price of Celotex stock, Dahlberg said stock market prices are "ridiculous," bearing virtually no relationship to earnings.

"There is no measuring stick for stock values," he said. "The war has made everything uncertain. My advice is, if you haven't bought any stocks don't, and if you haven't sold any, hold on."

Stockholders reëlected the directors. Only 16 shareholders attended. Present officers were retained at the directors' meeting which followed.

CLEARING HOUSE KEEPS M'CLOUD IN PRESIDENCY

Bentley G. McCloud, vice president of the First National bank, was reëlected president of the Chicago Clearing House association yesterday. Laurence B. Robbins, vice president of Northern Trust company, was reëlected vice president of the clearing house, Howard M. Sims was renamed its manager, and members of the clearing house committee were retained in office.

Frank N. Miller, a contractor, and William E. Kaiser, secretary of the Great Northern Laundry company, were elected directors on the Evanston Trust and Savings bank. All officers were renamed.

All directors and officers of the Kaspar American State bank were reëlected. A voluntary wage allotment plan was adopted for the purchase of defense bonds by officers and employés.

Directors of the Mercantile National Bank of Chicago were reëlected. The board is scheduled to meet tomorrow.

All officers were reëlected by the Beverly State Savings bank and Carl M. Johnson was elected a director.

NEW APPARATUS TO ALLOW MORE INTERCITY CALLS

BY AL CHASE.

With demand for long distance service over Bell system lines now 22 per cent larger than a year ago, the Western Electric company [maker of telephone equipment and a subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph company] has begun production of specialized telephone apparatus to meet the unprecedented load between the country's widely separated military establishments and defense bases.

Known as type "K" carrier equipment, designed to increase the capacity of Bell System long distance telephone lines, it has been described as "wired radio." Applied to toll cables, it multiplies the number of the telephone conversations which may be carried on simultaneously over the same circuit.

According to Western Electric officials, increase in the number of conversations is made possible by carrying each conversation on a current of different frequency, and unscrambling these conversations by electrical filters at the receiving end.

School Board Authorizes Sale of Tax Warrants

The Chicago board of education yesterday authorized the sale of 42 million 800 thousand dollars of 1942 tax anticipation warrants at interest rates of 1½ to 2 per cent. Of the total, 37 million 800 thousand dollars is against the educational fund levy and 5 million dollars against the building fund tax. Agreement has been made with six loop banks to buy the warrants as the school board requires the funds, over a period from Feb. 2 to Nov. 2, officials said.

Report Progress in Making Rubber from Farm Products

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—Experiments are under way for the conversion of agricultural commodities, such as wheat and corn, into synthetic rubber with satisfactory results thus far. Dr. Henry G. Knight, chief of the agriculture department's chemistry and engineering bureau, said tonight.

"We have made signal progress at the northern regional research laboratory at Peoria, Ill.," he declared in an interview, "but not enough to make a positive statement that we can make synthetic rubber yet. The progress we have made, however, entices us to continue with the research."

Midwesterners Doing Work.

The process, developed by four chemurgy experts—Dr. Leo M. Christensen of the University of Nebraska, W. K. McPherson of Alabama Polytechnic institute, Harry Miller of the University of Missouri, and Dr. L. A. Underkofler of Iowa State college—consists of three stages, Dr. Knight said. They are:

1. A special fermentation process under which the farm commodities are made into a liquid chemical known as butylene glycol, resembling glycerine but somewhat thinner.
2. Conversion of the butylene glycol into a gas known as butadiene, which is the base of synthetic rubber.
3. Chemical transformation of the butadiene into a compound which is synthetic rubber itself.

"The first step," Dr. Knight said, "is now in the pilot plant at Peoria. The second step is still in the laboratory stage.

"There are three questions confronting us. They are whether the results in the first stage will show up as well in the pilot plants as in the laboratory, whether the conversion of butylene glycol into butadiene can be done economically, and whether the overall cost of the entire process will be such as to permit the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

"We aren't far enough along to answer these questions as yet and therefore we can't say anything more about it at this time."

Offer from Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 20 (AP).—Oswaldo Aranha, Brazil's foreign minister, said in a radio interview broadcast to the United States today that 20,000,000 rubber trees in the Amazon jungles could be tapped to produce rubber in a hurry for the war program.

"If you would pay half of the $1.20 you are paying for synthetic rubber to get our wild rubber you would start a gold rush to the Amazon and would get rubber in a hurry," he said.

At present the United States is only paying about 30 cents a pound for Amazon rubber, he said.

NO RATIONING OF USED CARS, DEALERS TOLD

Pledge by Henderson Gives Them Hope.

worst fears by stating: "I should be the last to hold out the hope that all dealers will come out of this emergency unscathed. Without question some dealers will fall by the wayside. Some dealers will fail; many employés will be dismissed. For the present their jobs are liquidated—tho I anticipate that before long there will be work in defense production for every unemployed man."

Henderson said he hoped there would be no "rubber leggers or automobile leggers." He said he was unable to guarantee that full retail prices will be paid when new cars are bought from dealers' frozen stocks by the army and navy.

Future Depends on War.

J. J. Newman, vice president of the B. F. Goodrich company, told the group that the future of the rubber, automobile, and many other industries rests to a large extent on the war, more particularly on the war in the Pacific.

He explained that 97 per cent of the world's rubber supply has come from the far east. The best hope now rests on expansion of the synthetic rubber industry in this country, on exploitation of crude rubber production in Brazil and elsewhere in Latin America and on the development of new sources of rubber from the guayule plant, he said.

Outlining the steps being taken to build up the country's rubber supply, Newman said he hoped that within a few months developments may warrant liberalization of the present curtailment program.

Newman said there are now about 6 million passenger automobile and 2 or 2½ million truck tires on hand. Under the January rationing only 242,783 truck tires and 114,191 passenger car tires were released. On this basis and with proper care the present tire supply should be sufficient to keep automobiles rolling for several years, he said.

Sets Synthetic Rubber Goal.

Newman said it is hoped that synthetic rubber plants in this country will be able to produce about 400,000 tons annually by 1943.

T. S. McEwan, Chicago district manager for the defense contract service of the OPM, urged the dealers "to get out and sell service as efficiently as you have sold the desirability of purchasing new cars" as one way to take in sufficient revenues to keep their doors open. He said the necessity for keeping automobiles running should present a good opportunity for profit.

McEwan said it may even be possible for some dealers with good service departments to rebuild old jalopies from automobile graveyards. Others may repair and service mechanical equipment other than automobiles. Some service stations may form a pool to use their equipment in the manufacture of arms, he suggested.

ANOTHER AGENCY TRIES TO SETTLE RAILROAD STRIKE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—The United States conciliation service sought tonight to terminate a strike on the Toledo, Peoria, and Western railroad, after the Railroad Mediation board had washed its hands of the case.

John R. Steelman, conciliation director, requested company and brotherhood representatives to meet before a conciliation panel in Peoria on Friday "to make further effort to arrive at a mutually satisfactory settlement thru mediation."

Members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen walked out on Dec. 28 to enforce demands for wage increases and better working conditions.

Express Agency Emergency Charge Goes Into Effect

The Railway Express agency yesterday put into effect the newly approved emergency charge of 10 cents a shipment on certain types of interstate express. Officials explained that the 10 cent charge applied to each shipment, regardless of the number of packages in the shipment.

PRICES OF HOGS DECLINE FROM MONDAY'S PEAK

Despite a decline of supplies from the heavy volume handled a week ago, a weaker undercurrent developed in the market for hogs at the stockyards yesterday. After a small number of all weights had sold steady the market for stock under 260 pounds sold off 5 to 10 cents per hundred pounds and heavier hogs were cashed at about steady rates.

Buyers paid steady prices for a few of the best loads of cattle available, but prices as much as 25 cents lower prevailed for the majority of others.

A break of 25 to 40 cents hit the lamb market. Most stock sold from $11.65 to $12.50.

FEDERAL AGENCY STARTING TO BUY STORAGE BUTTER

The federally financed Dairy Products Marketing association announced yesterday that it would purchase storage butter "on the same price basis as for fresh butter." Heretofore the agency has confined its buying to fresh supplies.

The announcement caused a rush of buying in the Chicago Mercantile exchange futures market, with final gains about ½ cent a pound. The February delivery closed at 34⅛ cents. Storage supplies of butter are the largest on record this time of year.

RANK DEFENSE BONDS THE SAFEST AND BEST BUY FOR INVESTORS

Purchase of United States defense bonds as "the safest use to which the investor can place his money, and at the same time realize a larger return than possible from most other high grade bonds and stocks "was urged yesterday by one of the nation's large investment firms.

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane announced the opening of a defense bond purchase campaign in a letter to its customers

The income yield of defense bonds compares favorably with other types of securities, the firm asserted. For comparison the company listed Consolidated Gas of Baltimore first 4½s of 1954, which have a yield to maturity of 2.12 per cent, compared with 2.90 per cent for defense bonds, series E, costing $75 and maturing in 10 years at $100 value.

Conversion of the series E bonds into cash at the end of 4½ years would yield 1.55 per cent, compared with 1.09 to 1.35 per cent for other sound securities, the firm said.

NORTH AMERICAN AVIATION EARNS $1.77 PER SHARE

Reports for Nine Months; Sales Top 60 Millions.

North American Aviation, Inc., yesterday reported income before income and excess profits taxes of $16,008,677 and net earnings of $6,075,954 after these charges for the nine months ended last Sept. 30. This was equivalent to $1.77 a share. The company paid dividends of $2 a share in 1941.

North American announced it was changing its fiscal year to end Sept. 30. Net income for the calendar year 1940 was $7,090,336, or $2.06 a share. It listed sales for the nine months at $60,865,687.

The company makes fighter planes, trainers, and medium bombers for the United States and England. Plants are at Inglewood, Cal., and Dallas, Tex.

Air Associates Gains.

Air Associates, Inc., airplane parts and accessories maker which was taken over by the army for a time late last year because of strike troubles, earned a little more in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 than in the preceding year, the company reported.

Net income in the 1941 year was $456,555, equal to $3.35 a common share, compared with $409,265, or $3.50 a share, in the preceding year. Sales jumped to $7,410,746 from $4,065,112. The report was issued from company headquarters in Bendix, N. J.

Salem, O.

Mullins Manufacturing corporation, maker of metal stampings and related products, issued a preliminary report for the year ended Dec. 31 showing a rise in profit to $871,412, equal to $1.22 a common share, from $291,650, or 16 cents a share, in the preceding year.

The Kearney and Trecker corporation, one of the major machine tool makers, reported net income of $1,067,938, equal to $2.70 a share, for the quarter ended Dec. 31, the first period of its fiscal year. It was the first report by the company since distribution of its shares to the public, making comparisons with prior periods unavailable.

EXPECT CLOSER CHECK ON PRICE OF SCRAP STEEL

Surprise inspections of iron and steel scrap shipments to steel mills are expected to be accelerated soon by the Office of Price Administration to halt price ceiling evasions, scrap industry officials said yesterday.

John C. Weigel, regional OPA director, said numerous cases of alleged violations of the scrap price schedule are being investigated and that a staff of OPA inspectors has been operating for several weeks. When violations are discovered scrap dealers usually agree to refund the excess over the price ceiling. However, in a few cases the OPA has condemned publicly those scrap dealers who have refused to make refunds.

The spot inspections are intended to discourage upgrading scrap—placing a lower grade of scrap into a higher quality price bracket.

INTRODUCE BILL FOR NEW TYPE FEDERAL BONDS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—Legislation for issuance of nonnegotiable United States bonds to federal reserve banks and terminating the authorization for the treasury to issue other interest bearing obligations to commercial banks was introduced today by Rep. Wright Patman [D., Tex.].

The measure would authorize the secretary of the treasury to issue the new type bonds with Presidential approval, to meet any public expenditure authorized by law or to retire any outstanding obligations of the United States bearing interest, issued on a discount basis, or issued on a combination interest bearing and discount basis.

3 CHICAGOANS APPOINTED TO OPA POSITIONS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—The Office of Price administration today announced these appointments to its division of accounting, analysis and review.

Milton J. Howison, Chicago, for many years an industrial engineer and cost accountant with the Sense Engineering company, Pittsburgh, named to steel section.

John J. Madigan, Chicago, formerly secretary and treasurer of the Bay State Lumber company, Chicago, appointed to food section.

Walter Waltrip, Chicago, formerly with William Roy Carney, operator of middle western coal properties, appointed to the fuel section.

FOREIGN INQUIRY FOR FATS BOOSTS SOY BEAN PRICES

Futures Near Record Top; Grains Rise.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Foreign inquiry for domestic fats and oils stimulated buying of soy bean futures yesterday and prices advanced 1⅞ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade. The May contracts closed at $1.92, within 10 cents of the all-time high of last fall.

Futures have risen nearly 6½ cents a bushel in less than a week. Brokers said trading in the bean futures was comparatively light with bids at the advancing prices failing to uncover many offerings. The firmer cotton markets contributed to the advance.

Most Other Grains Rise.

Other grains with the exception of rye recorded fractional advances. Wheat was up ⅛ to ¼ cent with May at $1.30¾. Corn and oats advanced ⅛ to ⅜ cents and rye was ⅛ to ¼ cent a bushel lower. Lard closed 2½ cents per hundredweight lower to 5 cents higher.

A comparison of closing prices on May contracts:

	Yesterday	Monday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$1.30¾	$1.30⅝	$0.85⅝
Corn	.86	.85⅝	.62⅝
Oats	.59¼	.59	.35⅞
Rye	.83⅞	.84	.45
Soy beans	1.92	1.90¼	.95⅝

Russia was reported inquiring for fat backs, lard, and oils despite the fact United States stocks of fats and oils have been seriously depleted by the war. The Surplus Marketing association announced it had completed the purchase of 22,400,000 pounds of edible linseed oil for Russia.

Mexico Back in Market.

Mexico, which trade sources revealed as the purchaser of 7 million pounds of lard last week, is back in the market for additional supplies. Brokers said they do not look for much additional Mexican buying until next week, but expect Latin American nations to be steady customers from now on for lard, oils, meat, and other foods.

Cash grain dealers reported small purchases of corn from government stocks. Hedging of these purchases exerted some pressure on the futures. Some brokers expressed surprise at the way corn futures have held up, and even advanced in face of the heavy hedging pressure put on the market during the last few weeks.

RAILROADS LIFT BOND MARKET NOTCH HIGHER

New York, Jan. 20 (AP).—The bond market pulled itself a notch higher all along the line today under strong leadership of rails.

Evidence of widespread interest in low to medium priced carrier bonds was seen in the heavy turnover of nearly a dozen issues selling in a broad range of between 12 to 65. Today's favorites, all with sales in excess of $100,000, included Rock Island general 4s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Erie 4½s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s, Southern Pacific 4½s, and Wabash 4¼s.

SEC IS OPPOSED TO ANY INCREASE IN MEMBERSHIP

Leader Says Confusion Would Result.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission opposed today an Investment Bankers' association proposal for enlargement of the commission and longer tenure of office for its members.

John S. Fleek.

Ganson Purcell, new commission chairman, told the house interstate commerce committee that a reorganization would create confusion and would "encumber and delay" the commission.

The committee is studying a number of I. B. A. proposals for changes in the securities exchange act of 1934.

The suggestion that the commission membership be enlarged from five to nine was made by John S. Fleek of Cleveland, president of the I. B. A., who said it would relieve the load now carried by the commission and would result in greater efficiency. Under the I. B. A. suggestion the commission would split into panels or divisions to expedite its work.

The I. B. A. proposal also called for an increase to 10 years in the 5 year tenure of members and a salary increase from $10,000 to $15,000 annually. Fleek pointed to the rapid turnover in commission personnel and its heavy work load

Should the panel system be approved, Fleek said, "it might be desirable to transfer the administration of the public utility holding act to a separate body."

Purcell said the commission was convinced that any departmentalization of its work would produce great inefficiency and would jeopardize "consistency of administration."

"It is essential," he said, "that the commission act as a unit. The securities industry itself would be the first to suffer from any lack of coördination."

OPINIONS DIFFER ON PAID HEAD FOR GRAIN EXCHANGE

Fred H. Clutton Elected Secretary Again.

The proposal of Philip R. O'Brien, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, to put a full-time salaried executive at the head of the grain exchange, brought forth expressions of conflicting opinion from trade and La Salle street financial circles yesterday.

Fred H. Clutton.

Meanwhile, directors announced they had appointed Fred H. Clutton secretary of the exchange for his 15th consecutive term. William B. Bosworth was named assistant secretary for the 12th consecutive year.

Opinion of O'Brien.

O'Brien had told members of the exchange at their annual meeting Monday that "there is nothing wrong with the marketing facilities of the exchange, but there is a woeful weakness in its business management and its leadership."

He asserted that he believed that a paid executive could give the exchange better representation. He said he believed such a move would be economical and practical. The leader, he said, should be familiar with agriculture but chosen outside the grain trade.

"I would favor a paid president for the Board of Trade," commented Henry Stefany, resident manager of J. S. Bache & Co. "The New York Stock exchange has been rather successful with this arrangement."

"Big Step Forward."

William Reid, Bache partner in charge of the big brokerage firm's commodity division, said installation of a paid president would "be a big step forward. You get a lot better results from a man who can devote his full time to exchange affairs."

A resident partner of another big brokerage house said O'Brien's proposal was one that should be investigated thoroly, preferably by a committee representing the producer, grain handler, and risk bearer. He said the committee should be composed of the most representative men in the grain trade.

"The plan has merit," said George Booth, partner in Lamson Brothers & Co. "It should be given a lot of consideration. There are so many more duties for the executive of the exchange to assume that it is very difficult to get a man to make the sacrifice of his time as president."

Some members agreed with Harvey Williams of Harris, Upham & Co., who said that "we need to economize rather than to look for new forms of expense."

This advertisement is neither an offer to sell nor a solicitation of offers to buy any of these securities. The offering is made only by the Prospectus.

PUT 80 MILLION UTILITY BONDS ON SALE TODAY

81 Underwriters Offer Alabama Issue.

An underwriting group of 81 firms headed by the First Boston corporation and Bonbright & Co. will offer publicly today the 80 million dollar issue of Alabama Power company 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds, due Jan. 1, 1972. The bonds are priced at 101.75 per cent of face value plus accrued interest since Jan. 1.

The offering will represent the first large public utility bond issue marketed this year. Proceeds will be used, together with company funds and bank loans, for the redemption or provision for payment of the company's entire outstanding mortgage debt, aggregating $95,572,000, and two small issues of assumed municipal bonds.

Subsidiary of Commonwealth.

Alabama Power is a subsidiary of Commonwealth & Southern corporation, which is making a capital contribution to the subsidiary by surrendering for cancellation certain shares of Alabama Power preferred stock.

The Securities and Exchange commission yesterday gave conditional approval to the application of Public Service Company of Indiana for the sale of $42,000,000 of 30 year 3⅜ per cent first mortgage bonds and $10,000,000 of serial notes.

The conditions imposed were that a prior restriction on common stock dividends of the company be increased from $500,000 to $750,000 yearly and from a total cumulative amount of $5,000,000 to $7,500,000, and that the company retire an additional $1,750,000 of its outstanding indebtedness.

New York City Transaction.

Controler Joseph D. McGoldrick of New York City yesterday awarded 50 million dollars of city bonds to a group of banks headed by National City and Chase National. The group was the only bidder, paying 100.0938 per cent for 32 million dollars of serial bonds at an interest rate of 2.5 per cent and for 18 millions of assessment bonds as 2¼s. The interest cost to the city was 2.43987 per cent.

The bonds, which will mature from 1943 to 1972, were reoffered at prices to yield 0.60 to 2.65 per cent.

PERSONAL INCOME TAX—8.

After gross income has been determined, the next step in computing income tax is to list the various deductions allowed by law and subtract them from the gross income. The result will be net income for tax purposes.

The following deductions are among those permitted:

1. Contributions actually paid in the 1941 tax year to nonprofit charitable, religious, educational, welfare and scientific organizations. This includes churches and synagogues, the Red Cross, Salvation Army, USO, YMCA, Boy Scouts of America, community chests, hospitals, colleges and schools. Donations to war veteran associations are deductible, but contributions to domestic fraternal societies and orders are not unless the money is used for charitable, religious, educational or scientific purposes. Gifts to bar associations, social clubs and fraternities, political parties, lobby and propaganda groups and other organizations with specialized promotion interests are not deductible. Donations to beggars may not be taken off gross income. The total deduction for contributions must not exceed 15 per cent of net income before the deduction.

2. Interest paid on debts and mortgages in 1941. Interest on money borrowed to purchase tax exempt securities is not deductible, nor is interest paid on behalf of a relative or friend where there is no legal obligation to pay. The latter is considered a gift.

3. Taxes paid in 1941—if imposed directly upon the taxpayer. Deductible taxes include: federal taxes such as those on admission to theaters and night clubs, telegraph, cable and telephone messages and security transfers; state taxes such as income, property, sales and gasoline and license fees. Sales taxes may be taken off gross income only if paid by the taxpayer. In some states, Illinois for example, the sales tax is levied on the merchant and thus cannot be deducted by the consumer. Local improvement assessments and estate, gift and inheritance taxes are not deductible, nor are federal taxes on automobiles, gasoline, cigarets and liquor so far as the consumer is concerned. Employés may not deduct social security taxes.

4. Losses not compensated by insurance resulting from fire, theft, storm, casualty or shipwreck. The portion of the loss not covered by insurance may be taken as a deduction. The loss is allowed only in the year in which it was incurred, even if not discovered until later. Damages resulting from an automobile accident not caused by the taxpayers' negligence may be deducted to the extent not covered by insurance.

5. Bad debts which can be proved noncollectible. This applies to debts of both a personal and business nature. Any worthless portion of a debt may be deducted. It is advisable to charge off bad debts as soon as they are suspected of being worthless and after reasonable efforts to collect have been made.

Loans made to family members made with no hope or intention of obtaining repayment are not considered deductible as bad debts. Bad debts written off in one year and recovered in another are income.

[The above list of deductions is not complete. The Investors' Guide will answer individual questions by mail. The next article in this series will discuss deductions of a business nature.]

UNION FINANCES, BIG PROFITS HIT IN NAVY REPORT

Figures Are Revealed by House Committee.

competitive and negotiated contracts, all in excess of $1,000,000 and ranging up to more than $18,000,000, shows profits [estimated since the contracts are as yet uncompleted] ranging from 12 to 27 per cent.

"For example, on one competitive-bid contract amounting to $8,030,169, the company estimates that its profit will be $2,183,643, a profit of 27 per cent. On another competitive-bid contract amounting to $18,810,000, this company expects to realize a profit of $3,515,000, a profit of 18 per cent.

"Of the 15 contracts mentioned, the company anticipates profits in excess of $1,000,000 in the case of 7 contracts, the profits ranging in percentage from 13 to 26 per cent. By a renegotiated contract, a 5 per cent reduction has been made in 12 of these contracts, resulting in a saving of $4,592,225.

Bath Iron Works.

"Bath Iron Works, reporting on six completed and two uncompleted contracts, shows profits ranging from 8 to 29 per cent. The 8 per cent profit is anticipated as the contracts are as yet uncompleted. With reference to the six completed contracts, amounting in each instance to more than $4,900,000 [up to $5,500,000], the profit percentages are from 18 to 29 per cent and the profits range from $850,000 to $1,125,000 on individual contracts.

"The Bendix Aviation corporation, Eclipse Aviation division, expects to realize a profit of $375,688.88 on a $1,378,445 contract, a profit of 27 per cent. The Pioneer Instrument division of the same corporation on a contract amounting to $730,620 anticipates a profit of $225,246, which amounts to a 30.8 per cent profit.

"Bridgeport Brass company, which has reported on four contracts in excess of $500,000, reports profits, actual or estimated, of from 16 to 26 per cent. On one of these contracts, which amounts to $2,194,335, the company estimates a profit of $456,105—a 21 per cent profit.

Brewster Aeronautical Corporation.

"The Brewster Aeronautical corporation, on a contract amounting to $1,995,721, has realized a profit of $368,180, an 18 per cent profit.

"Maryland Drydock company listed one contract in the amount of $1,493,286 upon which it realized a profit of $460,011, amounting to 44.5 per cent.

"Todd Seattle Dry Docks, Inc., made a profit of $521,481, or 21.6 per cent, on one contract involving $2,931,285; upon another contract for $2,788,901 it reported a profit of $487,274, or 21.2 per cent.

"The George Pollock company, a construction company, realized a profit of $780,122 on a $2,556,590 contract for a breakwater, or a profit of 44 per cent."

Concentration of Contracts.

The committee noted a concentration of naval contracts with 10 companies. These firms were given practically 60 per cent of a total of $719,000,000 in completed contracts. The largest was the New York Shipbuilding corporation which reported contracts totaling $96,744,050, but an average gross profit of only 5 per cent.

But the trend is toward a higher percentage of profit and must be halted, the committee declared. The 10 companies referred to made an average profit of 5.74 per cent but on uncompleted contracts their contemplated profit averages 8.78 per cent.

The report gave some statistics on the extent of the nation's shipbuilding program since Jan. 1, 1940. From that date to Dec. 1, 56 combatant ships have been completed, 79 launched, and keels laid for 168.

The committee sent questionnaires to 7,121 naval contractors who are building ships, guns, naval bases, planes, torpedoes, and other items. The great majority coöperated with the committee but some ignored it, the report said. The investigation is not completed but will be continued in the field.

TESTIFY UTILITY GOT INSURANCE REBATES IN CASH

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 20 (AP).—An insurance agency executive, Mason Miller, told a federal District court jury today of rebating cash to representatives of the Union Electric Company of Missouri in connection with insurance transactions.

The company and its former president, Louis H. Egan, are on trial on charges of conspiracy and violations of the corrupt practices section of the holding company act.

Miss Dolores Beach, the insurance agency's cashier, later testified the amount rebated from 1932 to 1938, inclusive, was $100,756.49.

The prosecution contends this amount was part of a secret fund of more than 600 thousand dollars out of which Union Electric made contributions to political candidates and officeholders.

TAXABLE ESTATE OF LIVERMORE IS $361,010 IN RED

New York, Jan. 20 [Special].—A deficit of $361,010 in the taxable estate of Jesse L. Livermore, market speculator who shot himself in a New York hotel on Nov. 28, 1940, was disclosed today. An estate tax appraisal showed assets of $107,047, against debts of $463,517 and funeral and administration expenses of $4,540.

Altho there was no taxable estate, the papers showed that the widow, Mrs. Harriet Metz Livermore of Los Angeles, received insurance proceeds totaling $77,625 and that the two sons, Jesse L. Livermore Jr. of Kansas City, Mo., and Paul A. Livermore of Brooklyn, received trust funds worth $28,093 and $36,043, respectively.

Since they were named beneficaries, these sums were not available to satisfy claims of creditors of the estate, tax officials explained.

GASOLINE ALLEY—THE ROUNDUP

OF COURSE, MR. WICKER WILL BE AT THE HOMECOMING, DOC. HE WAS A FAVORITE OF SKEEZIX WHEN SKEEZIX WAS A LITTLE TYKE.
AND IT WOULDN'T BE COMPLETE WITHOUT YOUR MOTHER, WALT.
NOBODY KNOWS WHAT EVER BECAME OF MME. OCTAVE. SHE SHOULD BE INVITED IF WE COULD FIND HER, AVERY.
THEN THERE'S UNCLE JERRY AND LORA.
MAYBE WE COULD ROUND UP RACHEL AND MANDY AND PLATO AND ANTHRACITE TO SERVE THE REFRESHMENTS.
MISS BUDD, SKEEZIX'S FIRST TEACHER, IS OVER AT WYEVILLE.
SQUINT WILL COME NO MATTER WHERE WE LOCATE HIM. HE'S ONE OF THE OLD STANDBYS.
LOOKS LIKE WE'RE GOING TO HAVE A QUORUM, WALT.

NEAR NORTH SIDE

Why spend time commuting when you can live down here near the lake, and near so many interesting things, with just a nice walk to and from your office in the loop? We have little 2 bedroom shaggy roof peasant houses in a little slate paved court up on the second floor level. Heated and serviced like apartments. Also a cozy 2 room furnished studio. Also a 2 story balcony studio just flooded with light. Also a layout with living room over 30 ft. long, with windows at both ends, and skylight and fireplace; one large and two small bedrooms, and, just outside, a sunny roof all floored and ready for a roof garden next summer. Also a 6 room with sunny bay window living room. All with fireplaces, the comforts and pleasant surroundings that the Cook Estate offers.

We also have a group of handy men who can generally, at short notice, take care of some of your household troubles, such as plumbing, refrigeration, etc.

CLOSING THEOPHIL HERBST ESTATE.

COL. BOWDEN

Nationally Known Land Auctioneer
Will Sell a 240 Acre
GRUNDY COUNTY, ILL., FARM

at PUBLIC AUCTION

on the Premises at 1 P. M.
NEXT SATURDAY, JAN. 24

LOCATED 64 mi. from Chicago; 11 mi. to Morris, Ill., the county seat; 11 mi. to Dwight; 2½ mi. S. E. of Mazon; 1½ mi. E. of route 47. Follow Red Arrows from route 47 to the farm. This farm is known as a wonderful producer. 187 acres tillable, balance pasture; 10 a. of timber. Mazon river, famous for its splendid fish, flows through a small portion of this good farm, making this location a superior stock farm. The 187 acres is just about level; great for red clover and alfalfa; 6,000 bu. of corn this season.

BUILDINGS: Good 7 room modern bungalow; great basement barn, 150 t. hay capacity, making it a splendid cattle and dairy barn, nearly as good as new. It would cost $14,000 to build this barn today. Steer shed; poultry house; milk house; corn crib; hog houses; 2 wells of water. Near a large granary and elevator.

NOTICE: Don't fail to attend this sale. You may get the bargain of a lifetime. A 100% tenant is waiting to farm this place. Col. Bowden on the farm, Thursday and Friday P. M.

TERMS: 15% day of auction, balance on or before Mar. 2, 1942. If desired, a mortgage can be arranged.

INFORMATION: Col. Bowden, Box 386, Oak Park, Ill. Ph. Berwyn 7257. Chicago office, Central 4069. Or D. B. Hodell, Executor, Roanoke, Ill. Ph. 125.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Dr. Jekyll K. O.'s Mr. Hyde

THE DICKENS WITH HER! "CRAZY KATE" LOCO! COMPLETELY HAYWIRE! WHY SHOULD I BOTHER? ONLY MAKE A STAR-SPANGLED ASS OF MYSELF BEFORE THE WHOLE TOWN—
BUT WHAT DO I CARE WHAT PEOPLE THINK? AM I TO BE LED BY THE NOSE BY MY VANITY? SHALL THE OPINION OF THE MOB RULE ME, JUST BECAUSE IT RULES THE GREAT MAJORITY?
AM I AFRAID OF THE JEERS OF THE MOB? OF COURSE, I AM! ALL OF US ARE! BUT AM I TOO WEAK OR COWARDLY TO DEFY MOB OPINION, TO TRY TO HELP A POOR UNFORTUNATE? HA! LITTLE LORETTA—GAVE ME A FUNNY TURN—THOUGHT FOR A SECOND IT WAS LITTLE KATE, AND I WAS A KID AGAIN—"CRAZY KATE"—ANYBODY WHO FLOUTS CONVENTION, MOB-MADE RULES, IS 'CRAZY'—WELL, I'LL BE THAT KIND OF CRAZY—AND TWO MISFITS SHOULD HELP EACH OTHER!
